The University

Wake Forest University is characterized by its devotion to liberal learning and professional preparation for men and women, its strong sense of community and fellowship, and its encouragement of free inquiry and expression.

Founded in 1834 by the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, the school opened its doors on February 3 as Wake Forest Institute, with Samuel Wait as principal. It was located in Wake County, North Carolina, on the plantation of Calvin Jones, near which the village of Wake Forest later developed.

Rechartered in 1838 as Wake Forest College, it is one of the oldest institutions of higher learning in the state. It was exclusively a college of liberal arts for men until 1894, when the School of Law was established. The School of Medicine, founded in 1902, offered a two-year medical program until 1941. In that year, the school was moved from the town of Wake Forest to Winston-Salem, became associated with the North Carolina Baptist Hospital, and was renamed the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. In 1942, Wake Forest admitted women as regular undergraduate students.

A School of Business Administration was established in 1948. In 1969, the undergraduate school was succeeded by the Department of Business and Accountancy and the Department of Economics in Wake Forest College; at the same time the Babcock Graduate School of Management was established. In 1980, the undergraduate program in business and accountancy was reconstituted as the School of Business and Accountancy. The Division of Graduate Studies, established in 1961, is now organized as the Graduate School and encompasses advanced work in the arts and sciences on both the Reynolda and Hawthorne campuses in Winston-Salem.

In 1946, the trustees of Wake Forest College and the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina accepted a proposal by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation to relocate the non-medical divisions of the College to Winston-Salem. The late Charles H. Babcock and his wife, the late Mary Reynolds Babcock, contributed a campus site, and building funds were received from many sources. Between 1952 and 1956, the first fourteen buildings were erected in Georgian style on the new Winston-Salem campus. In 1956, the College moved all operations, leaving the 122-year-old campus in the town of Wake Forest to the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

In 1967, the College's augmented character was recognized by the change in name to Wake Forest University. Today, enrollment in all schools of the University stands at over 5,000. Governance remains in the hands of the board of trustees, and development for each of the six schools of the University is augmented by advisory boards of visitors. A joint board of University trustees and trustees of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital is responsible for the Medical Center, which includes the hospital and the medical school.

Wake Forest's relationship with the Baptist State Convention is an important part of the school's heritage. Wake Forest and the Convention have a fraternal, voluntary relationship under which Wake Forest is autonomous in governance.

The College, Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, Babcock Graduate School of Management, School of Law, and the Graduate School are located on the Reynolda Campus in northwest Winston-Salem. The Bowman Gray School of Medicine is about four miles away, near the city’s downtown, on what is known as the Hawthorne Campus. The University also offers instruction regularly at Casa Artom in Venice, at Worrell House in London, and in other places around the world.

The College offers courses in more than forty fields of study leading to the baccalaureate degree. The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offers courses of study leading to baccalaureate degrees in business and analytical finance and accounting; and a combination baccalaureate and master of science degree in accountancy through the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences of the University. The School of Law offers the juris doctor degree and the Babcock Graduate School of Management, the master of business administration degree. In addition to the doctor of medicine degree, the Bowman Gray School of Medicine offers, through the Graduate School, programs leading to the master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees in biomedical sciences. The Graduate School confers the master of arts, master of arts in education, master of arts in liberal studies, and master of science degrees in the arts and sciences and the doctor of philosophy degree in biology, chemistry, and physics.

Buildings and Grounds

The Reynolda Campus of Wake Forest is situated on approximately 340 acres; its physical facilities consist of over thirty buildings, most of which are of modified Georgian architecture and constructed of Old Virginia brick trimmed in granite and limestone. The Reynolda Gardens annex, consisting of about 150 acres and including Reynolda Woods, Reynolda Village, and Reynolda Gardens, is adjacent to the campus. The Graylyn International Conference Center, an educational conference center, is nearby.

Wait Chapel, named in memory of the first president of the College, seats 2,300. The Wait Chapel tower contains the Janet Jeffrey Carlisle Harris Carillon, an instrument of forty-eight bells. Wingate Hall, named in honor of President Washington Manly Wingate, houses the Department of Religion, the offices of the University chaplaincy and the Wake Forest Baptist Church, and other classrooms and offices.

Reynolda Hall, across the upper plaza from Wait Chapel, houses most of the administrative offices for the Reynolda Campus as well as the Computer and Microcomputer Centers. The Benson University Center is the central hub for student activities and events. The Z. Smith Reynolds Library and its Edwin Graves Wilson Wing house the main collection of books and documents on the Reynolda Campus. Along with eight floors of open stacks, with a capacity for over 1,000,000 volumes, it has reading and reference rooms for study. Carswell Hall houses the Departments of Economics, Sociology and Speech Communication.

Winston Hall houses biology and psychology; Salem Hall, the chemistry department. Both buildings have laboratories as well as classrooms and special research facilities. The Olin Physical Laboratory is the facility for the physics department. Harold W. Tribble Hall accommodates primarily humanities departments, and has seminar rooms, a philosophy library, and a larger lecture area, DeTamble Auditorium. The Museum of Anthropology houses the anthropology department and the Museum. The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy and the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science are in Calloway Hall.

The James R. Scales Fine Arts Center is of contemporary design appropriate to the functions of studio art, theater, musical and dance performances, and instruction in art history, drama, and music. Off its lobby is a large gallery for special exhibitions. In the art wing are spacious studios for drawing, painting, sculpture, and printmaking, along with a smaller gallery and classrooms. In the theater wing are design and production areas and two technically complete theaters, the larger of traditional proscenium design and the smaller for experimental ring productions. The music wing contains Brendle Recital Hall for concerts and lectures, classrooms, practice rooms for individuals and groups, and the offices of the music department.

The Worrell Professional Center for Law and Management houses the School of Law and Babcock Graduate School of Management under one roof.

The William N. Reynolds Gymnasium has classrooms for instruction in health and sport science, courts for indoor sports, a swimming pool, and offices for the Departments of Health and Sport Science and Military Science. Adjacent are tennis courts, sports fields, the Campus Stadium, an Indoor Tennis Center, and the Athletic Center for intercollegiate athletics.

The Wake Forest campus has a wide variety of housing options available to students. There is one residence hall which houses only male students: Taylor House. Two residence halls house only female students: Babcock and Bostwick halls. Collins Hall, Davis House, Efird Hall, Huffman Hall, Johnson Hall, Kitchin House, Luter Hall, North Hall, Palmer Hall, Piccolo Hall, Poteat House, and the Student Apartments are coeducational by floor, wing, or apartment. Substance-free living environments are available in most residence halls. First-year students live in Bostwick, Collins, Huffman, Johnson, Kitchin, Palmer, Piccolo, and Taylor. Upper class students may choose to live in one of a variety of theme houses including the Fine Arts House, French House, German House, NIA House, Russian House, and WAKE Radio House, or others that are currently being developed. Student housing is available in the townhouse apartments and several small houses owned by the University. On the edge of the main campus are apartments for faculty and staff, as well as graduate students.

Computer Center

The Computer Center supports University instruction, research, and administrative needs. The University has five mainframe computers. A Hewlett-Packard Series 3000/948 is used for the administrative process of the University. Academic and library computing use two Hewlett-Packard Series 9000/852 computers, an HP 9000/G60 and an HP 9000/E25, all running the Unix Operating System. The computers are available twenty-four hours a day by dial-in modems, from workstations in the micro-computer labs, and across the campus network.

All students on the Reynolda Campus are given a login ID on the academic computer, and the login is maintained as long as the student is enrolled. This single account provides students access to electronic mail, programming languages, and software packages. There is no charge to students for computing either on the mainframe or in the microcomputer labs.

Computer languages available include FORTRAN77, COBOL 85, Pascal and C. Statistical packages such as SPSSX, BMDP, SAS, and Minitab can be used for data analysis, forecasting, and financial modeling. Maple, a symbolic algebra package, is a new addition to the software. DISSPLA, a powerful graphics package, is available on the mainframe.

Microcomputer software available includes HARVARD GRAPHICS, LOTUS 1-2-3, Aldus FreeHand and Persuasion, Digital Darkroom, Microsoft Word, WordPerfect, and SIMSCRIPT/SIMGRAPH, simulation and modeling software. Output also can be sent to a laser printer.

Many departments on campus have their own computing resources in addition to those available through the Computer Center. For example, Physics and Chemistry share a DEC Alpha Computing Cluster interconnected via a high speed FDDI, and those departments and Mathematics and Computer Science have Sun workstations. The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy and the Department of Education have their own microcomputer labs.

Wake Forest has access to computing resources outside the University. The University is a member of the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR), located at the University of Michigan. Membership in ICPSR provides faculty and students with access to a large library of data files, including public opinion surveys, cross-cultural data, financial data, and complete census data. The University is a member of EDUCOM, a national consortium of colleges and universities concerned with computing issues.

Wake Forest belongs to the Internet, an international network used to send electronic mail, as well as log on and transfer files to and from remote computers. Wake Forest has access to a CRAY supercomputer through the Microelectronics Center in the Research Triangle.

The Computer Center supports and maintains the University's high speed, 100 megabit FDDI campus network. This network currently connects most academic and administrative buildings and provides robust interconnectivity for independent building Ethernet networks.

There are eight general purpose microcomputer labs available for student use, supporting both Mac and Intel-based '486 computers. The labs are connected to the campus network and have full access to University-supported software and the Internet. Students have access to software such as WordPerfect, DeltaGraph, Microsoft Word, MacPaint, SPSS, Telnet, Mail, News, Xwindows and Mosaic directly from any of the labs.

Each lab has either a dot matrix printer or a laser printer. The laser printers are available on a purchased copy basis. Students may print to the central laser printers from any lab without charge. Five of the labs are available 24 hours per day. All but one of those labs are accessible through a card entry system. The Computer Support Center, located in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library, is staffed with microcomputer assistants, Mon.-Thurs. 8:30 a.m.-midnight; Fri. 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.; Sat. noon-5 p.m.; Sun. noon-midnight.

The Computer Center provides assistance by telephone and supports walk-in customers during normal business hours. The Computer Center also supports an extensive Online Information System which includes documentation, class schedules, University-wide activity calendars, and the electronic version of the Old Gold and Black. Extensive use is made of software such as Gopher, World Wide Web, and Mosaic to provide an integrated and accessible information environment for faculty, staff and students.

Microcomputer Center

The Microcomputer Center provides sales and service of personal computers, peripherals and software to full-time students, faculty, and staff. Wake Forest has educational and volume discount contracts with Apple Computer, Gateway Computer Systems, and IBM, and a variety of peripheral and software vendors. Sales consultants are available to assist with the selection and purchase of systems.

The Microcomputer Center is an authorized warranty repair center for Apple and Gateway products purchased through the University. The technical staff provides assistance with installation and service questions, and performs on-campus maintenance of equipment purchased from the University.

Communications Services

Communications Services provides telephone and cable television services to the students, faculty, and staff of Wake Forest University. All residence hall rooms are equipped with telephone jacks and cable TV connections. Local dial service for the campus and Winston-Salem area is provided as part of the housing package. Students who wish to place long distance calls over the University network can apply for services at the Telecommunications Department located in Room 23, Reynolda Hall.

Cable television, while providing a recreational outlet, plays an important role by providing access to campus information and educational offerings. Cable channel 2 is the Wake Forest University information channel, providing information and a calendar of campus events. WAKE Radio, a student-run station, provides background music for this channel. Channel 17 carries SCOLA, which provides domestic and foreign educational programming.

Libraries

The libraries of Wake Forest University support instruction and research at the undergraduate level and in the disciplines awarding graduate degrees. The libraries of the University hold membership in the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries and rank among the top schools in the Southeast in library expenditures per student.

Facilities in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library, which have recently been augmented by an addition, include an Information Technology Center with multimedia viewing and editing and a Macintosh lab for student use. All-night study rooms are available to students with a key-card. Group study rooms are provided for student use. A new Professional Center Library, combining the Law Library and the Babcock Management Library, is housed in the Worrell Professional Center, which opened in 1993.

The libraries share an online catalog which may be consulted at terminals in the buildings, from the campus network or remotely through a modem. The Reference Department of the Z. Smith Reynolds Library provides a complete range of reference services including online searching, tours, first-year student orientation, presentation to individual classes, and assistance with directed and independent studies. Reference tools are available in electronic and print formats. Interlibrary loan service is available for Wake Forest students, faculty, and staff. Books, photocopies, and other materials may be borrowed from other libraries at no charge. The reference staff oversees the operation of a telefacsimile machine which sends and receives printed information.

The Wake Forest libraries hold over one million volumes in print, many thousands of subscriptions to periodicals and serials, over one and a half million microforms, more than 150,000 government documents, as well as a growing video collection.

Special collections in the Reynolds Library include the Rare Books Collections and the Ethel Taylor Crittenden Baptist Historical Collection. The Rare Books collection, greatly enhanced by the donation of rare and fine books of the late Charles H. Babcock, emphasizes American and British authors of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Among such collections are those of Mark Twain, Gertrude Stein, William Butler Yeats and T.S. Eliot. There is also an extensive Anglo-Irish literature collection. The Baptist Historical Collection contains significant books, periodicals, manuscripts, and church records relating to North Carolina Baptists as well as a collection of the personal papers of prominent ministers, educators and government officials. The Wake Forest College/University Archive is also maintained in this area.

Recognition and Accreditation

Wake Forest College was first accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the regional accrediting agency, in 1921. The reaccreditation of 1965 included the master's and doctoral degree programs in the Division of Graduate Studies. The University's accreditation was last reaffirmed in December 1987.

The Bowman Gray School of Medicine is a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges and is on the approved list of the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association. The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is listed as an approved school by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association and by the Board of Law Examiners and the Council of the North Carolina State Bar. The Babcock Graduate School of Management and the School of Business and Accountancy are accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. The program in counseling leading to the master of arts in education degree is accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Wake Forest University is a member of many of the major institutional organizations and associations at the national, regional, and statewide levels, including the following: the American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the Southern Universities Conference, the Council of Southern Graduate Schools, the North Carolina Association of Colleges and Universities, and the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities. In addition, many offices of the University are members of associations which focus on particular aspects of university administration.

Wake Forest has chapters of the principal national social fraternities and sororities, professional fraternities, and honor societies, including Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. There is an active chapter of the American Association of University Professors on campus.

The Undergraduate Schools

There are two undergraduate schools at Wake Forest University: Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. The undergraduate schools are governed by the board of trustees, the University administration, and by their respective faculties. Responsibility for academic administration is delegated by the president and trustees to the provost, who is the chief academic officer of the University. Collaborating with the provost is the associate provost. The deans of the schools report to the provost and are responsible for academic planning and administration for their schools. Collaborating with the undergraduate deans are four associate deans of the College and two assistant deans of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Wake Forest College

Wake Forest College is the undergraduate school of arts and sciences of Wake Forest University. It is the center of the University's academic life; through it, the University carries on the tradition of preparing men and women for personal enrichment, enlightened citizenship, and professional life.

Wake Forest College is a place of meeting. Its teachers and students are of diverse backgrounds and interests, and that diversity is crucial to the distinctive character of the College. Wake Forest continually examines its educational purpose and evaluates its success in fulfilling it. A formal statement of purpose was prepared as part of the school's decennial reaccreditation process and was adopted by the Board of Trustees.

Purpose

Following is the official statement of purpose of Wake Forest College.

Statement of Purpose

Wake Forest is a university dedicated to the pursuit of excellence in the liberal arts and in graduate and professional education. Its distinctiveness in its pursuit of its mission derives from its private, coeducational, and residential character; its size and location; and its Baptist affiliation. Each of these factors constitutes a significant aspect of the unique character of the institution.

The University is now comprised of six constituent parts: two undergraduate institutions, Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy; the Graduate School; and three professional schools: the School of Law, the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, and the Babcock Graduate School of Management. It seeks to honor the ideals of liberal learning, which entail commitment to transmission of cultural heritages; teaching the modes of learning in the basic disciplines of human knowledge; developing critical appreciation of moral, aesthetic, and religious values; advancing the frontiers of knowledge through in-depth study and research; and applying and using knowledge in the service of humanity.

Wake Forest has been dedicated to the liberal arts for over a century and a half; this means education in the fundamental fields of human knowledge and achievement, as distinguished from education that is technical or narrowly vocational. It seeks to encourage habits of mind that ask "why," that evaluate evidence, that are open to new ideas, that attempt to understand and appreciate the perspectives of others, that accept complexity and grapple with it, that admit error, and that pursue truth. Wake Forest College has by far the largest student body in the University, and its function is central to the University's larger life. The College and the Graduate School are most singularly focused on learning for its own sake; they therefore serve as exemplars of specific academic values in the life of the University.

Beginning as early as 1894, Wake Forest accepted an obligation to provide professional training in a number of fields, as a complement to its primary mission of liberal arts education. This responsibility is fulfilled in the conviction that the humane values embodied in the liberal arts are also centrally relevant to the professions. Professional education at Wake Forest is characterized by a commitment to ethical and other professional ideals that transcend technical skills. Like the Graduate School, the professional schools are dedicated to the advancement of learning in their fields. In addition, they are specifically committed to the application of knowledge to solving concrete problems of human beings. They are strengthened by values and goals which they share with the College and Graduate School, and the professional schools enhance the work of these schools and the University as a whole by serving as models of service to humanity.

Wake Forest was founded by private initiative, and ultimate decision-making authority lies in a privately appointed Board of Trustees rather than in a public body. "Funded to a large extent from private sources of support, [Wake Forest] is determined to chart its own course in the pursuit of its goals. As a coeducational institution it seeks to 'educate together' persons of both sexes and from a wide range of backgrounds—racial, ethnic, religious, geographical, socio-economic, and cultural... Its residential features are conducive to learning and to the pursuit of a wide range of co-curricular activities. It has made a conscious choice to remain small in overall size; it takes pride in being able to function as a community rather than a conglomerate. Its location in the Piedmont area of North Carolina engenders an ethos that is distinctively Southern, and more specifically North Carolinian... As it seeks further to broaden its constituency and to receive national recognition, it is also finding ways to maintain the ethos associated with its regional roots."

Wake Forest is proud of its Baptist and Christian heritage. For more than a century and a half, it has provided the University an indispensable basis for its mission and purpose, enabling Wake Forest to educate thousands of ministers and laypeople for enlightened leadership in their churches and communities. Far from being exclusive and parochial, this religious tradition gives the University roots that ensure its lasting identity and branches that provide a supportive environment for a wide variety of faiths. The Baptist insistence on both the separation of church and state and local autonomy has helped to protect the University from interference and domination by outside interests, whether these be commercial, governmental, or ecclesiastical. The Baptist emphasis upon revealed truth enables a strong religious critique of human reason, even as the claims of revelation are put under the scrutiny of reason. The character of intellectual life at Wake Forest encourages open and frank dialogue and provides assurance that the University will be ecumenical and not provincial in scope, and that it must encompass perspectives other than the Christian. Wake Forest thus seeks to maintain and invigorate what is noblest in its religious heritage.

History and Development

Since 1834, Wake Forest College has developed its distinctive pattern of characteristics: tenacity, independence, a fierce defense of free inquiry and expression, and a concern that knowledge be used responsibly and compassionately. That these characteristics have served the school well is displayed by its growth from a small sectarian school to one of the nation's significant small private universities.

A brief history of Wake Forest is useful in understanding the University as it is today and appreciating the process through which it developed.

Procedures

All students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with the portions of this bulletin which pertain to their course of study. Statements concerning courses and expenses are not to be regarded as irrevocable contracts between the student and the institution. The University reserves the right to change the schedule of classes and the cost of instruction at any time within the student's term of residence.

Admission

Candidates for admission must furnish evidence of maturity and educational achievement. The Committee on Admissions carefully considers the applicant's academic records, scores on tests, and evidence of character, motivation, goals, and general fitness for study in the College. The applicant's secondary school program must establish a commitment to the kind of broad liberal education reflected in the academic requirements of the College.

Admission as a first-year student normally requires graduation from an accredited secondary school with a minimum of sixteen units of high school credit. These should include four units in English, three in mathematics, two in history and social studies, two in a single foreign language, and one in the natural sciences. An applicant who presents at least twelve units of differently distributed college preparatory study can be considered. A limited number of applicants may be admitted without the high school diploma, with particular attention given to ability, maturity, and motivation.

All persons admitted are required to submit a health history, along with the results of a physical examination, certain laboratory tests, and immunization records to the director of the Student Health Service. If a person who has been accepted but has not yet enrolled has or develops a health problem which, in the judgment of the director of the health service, creates a danger to the safety and well-being of the student or others, that person may be required to delay matriculation until the problem is resolved.

North Carolina law and Wake Forest University require that all new, transfer, readmit, unclassified or visiting students submit proof of immunization against tetanus and diphtheria (Td), polio, rubeola, rubella, and mumps before registration. The Student Handbook has a detailed statement. A certificate from the student's high school, physician, or county health department director containing the approved dates is acceptable proof of immunization. The Student Health Service will furnish a form for this purpose. North Carolina law requires that students who do not submit proper proof of immunization within thirty days of enrollment cannot attend Wake Forest University until these immunizations have been documented.

Application

An application is secured from the Office of Admissions in person or by mail (Box 7305 Reynolda Station, Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27109-7305). It should be completed and returned to that office no later than January 15 for the fall semester. Most admissions decisions for the fall semester are made by April 1, with prompt notification of applicants.

For the spring semester, applications should be completed and returned no later than November 15. Except in emergency, the final date for applying for the fall semester is August 1 and for the spring semester, January 1. Application on this last-date basis is primarily for nonresident students.

Wake Forest accepts the Common Application in lieu of its own form and gives equal consideration to both. Students may obtain copies of the Common Application from their high schools.

The admission application requires records and recommendations directly from secondary school officials. It also requires test scores, preferably from the senior year, on the SAT I: Reasoning Test of The College Board. SAT II: Subject Test scores are optional. All test scores should be sent directly to the University by Educational Testing Service. A $25 fee to cover the cost of processing must accompany an application. It cannot be applied to later charges for accepted students or refunded for others. The University reserves the right to reject any application without explanation.

A $200 admission deposit is required of all students accepted and must be sent to the Office of Admissions no later than May 1 following notice of acceptance. It is credited toward first semester fees and is non-refundable. Students notified of acceptance after May 1 for the fall semester or November 1 for the spring semester should make a non-refundable admission deposit within two weeks of notification. Failure to make the admission deposit is taken as cancellation of application by the student. No deposit is required for summer session enrollment.

Early Decision

An early decision plan is available to well-qualified high school students who decide, by the close of their junior year, to apply only to Wake Forest University. An early decision agreement is required with the application, which is sent to the Office of Admissions after completion of the junior year and not later than November 15 of the senior year. Along with the high school record, recommendations, and scores on the SAT I: Reasoning Test, at least one SAT II: Subject Test (preferably the SAT II Writing Test) is recommended.

Candidates for early decision are normally expected to have completed, or be enrolled in courses to complete, all the natural science, foreign language, literature, and mathematics requirements of the secondary school. Decisions are based upon junior year grades and test scores; SATs taken in the fall of the senior year cannot be considered for early decision.

Early decision applicants with completed applications are notified of acceptance on a rolling basis and not later than December 15 for the fall semester, and the non-refundable admission deposit is required by January 1. Applicants not admitted are asked to submit a senior year Scholastic Aptitude Test score and first semester senior year grade record, or are advised to apply elsewhere.

Admission of Handicapped Students

Wake Forest College will consider the application of any qualified student, regardless of handicap, on the basis of the selection criteria established by the University which include personal and academic merit. Upon matriculation, all students will be required to meet the same standards for graduation. Programs at Wake Forest are accessible to all of its students. The University will assist handicapped students in making arrangements to meet special needs. Students who seek further information should consult the Office of Admissions or the University's equal opportunity officer.

Advanced Placement and CLEP

Advanced placement credit for college level work done in high school is available on the basis of the Advanced Placement Examination of The College Board and supplementary information. Especially well-qualified applicants for advanced standing may also be exempt from some basic and divisional courses with credit on the authorization of the department concerned. Credit by advanced standing is treated in the same manner as credit transferred from another college.

Under certain conditions, especially well-prepared applicants may be granted limited college credit through the subject tests of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) of the Educational Testing Service. Such credit may be assigned with the approval of the department concerned or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Admission of Transfer Students

The number of transfer students who can be admitted each year depends upon the availability of space in the first-year (second semester), sophomore, and junior classes. An applicant for admission who has attended another college must be a graduate of a standard junior college or furnish a certificate of honorable dismissal stating eligibility in all respects to enter the college last attended, and must have an overall average of at least C on all college work attempted. A student who is admitted from another college before fully meeting the prescribed admissions requirements for entering first-year students must remove the entrance conditions during the first year at Wake Forest.

The writing of transfer students is evaluated during the orientation period each semester, and students whose writing is deficient are given a composition condition. For removal of a composition condition the student is required to take English 11 during the first semester for which he or she registers following the assignment of the cc. Removal of the deficiency is prerequisite to graduation.

Courses satisfactorily completed in other accredited colleges are accepted subject to faculty approval. In general, no credit is allowed for courses not found in the Wake Forest curriculum. The minimum residence requirement for a baccalaureate degree is two academic years, the senior and one other.

Expenses

Statements concerning expenses are not to be regarded as forming an irrevocable contract between the student and the University. The costs of instruction and other services outlined herein are those in effect on the date of publication of this bulletin, and the University reserves the right to change without notice the cost of instruction and other services at any time.

An admission deposit of $200, which is applied toward tuition and fees for the semester for which the student has been accepted, is required to complete admission. Charges are due in full on August 1 for the fall semester and December 15 for the spring semester. Faculty regulations require that student accounts be settled in full before the student is entitled to receive a grade report, transcript, or diploma, or to register for the following semester or term.

Tuition

	Per Semester	Per Year
Full-time (twelve or more credits)	$7,375	$14,750
Part-time	$420 per credit

Students should expect an average increase of about eight percent yearly in tuition. However, admittance to the undergraduate college is not based on financial resources. The University meets the demonstrated financial needs of all qualified students.

Students enrolled in the College or in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy for full-time residence credit are entitled to full privileges regarding libraries, laboratories, athletic contests, concerts, publications, the Student Union, the University Theater, and the health service. Part-time students are entitled to the use of the libraries and laboratories but not to the other privileges mentioned above. They may secure a part-time student ID card, admissions to games and concerts, and publications by paying an activity fee of $166 per semester.

Room Charges

	Per Semester	Per Year
Double occupancy	$1,300	$2,600

Most first-year students will pay either $1,075 or $1,300 per semester depending upon room assignment location. Other room rentals range from $890 to $1,380.

Food Services

A cafeteria and table service dining room are located in Reynolda Hall; there is a food court in the Benson University Center. Board plans are available which range from $1,600 to $2,600 per year. The format of these plans is a credit card system in which the student is charged only for the amount of food purchased at the time it is purchased. The plan may be used at any University food services facility, and it allows a great deal of flexibility for eating off campus.

First-year students living in residence halls are required to participate in both the fall and spring semesters in one of the board plans.

Other Charges

Admission application fee of $25 is required with each application for admission to cover the cost of processing and is nonrefundable.

Admission deposit of $200 is required of each student entering for the first time or returning after a period of non-attendance and must be sent to the director of admissions. The deposit is credited to the student's charges for the semester for which he or she has been accepted for admission.

Individual instruction music fees are required in addition to tuition for students enrolling for individual study in applied music in the Department of Music and are payable in the controller's office. The fee for one credit per semester is $110; for more than one credit per semester, $175.

Hospital charges, made when the student is confined to the Student Health Service, are $100 per day. Additional charges are made for medications, laboratory tests, and special supplies. Students must have hospital insurance. A group plan is available through the University for those not covered by a family plan.

Late registration fee of $10 is charged to students registering after the dates set by the faculty.

Library fines are charged for lost books and for violation of other library regulations and are payable in the library.

A tuition deposit of $200 is required, at a date set by the Office of the Controller, of students enrolled in the spring semester who expect to return for the fall semester. It is credited to the student's University charges and is non-refundable.

Room change fee of $25 is charged for any unauthorized change.

Motor vehicle registration is $60 and traffic fines are $20 to $50. All students operating a vehicle on campus (including student apartments, theme, and satellite houses) must register vehicles they are operating day or night, whether or not owned by the operator. All vehicle registrations must be completed within twenty-four hours from the first time the vehicle is brought to campus or the next business day. Proof of ownership must be presented to verify a license plate when applying for vehicle registration. Fines are assessed against students violating parking regulations; copies of the violations are obtainable from the Office of Parking Management. Please inform your visitors of parking rules and regulations.

Transcripts of a student's record are issued at a cost of $4 each.

Refunds

During the academic year, students, full-time and part-time, who do not receive Title 4 federal financial aid receive tuition refunds according to the following schedule. This policy applies to students dropping courses as well as those withdrawing. Withdrawals must be official and students must return their ID cards before claiming refunds. There is no refund of room rent or parking decals that have been placed on vehicles.

Number of Weeks Attendance (Including first day of registration)	Percentage of Total Tuition to be Refunded
1 week	Total tuition less $200
2 weeks	75 percent
3 weeks	50 percent
4 weeks	25 percent

Fees for individual instruction in the Department of Music will be refunded on the following basis: If a student drops the course before the fifth lesson, the fee will be one-fourteenth the full semester's instruction fee times the number of lessons the student has had. There is no refund after the fifth lesson.

Based on the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended by Congress in July 1992, and upon the regulations issued by the U.S. Department of Education with an effective date of November 29, 1994, two special refund conditions now apply instead of the normal refund policy. These conditions apply only to recipients of Title 4 (federal) financial aid: Pell Grants, SEOG, FWS, Perkins Loans, Stafford Loans, and PLUS Loans. For purposes of determining inclusion of a student in the special group for refund calculation, Wake Forest defines "recipient" to include all students who have submitted an official federal output document to the University and have been awarded federal aid under one of the above programs, regardless of whether funds have actually been disbursed at the time of withdrawal.

Title 4 recipients who are enrolled at Wake Forest for the first time during the semester of their withdrawal will have the refund amount calculated and distributed according to the pro-rata refund policy outlined below. All other withdrawing Title 4 recipients will have a refund calculated under the requirements of 668.22(d) of federal refund regulations, modified in week one in order to make it in every case equal to or larger than normal WFU refund policy, and distributed according to the distribution policy outlined below.

In making the required refund calculations, initial refunds are reduced by "unpaid scheduled cash payments" as shown on the worksheets. In calculating this data element, any state aid from NCLTG or NC SCSF will be net amounts remaining after appropriate refunds to those programs are made under normal WFU tuition refund policy.

Pro-Rata Refund

Unearned tuition, room rent, and meal plan charges, less any unpaid scheduled cash payment by the student, will be refunded based upon the number of weeks of enrollment, according to federal regulations. After 60 percent of the semester has ended, no refund will be made other than unused board. The percentage of charges refunded is calculated by the number of weeks remaining in the semester, rounded down to the nearest 10%. The semester is 16 academic weeks long, beginning on the first day of classes. A week is a period of 7 days, during which at least one day is devoted to class, examinations, or preparation for examinations. Only full weeks are considered as part of the period remaining. Thus:

Withdrawal occurs within: Refund this percentage of tuition, room rent, and meal plan charges, less any unpaid scheduled cash payment due from the student:

Week 1	90%
Week 2	80%
Week 3	80%
Week 4	70%
Week 5	60%
Week 6	60%
Week 7	50%
Week 8	50%
Week 9	40%
Week 10 and after	0%

Federal Refund Calculation

Refundable charges under federal rule 668.22(d) are unearned tuition and unused board. Room rentals are not refundable after classes begin, since cancellation of room rents must occur prior to the opening of classes in order for rents to be refunded.

Withdrawal occurs Refund this percentage of tuition plus unused board:

1 week	Tuition less $200
2 weeks	90%
4 weeks	50%

Distribution Requirements

After determining total refund amount, the refund is applied first to financial aid programs and then any remaining funds are refunded to the student. Aid programs are reimbursed, up to the full amount disbursed to the student's account from each, in the following precise order:

- Unsubsidized Federal Stafford Loans (WFU check to lender)
- Subsidized Federal Stafford Loans (WFU check to lender)
- Federal PLUS Loans (WFU check to lender)
- Federal Perkins Loans
- Federal Pell Grants
- Federal SEOG Grants
- Other Title 4 aid (i.e., NCSIG, etc.)

If any amount of the calculated refund amount remains after federal Title 4 aid program refund requirements are satisfied, it will be paid into Wake Forest aid programs, up to the amount disbursed to the student for each. The order in which each Wake Forest program of aid is refunded will be determined on a case by case basis by the financial aid office, with the guiding principle being to refund to those University accounts most likely to be used by other students in future terms.

If any amount of the calculated refund amount remains after Wake Forest aid program refund requirements are satisfied, it will be paid to satisfy any specific federal or private program requirements; if no such requirements exist, the remaining portion will be paid to the student.

Questions should be directed to student accounts in the controller's office.

Housing

All unmarried first-year students are required to live in the residence halls, except (1) when permission is given by the dean of student services for the student to live with parents or a relative in the Winston-Salem area; (2) by special arrangement when space is not available on campus; (3) the student is admitted as a day student; or (4) if the student has lost residence hall space because of a Residence Halls Agreement violation or disciplinary action. Fifth-year and part-time students are ineligible for campus housing except when permitted to do so by the assistant director of residence life and housing for facilities and operations. Married students are not permitted to live within the residence halls. Residence halls are supervised by the director of residence life and housing, associate and assistant directors of residence life and housing, and professional and graduate student hall directors.

The charges for residence hall rooms for 1995-96 will range from approximately $2,040 per year for a triple room to $2,760 for a single room in an air-conditioned building. These rates will vary depending upon the building to which a student is assigned.

Academic Calendar

The academic calendar of the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy includes a fall semester beginning in late August and ending before Christmas, a spring semester beginning in January and ending in May, and two five-week summer sessions. Semesters usually last fifteen weeks.

Orientation and Advising

A five-day orientation period for new students in the College precedes registration for the fall semester. A faculty adviser and an upperclass student provide guidance during and between registration periods throughout the student's first and second years. Advisers meet with students both individually and in small groups. Students are encouraged to take the initiative in arranging additional meetings at any time they feel a need for advice or other assistance. The adviser suggests and approves courses of instruction until the student declares a major(s) in a field of study toward the end of the second year. At that time, a new adviser is assigned from the department or departments concerned.

Registration

A registration period for all students in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy opens the fall semester and the spring semester. Registration involves (1) payment of all tuition and fees in full to the controller, (2) obtaining a summary of prior record from the registrar, (3) consultation with the academic adviser, and (4) sectioning into courses. In certain semesters, part of the process is accomplished ahead of time through preregistration.

Classification

Classification of students by class standing and as full-time or part-time is calculated in terms of credits. Most courses in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy have a value of four credits, but others vary from one credit to five. The normal load for a full-time student is eighteen credits per semester, with a maximum of twenty permitted on registration day. A student wishing to register for more than twenty credits per semester must seek the permission of the academic adviser and the appropriate dean after registration day.

Twelve credits per semester constitute minimum full-time registration. (Recipients of North Carolina Legislative Tuition Grants must be enrolled by the tenth day of classes for at least fourteen credits each semester. Recipients of veterans' benefits, grants from state government, and other governmental aid must meet the guidelines of the appropriate agencies.) A student may not register for fewer than twelve credits without specific permission from the Committee on Academic Affairs to register as a part-time student.

A full-time student in the fall semester of any year may not be a part-time student in the spring semester immediately following. Any student who petitions for part-time status within the semester in which he or she wishes to gain such status is not eligible for a tuition refund.

The requirements for classification after the first year are as follows: sophomore—the removal of all entrance conditions and the completion of no fewer than 29 credits toward a degree, with a minimum of 58 grade points; junior—the completion of no fewer than 60 credits toward a degree, with a minimum of 120 grade points; senior—no fewer than 108 credits toward a degree, with a minimum of 216 grade points.

Class Attendance

Attendance regulations place the responsibility for class attendance on the student, who is expected to attend classes regularly and punctually. A vital aspect of the residential college experience is attendance in the classroom; its value cannot be measured by testing procedures alone. Students are considered sufficiently mature to appreciate the necessity of regular attendance, to accept this personal responsibility, to demonstrate the self-discipline essential for such performance, and to recognize and accept the consequences of failure to attend. Students who cause their work or that of the class to suffer because of absence or lateness may be referred by the instructor to the dean of the College or to the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy for suitable action. Any student who does not attend classes regularly or who demonstrates other evidence of academic irresponsibility is subject to such disciplinary action as the Committee on Academic Affairs may prescribe, including immediate suspension from the College or from the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

The Office of the Dean of the College maintains a list of students who have missed class while acting as duly authorized representatives of the College. Such absences are considered excused and a record of them is available to the student's instructors upon request. The instructor determines whether work missed may be made up. For policies pertaining to absences resulting from illness, please see the statement on the Student Health Service and class excuses in the Student Handbook.

Auditing Courses

When space is available after the registration of regularly enrolled students, others may request permission of the instructor to enter the course as auditors. No additional charge is made to full-time students in the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy; for others the fee is $80 per course. Permission of the appropriate dean, as well as that of the instructor, is required. An auditor is subject to attendance regulations and to other conditions imposed by the instructor. Although an auditor receives no credit, a notation of audit is made on the final grade report and entered on the record of regularly enrolled students who have met the instructor's requirements. In no case may anyone register for an audit course before the first meeting of the class. An audit course may not be changed to a credit course, and a credit course may not be changed to an audit course.

Dropping a Course

The last day in each term for dropping a class without a grade of F is listed in the calendar in the front of this bulletin. A student who wishes to drop any course before this date must obtain the necessary form from the registrar and confer with his or her faculty adviser. After this date, a student who wishes to drop a course must consult his or her faculty adviser, the course instructor, and the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, as appropriate. If the dean approves the request, he or she authorizes the student to discontinue the course. Except in cases of emergency, the grade in the course will be recorded as F.

If, at any time, a student drops any course without prior written approval of the appropriate dean, the student will be subject to such penalties as the Committee on Academic Affairs of the faculty may impose.

Withdrawal from the College

A student who finds it necessary to withdraw from the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy must do so through the office of the appropriate dean. With the approval of the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, no grades are recorded for the student for that semester, but the student's standing in courses at the time of the withdrawal may be taken into consideration when readmission is sought. If withdrawal is for academic reasons, failing grades may be assigned in all courses in which the student is doing unsatisfactory work. A student who leaves the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy without officially withdrawing is assigned failing grades in all current courses, and the unofficial withdrawal is recorded.

Examinations

Final examinations are given at regularly scheduled times. All examinations are conducted in accordance with the honor system adopted by the student body and approved by the faculty. Under it, the student is expected to refrain from unfairness in any form and to report to the Honor Council any student whom he or she knows to be cheating.

Grading

For most courses carrying undergraduate credit, there are five final and two conditional grades: A (exceptionally high achievement), B (superior), C (satisfactory), D (passing but unsatisfactory), E (conditional failure), F (failure), and I (incomplete).

Grade of E. The grade of E entitles the student to reexamination at any regular examination period within a year, or during the first week of the fall semester. A permit for reexamination must be obtained in advance from the registrar, and no grade higher than D may be assigned as a result of reexamination. A student who does not remove a conditional failure by reexamination must repeat the course to obtain credit for it.

A candidate for graduation in the final semester who has received a grade of E in the previous semester may apply to the registrar for reexamination thirty days after the opening of the final semester but no later than thirty days before its close. All conditions, including the grade of E, must be removed no later than thirty days before the end of the term in which the student graduates. The name of a candidate who has a condition after that date is dropped from the list of candidates. A candidate who receives a grade of E in the final semester or term of the graduation year is not allowed reexamination before the next examination period.

Grade of I. The grade of I may be assigned only when a student fails to complete the work of a course because of illness or some other emergency. If the work recorded as I is not completed within thirty days after the student enters for his or her next semester, the grade automatically becomes F. The instructor must report the final grade to the registrar within forty-five days after the beginning of that semester.

Grade Points. Grades are assigned grade points for the computation of academic averages, class standing, and eligibility for continuation, as follows: for each credit of A, four points; for each credit of B, three points; for each credit of C, two points; for each credit of D, one point; for each credit of E or F, no points.

Pass/Fail. To encourage students to venture into fields outside their major areas of competence and concentration, the undergraduate schools make available the option, under certain conditions, of registering in courses on a pass/fail basis rather than for a letter grade. Courses taken under the pass/fail option yield full credit when satisfactorily completed but, whether passed or not, they are not computed in the grade-point average. In no case may a student change from grade to pass/fail mode, or from pass/fail to grade mode, after the last day to add a course, listed in the calendar at the front of this bulletin.

A student may count toward the degree no more than twenty-four credits taken on a pass/fail basis. First- and second-year students are not eligible to elect the pass/fail mode, but may enroll for courses offered only on a pass/fail basis. Third- and fourth-year students may elect as many as sixteen credits on a pass/fail basis, but no more than five credits in a given semester. Courses used to fulfill basic, divisional, or major requirements may not be taken on a pass/fail basis unless they are offered only on that basis. Courses in the major(s) not used for satisfying major requirements may be taken on a pass/fail basis if the department of the major does not specify otherwise.

Grade Reports and Transcripts

A mid-term report and a final report of grades are issued to students by the registrar in the fall and spring semesters. A final report of grades is issued for each summer term.

Copies of a student's cumulative record are issued by the registrar, but only on the written authorization of the student and payment of $4 per transcript.

Dean's List

The Dean's List is issued at the end of the fall and spring semesters. It includes all full-time students in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy who have a grade-point average of 3.0 or better for the semester and who have earned no grade below C during the semester.

Graduation Distinctions

Graduation distinctions are determined by the grade-point system. A degree candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.80 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction summa cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.50 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction magna cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.00 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction cum laude. The entire record of a student is considered, with the understanding that a student offering transfer work for credit may receive no distinction which requires a grade-point average greater than that earned at Wake Forest University. Details are available in the Office of the Registrar.

Repetition of Courses

A student may not repeat a course in which he or she has received a grade of C or higher. A student may, however, repeat at Wake Forest a Wake Forest course for which he or she has received a grade of D or F. In this case, all grades received will be shown on the transcript, but the course may be counted only one time for credit. If a student fails a course previously passed, the credit originally earned will not be lost. For purposes of determining the grade-point average, a course will be considered as attempted only once, and the grade points assigned will reflect the highest grade received. These provisions do not apply to any course for which the student has received the grade of F in consequence of an honor violation.

Probation

Any student who is placed on probation because of honor code or conduct code violations may be placed on such special academic probation as the Committee on Academic Affairs imposes. The Committee on Academic Affairs may at any time suspend or place on probation any student who has given evidence of academic irresponsibility, as, for example, by failing to attend class regularly or to complete papers, examinations, or other work on time.

If poor academic performance is attributable to circumstances over which the student clearly had no control (e.g., serious injury or illness), the student may, after consultation with one of the academic deans, petition the Committee on Academic Affairs for further consideration of his or her status.

In deciding whether to permit exceptions to the foregoing eligibility requirements, the Committee on Academic Affairs will take into account such factors as convictions for violations of the College honor code or social conduct code, violations of the law, and any other behavior demonstrating disrespect for the rights of others.

Any student convicted of violating the honor code is ineligible to represent the University in any way until the period of suspension or probation is completed and the student is returned to good standing. Students who are on probation for any reason may not be initiated into any fraternity or sorority until the end of their probationary period.

Under the law, the University has the right to inform parents of dependent students and certain other qualified individuals of the contents of educational records.

Requirements for Acceptable Academic Standing

Students are expected to be aware at all times of their academic status and to be responsible for knowing whether they have met the minimum academic requirements for continuation in the undergraduate schools of the University. The committee of the faculty which oversees the academic progress of students is the Committee on Academic Affairs.

Whether a student is academically eligible to continue is determined by the number of course credits accumulated and the grade-point average. The number of credits accumulated is the sum of the credits transferred from other institutions and the credits earned in the undergraduate schools of the University. The grade-point average is computed only on work attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University and excludes both non-credit and pass/fail courses.

To be considered in acceptable academic standing, a student is expected to:

- a. accumulate at least 24 credits during each 12-month period the student is enrolled;
- b. accumulate at least 8 credits each semester which fulfill basic or divisional requirements, until all of these requirements have been satisfied;
- c. achieve a grade-point average of at least
 - 1) 1.45 if between 1 and 36 credits have been accumulated;
 - 2) 1.60 if between 37 and 72 credits have been accumulated;
 - 3) 1.75 if between 73 and 108 credits have been accumulated;
 - 4) 1.90 if more than 108 credits have been accumulated.

A student whose academic standing is unacceptable for a continuous period of two semesters and one summer (in any order) is ineligible to continue.

Any student who is in academic difficulty is strongly urged to seek advice and counsel from the Office of the Dean, the Office of Learning Assistance, the Counseling Center, and/or the student's academic adviser.

Any student suspended from the University for failing to maintain an acceptable academic standing has the right to petition the Committee on Academic Affairs, through the Office of the Dean of the College, for reconsideration. The Committee will base a decision to allow the student to continue on whether there were adverse circumstances, such as a prolonged illness, over which the student had no control. If such is the case, the Committee will expect the student to demonstrate that he/she made every effort to maintain acceptable academic standing in spite of circumstances. The Committee on Academic Affairs may at any time suspend or place on probation any student who has given evidence of academic irresponsibility as, for example, by failing to attend class regularly or to complete papers, examinations, or other work on time.

A student whose petition for reconsideration is granted or who is readmitted after academic suspension and who fails in a period prescribed by the Committee on Academic Affairs to achieve acceptable academic standing is ineligible to continue.

A student who has or develops a health problem which, in the judgment of the director of the Student Health Service, creates a danger to the safety and well-being of the student or others may be required to withdraw until the problem is resolved.

Requirements for Readmission

The Committee on Academic Affairs oversees the readmission of former students. In making a decision on whether to readmit, the Committee considers both the academic and non-academic record of the student. Clear evidence of academic irresponsibility is a major reason in denying readmission. Students who have been ineligible to continue for academic reasons must present to the Committee a list of steps they plan to take to raise their academic standing to acceptable standards. Non-academic grounds for denial may include convictions for violations of the honor system or the social conduct code, for violations of the law, and other behavior showing disrespect for the rights of others.

Summer Study

In addition to regular courses, a number of special summer programs for credit are described in the bulletin of the summer session.

In order to be eligible to take summer courses at another college or university, the student must have a cumulative grade-point average of no less than 2.0, and must obtain advance approval of the head of the department concerned, the registrar, and in some cases, the office of the dean of Wake Forest College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Courses taken elsewhere on the semester-hour plan are computed as transfer credit at 1.125 credits for each approved semester hour. If a student plans to seek approval for transfer courses after completion of the sophomore year, such courses must be taken in an approved four-year institution.

Courses taken outside the U.S. require, in addition, prior approval from the Office of International Studies. Students must obtain a transfer of credit form from the Office of International Studies.

Transfer Credit

All work attempted in other colleges and universities must be reported to the registrar of Wake Forest University. Students wishing to receive transfer credit for work to be undertaken elsewhere must have a cumulative grade-point average of no less than 2.0 and must obtain faculty approval in advance. If a student plans to seek approval for transfer courses after the completion of the sophomore year, such courses must be taken in an approved four-year institution.

Students who wish to receive transfer of credit for courses taken outside the U.S., need to obtain prior approval from the Office of International Studies and then faculty approval. Transfer of credit forms are available in the Office of International Studies.

Students should be aware that the minimum grade-point average for graduation and for graduation distinctions is computed in two ways: on all work attempted in Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy; and also on work attempted at Wake Forest and other accredited colleges and universities collectively.

Scholarships and Loans

Any student regularly admitted to Wake Forest College who demonstrates financial need will receive assistance commensurate with that need.

By regulation of the Board of Trustees, all financial aid must be approved by the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid. Applications should be requested from the committee at Box 7246 Reynolda Station, Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27109-7246. Scholarships supported by funds of the undergraduate schools are not granted to students enrolled in other schools of the University. To receive consideration for financial aid, the applicant must either be enrolled as an undergraduate or have been accepted for admission. The financial aid program comprises institutional, state, and federal scholarship, loan, and work funds. Students enrolled at least part-time are eligible to apply for federal funds. Half-time and part-time students are eligible to apply for limited institutional funds.

The University offers a number of scholarships based upon merit. Those with a stipend based upon tuition will increase as tuition increases; those with a dollar stipend remain fixed for the four years of enrollment.

Need is a factor in the awarding of most financial aid, and each applicant must file an annual financial statement with the application for financial aid. After reviewing the standard financial analysis, the Committee on Scholarships determines aid awards, and aid is credited, by semester, to the student's account in the Office of the Controller. The calculation of need, and therefore the amount of an award, may vary from year to year. The Committee on Scholarships reserves the right to revoke financial aid for unsatisfactory academic achievement or for violation of University regulations or federal, state, or local laws. To be eligible for renewal of aid, a student must remain enrolled on a normal full-time basis and be in good standing, making satisfactory progress toward a degree. The committee does not award institutional scholarships to students earning less than a 2.0 grade average on all work attempted at Wake Forest.

Scholarships

The Reynolds Scholarships are awarded each year to five extraordinarily capable men and women entering the College as first-year students. Made possible through a grant from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation in honor of Nancy Susan Reynolds, these scholarships cover the cost of tuition, room, and board, and include an allowance for books and personal expenses. Scholars may receive up to $1,500 each summer for travel or study projects approved by the Reynolds Committee. The Reynolds Scholarships are awarded without regard to financial need and will be renewed annually through the recipient's fourth year of college, subject to satisfactory performance. A separate application is required by December 1.

The Graylyn Scholarship provides in alternate years one full tuition renewable scholarship to a student who applies for the Reynolds or Carswell Scholarship and who possesses extraordinary academic and leadership skills. The Graylyn Scholarship is provided by the Graylyn International Conference Center in support of undergraduate excellence. The fund also provides for leadership awards to the medical, law and business schools.

The O. W. Wilson Scholarship, created under the will of O. W. Wilson of Yancey County, N.C., is awarded to an individual who demonstrates outstanding qualities of intellectual promise and leadership. The scholarship has a value equivalent to annual tuition and provides summer grant opportunities to encourage individual study projects. No separate application is required.

The Doctor George E. and Lila C. Bradford Fund awards a renewable full-tuition academic scholarship annually to a student possessing outstanding leadership and aptitude who intends to pursue a pre-medical course of study. No separate application is required.

The Guy T. Carswell Scholarships, made possible by and established in honor of the late Guy T. Carswell and his wife Clara Carswell of Charlotte, N.C., have an annual value ranging from a minimum stipend of $6,000 to a maximum stipend of $19,750, with awards for more than $4,000 determined on the basis of need. Each scholar may apply for at least one summer grant of up to $1,000 to fund travel and study projects of the student's design. A Carswell scholar must be a student applying to the College who possesses outstanding qualities of intellect and leadership. Up to forty scholars are selected annually. A separate application is due by January 15.

The Presidential Scholarships for Distinguished Achievement, established by the University's alumni, award twenty renewable $6,000 scholarships on the basis of exceptional talent and leadership. Candidates must be students who will enrich and add to the diversity of life at Wake Forest through their special talents in the areas of the fine arts (including music, art, theater, dance, film, and other arts), debate and public speaking, writing, leadership, public service, and entrepreneurial achievement. A separate application must be submitted by December 15.

The Joseph Gordon and Wake Forest Black Student Scholarships, established by endowment from the University's Sesquicentennial Fund and gifts from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, recognize the outstanding achievements of black students and are awarded each year to entering first-year students who demonstrate academic promise and leadership potential. This program provides seven full-tuition scholarships and three $2,000 per year scholarships. All scholarships are renewable annually through the recipient's fourth year. Awards are made without regard to financial need. A separate application is required by January 15.

The William Louis Potent Scholarships, valued at $6,000 per year, are awarded to seventeen entering first-year students. To be eligible, a student must be an active member of a church affiliated with the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina or the General Baptist State Convention of North Carolina and must be likely to make a significant contribution to church and society. A separate application is required by December 15.

Wake Forest Honor Scholarships provide an annual renewable grant of $3,000 to students who apply for the Reynolds or Carswell Scholarships and who demonstrate exceptional academic ability and leadership.

The George Foster Hankins Scholarships, made possible by the late Colonel George Foster Hankins of Lexington, N.C., for residents of North Carolina or children of alumni living in other states with preference given to residents of Davidson County, have an annual value of up to $19,750. Recipients must demonstrate need as well as academic promise. A separate application is due by January 15.

The Robert P. and Dorothy Caldwell Scholarships, given by family and friends of Robert P. and Dorothy Caldwell, provide up to three scholarships annually on the basis of outstanding academic achievement, demonstrated leadership ability, record of community service, and a commitment to helping others. A portion of these funds gives preference to students from Gaston and Catawba (N.C.) counties who need assistance in order to attend Wake Forest.

The Holding Scholarship, provided by a gift from the Robert P. Holding Foundation in memory of Mr. Holding, a member of the Class of 1916, offers one full tuition renewable scholarship annually to a student of exceptional leadership and academic promise, who is in residence at least one year in North Carolina. Separate application is not required, but the student must complete an application for either the Nancy Susan Reynolds or Carswell Scholarship.

The Junius C. and Eliza P. Brown Scholarships are designed to recognize excellence among North Carolina students demonstrating financial need in order to attend Wake Forest. Preference for selection is given first to students from the Madison area of Rockingham County, second to students from the Reidsville area of Rockingham County, and third to other applicants from Rockingham County. A separate application is due by January 15.

National Achievement Scholarships are awarded to four finalists in the achievement scholarship program. The minimum of $3,000 ($750 annually for four years) will extend up to $2,000 annually depending on need. Students must select Wake Forest as their first-choice college in the NASC program; recipients are chosen by the Scholarship Committee, usually by April 1.

National Merit Scholarships are awarded to four finalists in the merit scholarship program. The minimum award of $3,000 ($750 annually for four years) will extend up to $2,000 annually depending on need. Students must note Wake Forest as their first-choice college in the NMSC testing program; recipients are chosen by the Scholarship Committee, usually by April 1.

For all the following scholarships, there is no separate application required except where noted. Students who complete the Financial Aid PROFILE of the College Scholarship Service, will be considered for appropriate scholarships.

The Saddye Stephenson and Benjamin Louis Sykes Scholarship, donated by Charles L. Sykes and Ralph J. Sykes in memory of their mother and father, is awarded on the basis of Christian character, academic proficiency, and financial need, with preference given to first-year students from North Carolina; renewable.

The Walter Lowe Tatum Scholarship in Mathematics provides in alternate years a renewable merit scholarship. The stipends of $500 each for the first two years are replaced by $5,000 awards in each of the last two years, provided that the Tatum Scholar fulfills the expectation to enroll in and maintain a major in mathematics in the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science. Given by the late Samuel Tatum, a Life Trustee from Greensboro, and named in honor of his late brother, Dr. Walter Lowe Tatum, the Tatum Scholarship is renewable with a minimum 3.00 grade-point average (3.30 in mathematics) and an exemplary record of honor and conduct.

The Augustine John Taylor and Roby Ellis Taylor Accountancy Scholarship is awarded to accounting students, with preference given to students whose permanent residence is within 50 miles of Winston-Salem.

The Russell Taylor Scholarship is awarded to a high school senior with a distinguished record in citizenship and scholarship. Preference is given to students planning careers in the areas of religion or law, students exemplifying positive principles of the Christian faith, needy students, and students from Iredell County, N.C.

The Harold Wayland and Nelle Futch Tribble Scholarship Fund, established to honor the late President Emeritus and Mrs. Tribble, provides a scholarship to students enrolled in the College who demonstrate superior academic ability.

The Kenneth Monroe Tucker Scholarship is awarded on the basis of academic merit, with preference given to students from Wilkes, New Hanover, or Brunswick counties, North Carolina. It may be renewed provided the recipient's cumulative average is in the upper twenty percent of his or her class.

The Tyner-Pitman Scholarship Fund, donated by Cora Tyner Pitman, makes available at least one scholarship for needy North Carolina students.

The John W. Ward Jr. Scholarship is awarded on the basis of demonstrated need, with preference given to students from Robeson County, N.C.

The Ware Foundation Scholarship is awarded on the basis of academic ability and financial need, with preference given first to students from Oxford Orphanage or other children's homes and second to students from Granville or Vance counties, N.C.

The Brian James Watkins Scholarship Fund is awarded on the basis of demonstrated leadership ability, community involvement, and character, with preference to students from North Carolina, Mississippi, and Delaware.

The Watkins-Richardson Scholarship is awarded on the basis of academic ability and outstanding leadership potential to students from the southeastern United States. Watkins-Richardson Scholarship awards are renewable for succeeding school years, provided the recipient ranks in the top third of his or her class and continues to display leadership potential.

The Lettie Pate Whitehead Scholarships provide support to needy Christian women students from the nine Southeastern states.

The Alexander Hines Whitley Jr. Scholarship is awarded to qualified students selected by the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid.

The Jesse A. Williams Scholarships, created under the will of the late Jesse A. Williams of Union County, N.C., give preference to deserving students of Union County.

The Leonidas Polk Williams Sr. Scholarship Fund was established to provide aid to students from Chowan and Camden counties, N.C., on the basis of merit.

The John G. Williard Scholarship is awarded to middle income students, with preference given to students from Davie County, N.C.

The James Bennett Willis Scholarship Fund, established by James B. Willis of Hamlet, N.C., gives preference to North Carolina Baptist students interested in the ministry and Christian education. It is awarded on the basis of need. Applications must be made to the Departments of Religion or Philosophy.

The Marie Thornton Willis and Miriam Carlyle Willis Scholarship Fund, established by James B. Willis in memory of his wife and daughter, gives preference to North Carolina Baptist students who are interested in all phases of the ministry of music. It is awarded on the basis of need.

The Charles Littell Wilson Scholarship, created under the will of Jennie Mayes Wilson in memory of her husband, Charles Littell Wilson, is for a first-year student.

The O. W. Wilson-Yancey County Scholarships, created under the will of O. W. Wilson of Yancey County, N.C., are awarded to students from Yancey County who have excellent academic records and who demonstrate need.

The Phillip W. Wilson/Peat Marwick Memorial Scholarship, established as a memorial to Phillip W. Wilson by his friends, colleagues, and family, is awarded to a senior accountancy major who has demonstrated leadership skills, outstanding interpersonal skills, and a strong commitment to the community and the accounting profession. The recipient must also be in the top fifth of his or her class based on grade-point average within the School of Business and Accountancy.

The William H. and Anne M. Woody Memorial Scholarship is awarded on the basis of character, scholastic achievement, and financial need, with preference given to students from Person County, N.C., and to students intending careers in medicine, education, or ministry.

Wyatt Jr. of Raleigh, in memory of their son, William Luther Wyatt III, with preference given to a male student entering the junior year who has shown an interest and an ability in the field of biology, is based on need and ability.

The Matthew T. Yates Scholarship Fund awards scholarships to the children of missionaries of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention on the basis of merit and need. The applicant must notify the Office of Financial Aid of his or her eligibility to be considered for this award.

Federal Financial Aid Programs

The federal government, through the Department of Education, sponsors a number of aid programs to help pay college costs. Among these programs are Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG), Federal Work-Study (FWS), Federal Perkins Loans, and Federal Family Education Loans (including Federal Stafford Loans, both subsidized and unsubsidized, Federal PLUS Loans, Federal Supplemental Loans for Students (FSLs), and Federal Consolidation Loans).

To receive assistance through these programs, a student must complete the necessary applications, meet basic eligibility requirements, and maintain satisfactory academic progress, earning a minimum of 12 credits per semester of enrollment with a grade-point average at or above the published minimum level for continued enrollment. A Wake Forest grade-point average of at least 2.0 is required for consideration for need-based scholarship assistance. Need-based scholarship support is extended for a maximum of eight semesters, prorated for transfer students. A copy of the full policy on satisfactory academic progress is available upon written request from the financial aid office.

Federal aid programs are described more fully in the Wake Forest University brochure, "Need-Based Financial Aid Information" and in the federal publication, "The Student Guide," available upon request from the Financial Aid Office and the U.S. Department of Education.

Exchange Scholarships

The German Exchange Scholarship, established in 1959 with the Free University of Berlin, is available to a student with at least two years of college German or the equivalent, who has junior standing by the end of the semester in which application is made, but who need not be a German major. It provides 850 German marks per month for ten months, remission of fees, 200 marks per semester for books, and 300 marks per month for rent. (Interested students should communicate with the chair of the Department of German.)

The Spanish Exchange Scholarships are available for study at the University of the Andes in Bogotá, Colombia, and at the University of Salamanca in Spain. The Bogotá scholarship may be awarded to two students for one semester's study each or to one student for two semesters. Applicants must have completed at least two years of college Spanish or the equivalent. Scholarships provide remission of fees and the cost of books, board, and accommodations. (Interested students should communicate with the chair of the Department of Romance Languages.)

The French Exchange Scholarship, established with the University of Burgundy, France, is available to a graduating senior, who receives a graduate teaching assistantship at a lycée in Dijon for two semesters. (Interested students should communicate with the chair of the Department of Romance Languages.)

Loans

The James F. and Mary Z. Bryan Foundation Student Loan Plan is for residents of North Carolina enrolled full-time for a value of up to $7,500 for undergraduate study. The amount of each loan is determined by the College Foundation, with an interest rate of 1 percent during the in-school and grace periods and 7 percent during the repayment period.

The Bushnell Baptist Church Loan Fund, established in 1945 with funds supplied by the Bushnell Baptist Church of Fontana Dam, N.C., is for needy students.

The Council Fund, established in 1935 by C. T. Council of Durham, is for the aid of senior students.

The James W. Denmark Loan Fund, originated in 1875 by James William Denmark of Dudley, N.C., is available to qualified students, with preference given to students from North Carolina, for an amount not exceeding $2,500 each year and $10,000 during the entire period of enrollment.

The Olivia Dunn Student Loan Fund, established under the will of Birdie Dunn of Wake County, N.C., in memory of her mother, is for needy students.

The Duplin County Loan Fund, donated in 1942 by anonymous friends of the College, is limited to students from Duplin County, N.C.

The Elliott B. Earnshaw Loan Fund, established by the Board of Trustees, is a memorial to the former bursar.

The Friendly Student Loan Fund, established in 1948 by Nell E. Stinson of Raleigh, in memory of her sister, Mary Belle Stinson Michael, is for the benefit of worthy students who need financial aid.

The George Foster Hankins Loan Fund, established under the will of George Foster Hankins of Lexington, gives preference to applicants from Davidson County, N.C.

The Harris Memorial Loan Fund, established by the late J. P. Harris of Bethel, N.C., in memory of his first wife, Lucy Shearon Harris, and his second wife, Lucy Jones Harris, is for students who have demonstrated ability to apply educational advantages to the rendition of enriched and greater Christian service in life and who require financial assistance to prevent the disruption of their education.

The Hutchins Student Loan Fund, originated by Robert W. Hutchins Jr. on behalf of himself and his late wife, Nancy D. Hutchins of Winston-Salem, is in honor of members of the Hutchins' family who have attended Wake Forest and is for the benefit of needy undergraduate students.

The Edna Tyner Langston Fund, established in 1942 by Henry J. Langston of Danville, Va., in memory of his wife, is available to a student agreed upon by the donor and the College.

The Watts Norton Loan Fund, established in 1949 by L. Watts Norton of Durham, is for worthy students enrolled with the Department of Religion who need financial assistance.

The Powers Fund, established in 1944 by Frank P. Powers of Raleigh, in memory of his parents, Frank P. and Effie Reade Powers, is for the benefit of needy students, with preference given to orphans.

The Grover and Addy Raby Loan Fund, established in 1945 by J. G. Raby of Tarboro, N.C., in memory of his parents, gives preference to applicants from the First Baptist Church of Tarboro.

The James F. Slate Loan Fund, established in 1908 by J. F. Slate of Stokes County, N.C., is available for ministerial students who have been licensed to preach.

The Sidney G. Wallace Loan Fund, created under the will of Mrs. Blanche Wallace, is used to assist undergraduate students. Preference is given to students studying in a Wake Forest-sponsored or approved overseas program.

Concessions

North Carolina Legislative Tuition Grants. The North Carolina General Assembly provides yearly grants to all legal residents of North Carolina. To be eligible a student must be enrolled for at least fourteen credits each semester (through October 1 in the fall and through the tenth day of classes in the spring) and complete a Residency Form 100. The student must not have received a bachelor's degree previously. To receive the grant, the student must also complete an NCLTG application and return it to the financial aid office by a specified deadline.

Ministerial students receive an $800 concession per year if they (1) have a written recommendation or license to preach from their own church body and (2) agree to repay the total amount, plus 4 percent interest, in the event that they do not serve five years in the pastoral ministry within twelve years of attendance in the College.

Children and spouses of pastors of North Carolina Baptist churches receive an $800 concession per year if they are the children or spouses of (1) ministers, (2) missionaries of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, (3) officials of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, or (4) professors in North Carolina Baptist colleges or universities who are ordained ministers. Pastors themselves are also eligible.

Children of other ministers who are not eligible for the above concession receive a $150 concession per year if their parent makes a living chiefly by the ministry and they have a demonstrated need.

Other Financial Aid

Church Choir Work Grants, given by the College and Wake Forest Baptist Church to encourage outstanding music students, are awarded on the basis of talent, reliability, and interest in the church on the recommendation of the music committee of the church and the Department of Music, for the value of $300. (Interested students should communicate with the chair of the Department of Music.)

The Ministerial Aid Fund, established in 1897 by the estate of J. A. Melke, is available to preministerial students on a loan or grant program on the basis of merit and need, and, particularly in the case of grants, academic achievement.

Student/Student Spouse Employment is possible for part-time, on-campus and off-campus work, for a recommended maximum of twenty hours per week for full-time students. Summer employment may also be available. (Interested students should communicate with the Office of Career Services.)

Veterans' Benefits are administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs in the Federal Building at 251 North Main Street in Winston-Salem. Records of progress are kept by this institution on veteran and non-veteran students alike. Progress records are furnished to the students, veterans and non-veterans alike, at the end of each scheduled school term.

Outside Assistance

Students who apply for financial aid from Wake Forest must advise the College if they receive any assistance from outside organizations, including but not limited to National Merit or Achievement Scholarships; College Scholarship Service-sponsored scholarships; local, state, and national scholarship and loan programs. This outside assistance will be considered when the financial aid award is calculated.

Special Programs

Students in the College are encouraged to apply to special programs, both on and off campus, which correspond to their abilities and interests. These include the programs described below and the special degrees, minors, and concentrations described on page 54 and beyond.

Honors Study

For highly qualified students, a series of interdisciplinary honors courses is described under Courses of Instruction. Under the supervision of the coordinator of the Honors Program, students may participate in three or more honors seminars during the first, sophomore, and junior years. Those who complete four seminars with a superior record and who are not candidates for departmental honors may complete a final directed study course. With a superior record in that course and a grade-point average of 3.0 in all work, a student may be graduated with the distinction "Honors in the Arts and Sciences."

For students especially talented in individual areas of study, most departments in the College offer special studies leading to graduation with honors in a particular discipline. The minimum requirement is a grade-point average of 3.0 in all work and 3.3 (or higher in some areas) in the major. Other course, seminar, and research requirements vary from one department to another.

Open Curriculum

For students with high motivation and strong academic preparation, the Open Curriculum provides the opportunity to follow a course of study planned within the framework of a liberal arts education but not necessarily fulfilling all basic and divisional requirements for the degree. Under the Committee on Open Curriculum, a limited number of students is selected by previous record of achievement, high aspirations, ability in one or more areas of study, strength of self-expression, and other special talents. The course of study for the lower division is designed by the student and his or her adviser.

Study at Salem College

For full-time students, Wake Forest and Salem College share a program of exchange credits for courses taken at one institution because they are not offered at the other. An application must be approved by the academic adviser and the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Except in courses of private instruction, there is no additional cost to the student. Grades and grade points earned at Salem College are evaluated as if they were earned at Wake Forest.

International Studies

Office of International Studies

The Office of International Studies provides information on all programs in international studies. Students interested in studying abroad should visit the office for assistance and program approval. Any student taking non-Wake Forest courses overseas for either the summer, semester, or year should visit the office for program approval and a transfer of credit form. The office also administers the international studies minor. For a full description of the minor see page 132.

International Students

International students can obtain information and assistance in the Office of International Studies.

Residential Language Centers

For students prepared to speak French, German, Italian, or Russian on a regular basis with other students studying the same language, the University offers residential language centers coordinated by members of the Romance languages department and the German and Russian department. Such students attend regular classes on the campus. Organized social and conversational programs are available in all these languages.

Casa Artom (center), the University's residential center in Venice, Italy.

International Studies House

Students interested in international studies who would like to live with other students sharing these interests may apply to live in the International Studies House. Further information may be obtained in the Office of International Studies.

Foreign Area Studies

The Foreign Area Studies program enables students to choose an interdisciplinary concentration in the language and culture of a foreign area. For a full description of these programs, see page 59 and the various listings under Courses of Instruction.

Opportunities for Study Abroad

Wake Forest Programs

England (London)

A program of study is offered each semester at Worrell House, the University's residential center near Regent's Park in London. Courses typically encompass aspects of the art, theater, literature, and history of London and Great Britain. (See, for example, Art 2320, English Art, Hogarth to the Present, and History 2260, History of London, in the course listings of those departments.) Each term a different member of the faculty serves as the director of the program, which accommodates sixteen students. Further information may be obtained in the Office of International Studies.

Italy (Venice)

Students wishing to spend a semester in Italy may apply to study at Casa Artom, the University's residential center on the Grand Canal in Venice. Under the direction of various members of the faculty, approximately twenty students per semester focus on the heritage and culture of Venice and Italy. (Courses offered usually include Art 2693, Venetian Renaissance Art; Italian 2213, Spoken Italian; Italian 215, Introduction to Italian Literature I; Italian 216, Introduction to Italian Literature II; and other courses offered by the faculty member serving as director.) Students selected for the Venice program are required to have completed elementary training in Italian. Limited scholarship aid is available to one or two students each semester to assist with expenses. Further information may be obtained in the Office of International Studies.

France (Dijon)

Students wishing to study in France may apply for a semester's instruction at the University of Burgundy. Under the direction of a faculty residential adviser from the Department of Romance Languages, courses are taken at the University of Burgundy by student groups of varying levels of preparation. (A major in French is not required, but French 220 or its equivalent is recommended.)

Spain (Salamanca)

Students wishing to study in Spain may apply for a semester's instruction at the University of Salamanca. Under the direction of a faculty residential adviser from the Department of Romance Languages, courses are taken at the University of Salamanca by student groups of varying levels of preparation. (A major in Spanish is not required, but Spanish 220 or its equivalent is recommended.)

Institute of European Studies

Students who wish to spend a semester or year in a German- or Slavic-speaking country may apply to programs of study available through the Institute of European Studies. Qualified Wake Forest applicants may study during their junior or senior year in Berlin or Freiburg, Germany; Vienna, Austria; or Moscow, Russia. As with other Wake Forest programs, students receive direct credit for all courses taken with I.E.S. and may apply any form of financial aid available to them here on campus to their program of study. Interested students should contact the Department of German and Russian.

China (Beijing)

Students who wish to study in China may apply to participate in the Wake Forest/SASASAAS Program in Beijing, Peoples Republic of China. Offered in the fall semester, the program includes courses in both Chinese language and culture. It is open to students with no previous knowledge of Chinese or to those wishing to continue their study of the language. Further information may be obtained in the Office of International Studies.

Japan (Hiratsuka)

For students wishing to study in Japan, Wake Forest offers a fall semester in Tokai University, outside Tokyo. Coursework focuses on Japanese language and culture: one course is taught by a Wake Forest professor; another course is taught by Japanese faculty members, in English, on various aspects of Japanese society; a third course is the Japanese language at the appropriate level. No prior knowledge of Japanese is required. Further information may be obtained in the Office of International Studies.

Russia

One or two students wishing to study individually in Russia can apply to spend a fall or spring semester at Moscow State University each year. The requirements are a good academic record and the ability to attend and pass classes that are taught entirely in Russian. For more information, contact William Hamilton, associate dean of the College.

Experiment in International Living

The Independent Study Program of the Experiment in International Living is recognized by the College. To participate in this program, a student must be regularly enrolled and plan to return to the College after study abroad; arrangements must be made with the chair of the department of the major and the director of the Office of International Studies. Up to fourteen credits for a one-semester program may be granted upon evidence of satisfactory completion of work taken, but this is subject to evaluation by the dean of the College.

Study Abroad in Non-Wake Forest Programs

Students wishing to study abroad in a non-Wake Forest program should visit the Office of International Studies for assistance. The office maintains a sizable collection of material on a wide variety of overseas programs.

A student's participation in a non-Wake Forest program must be approved in advance by the Office of International Studies. A transfer of credit form, available in the Office of International Studies, must be completed once one is accepted into a program. Transfer credit is computed at 1.125 credits for each approved semester hour and .75 for each quarter hour taken abroad. A process exists so that normally students who study overseas for a full semester in a non-Wake Forest program will receive sixteen (16) credits. For further information, consult with the Office of International Studies.

Students may request to have scholarship and financial aid applied to approved non-Wake Forest programs. Further information is available in the Office of International Studies.

Requirements for Degrees

Degrees Offered

The College offers undergraduate programs leading to the bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees. The bachelor of arts degree is conferred with a major in anthropology, art, chemistry, classical studies, economics, English, French, French-Spanish, German, Greek, history, Latin, music, philosophy, physics, politics, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, speech communication, or theater. The bachelor of science degree is conferred with a major in biology, chemistry, computer science, health and sport science, mathematical economics, mathematics, or physics. The bachelor of arts degree is available with a major in elementary education or education with a state teacher's certificate in social studies. The bachelor of science degree is available with a major in education with a state teacher's certificate in science. The bachelor of science degree may be conferred in combined curricula in dentistry, engineering, forestry and environmental studies, medical technology, microbiology, and the physician assistant program.

The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offers undergraduate programs leading to the bachelor of science degree with a major in business or analytical finance and accounting; and offers a five-year program of study leading to a bachelor of science and a master of science degree with a major in professional accountancy. (See page 214 of this bulletin.)

A student who receives the bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree may not thereafter receive another bachelor's degree from Wake Forest.

General Requirements

Students in the College have considerable flexibility in planning their courses of study. Except for two semesters of required health and sport science courses, only three specific courses are required, one in English composition and two in a foreign language. To complete preparation for more specialized work in a major field or fields, students select three courses in each of four divisions of the undergraduate curriculum: (1) literature and the arts; (2) the natural sciences and mathematics; (3) history, religion, and philosophy; and (4) the social and behavioral sciences. Normally the basic and divisional requirements are completed in the first and sophomore years and the requirements in the field or fields of the major are completed in the junior and senior years.

All students must complete (1) the basic and divisional requirements (unless accepted for the Open Curriculum), (2) a course of study approved by the department or departments of the major, and (3) elective courses for a total of 144 credits. No more than sixteen credits toward graduation may be earned from among all of the following courses: Education 353; all military science courses; Music 111-121 (ensemble courses); Dance 120-129 and 131; and elective 100-level courses in health and sport science. A cross-listed course may be taken one time for credit toward graduation, unless otherwise specified by the course description.

All students must earn a C average on all work attempted at all colleges and universities and on all work attempted in Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Of the 144 credits required for graduation, at least 72 must be completed in the undergraduate schools of Wake Forest University, including the work of the senior year (except for combined degree curricula). All financial obligations to the University must be discharged.

A student has the privilege of graduating under the requirements of the bulletin of the year in which he or she enters, provided that course work is completed within six years of entrance. After six years, the student must fulfill the requirements for the class in which he or she graduates.

Basic Requirements

All students must complete three required basic courses (unless exempted through procedures established by the departments concerned):

English 110 (composition) or 111 (writing seminar) or 112 (composition and literature)

Foreign language 153 (intermediate level)

Foreign language (literature)

French 213, 215, 216, 217, or the equivalent

Spanish 213, 217, 218, or the equivalent

Italian 215, 216, or the equivalent

German 215 or 216

Russian 215 or 216

Greek 211 or 212

Latin 211, 212, or 216

Near Eastern Languages & Literature 211 or 212 (Hebrew)

Japanese 211

Chinese 211

No credit is given for any language course below the one recommended by the department on the basis of the placement test unless the student is given permission to earn such credit by the Language Placement Appeals Board.

Divisional Requirements

All students must complete three courses in each of the four divisions of the undergraduate curriculum (unless exempted by completion of advanced placement requirements or by participation in the open curriculum):

Division I. Literature and the Arts (three courses; no more than one course from any one of the four groups)

1. English literature (English 160 or 165)

2. American literature (English 170 or 175)

3. Foreign literature (other than the one used for the basic requirement)

Classical languages

Greek 211, 212, 231, 241, or 242

Latin 211, 212, 216, 221, 225, or 226

- German 215 or 216
- Chinese 211
- Near Eastern Languages & Literature 211 or 212 (Hebrew)
- Japanese 211
- Romance languages (French, Italian, or Spanish) literature
- Russian 215 or 216
- In English translation:
 - Classics 255, 261, 263, 264, 265, or 272
 - Humanities 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 221, or 222
- 4. Fine Arts
 - Art 103 or 111
 - Music 101, 102, 181, or 182
 - Theater 110 or 112

Division II. The Natural Sciences and Mathematics (three courses, selected from two of the four groups)

1. Biology 111, 112, 113 (if one course, 111; if two courses, the pair must include 111)
2. Chemistry 108, 111, 116 (unless advanced preparation indicates a higher course); if one course, 108 or 111; if two courses, 111, 116
3. Physics 109, 110, 113, 114
4. Mathematics 108, 109, 111, 112, 117, Computer Science 111 (any one; if two, the pair must include Mathematics 108 or Mathematics 111 but not both)

Division III. History, Religion, and Philosophy (three courses; no more than one course from each group)

1. History 101, 102, 103, or 104
2. Religion (any four credits at the 100-level)
3. Philosophy 111

Division IV. The Social and Behavioral Sciences (three courses, no more than one from any one department)

1. Anthropology 151 or 152
2. Economics 150
3. Politics 113, 114, 115, or 116
4. Psychology 151
5. Sociology 151, 152, 153, or 154

Requirement in Health and Sport Science

All students must complete Health and Sport Science 100 and 101. This requirement must be met before enrollment in additional health and sport science elective courses, and in any case before the end of the second year.

Proficiency in the Use of English

Proficiency in the use of the English language is recognized by the faculty as a requirement in all departments. A composition condition, indicated by cc with the grade for any course, may be assigned in any department to a student whose writing is unsatisfactory, regardless of previous credits in composition. The writing of transfer students is evaluated during the orientation period each term, and students whose writing is deficient are given a composition condition.

A student who has been assigned a cc will receive a "Not Reported" for the course. The student will have one semester in which to work in the Writing Center, revising the course work to the instructor's satisfaction. If the student fails to work in the Writing Center, or fails to revise the work to the instructor's satisfaction, the grade will become an "F" automatically, unless some action is taken by the instructor. (If extenuating circumstances make it impossible for the student to make significant progress in a semester, the student may appeal to the dean's office for an additional semester of work to remove the "Incomplete.") Removal of the deficiency is prerequisite to graduation.

Basic and Divisional Requirements

The basic and divisional requirements are intended to introduce the student to various fields of knowledge and to lay the foundation for concentration in a major subject and related fields during the junior and senior years. For these reasons, as many of the requirements as feasible should be taken in the first and sophomore years.

No course requirements may be set aside or replaced by substitutes except through regular procedures already established by the faculty, or through a specific vote of the faculty in regular session.

Declaring a Major

To enter upon a major, a student should have earned at least sixty credits. The normal time for reaching this point is the end of the second semester of the sophomore year. Thirty days before the end of the sophomore year, each student who will have acquired the requisite credits by the end of the semester or the end of the summer school is required to indicate to the registrar and to the department or departments concerned the selection of a major for concentration during the junior and senior years. Before this selection is recorded by the registrar, the student must present a written statement from the authorized representative of the department or departments indicating that the student has been accepted as a candidate for the major in that department. An adviser is available to assist the student in planning a course of study for the junior and senior years. A department which rejects a student as a major must file with the dean of the College a written statement indicating the reason(s) for the rejection.

If thirty days before the end of the sophomore year a student sees that he or she will begin the fifth semester without attaining sixty credits, he or she should consult the registrar's office about the proper course to follow.

A student wishing to major in business or in accountancy should make application to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. (See page 214 of this bulletin.)

The undergraduate schools try to provide ample space in the various major fields to accommodate the interests of students. It must be understood, however, that the undergraduate schools cannot guarantee the availability of space in a given major field or a given course, since the preferences of students change and there are limits to both faculty and facilities.

After the beginning of the junior year, a student may not change from one major to another without the approval of the departments concerned. The student's course of study for the junior and senior years includes the minimum requirements for the departmental major, with other courses selected by the student and approved by the adviser.

At least half of the major must be completed at Wake Forest University.

The following fields of study are recognized for the major: accountancy, anthropology, art, biology, business, chemistry, classical studies, computer science, economics, education, English, French, French-Spanish, German, Greek, health and sport science, history, Latin, mathematical economics, mathematics, music, philosophy, physics, politics, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, speech communication, and theater. Students preparing for the ministry are advised to elect three courses in religion beyond the course included in the divisional requirements.

Maximum Number of Courses in a Department

Within the College, a maximum of 48 credits in a single field of study is allowed within the 144 credits required for graduation. Fifty-six credits toward graduation are allowed in any department authorized to offer two fields of study or more, except for the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science.

These stipulations exclude required related courses from other departments. They further exclude, for students majoring in English, English 110 and 112; and, for students majoring in a foreign language, elementary courses in that language. These limits may be exceeded in unusual circumstances only by action of the dean of the College.

Options for Meeting Major Requirements

For purposes of satisfying graduation requirements, a student must select one, and only one, of the following options, which will receive official recognition on the student's permanent record: (1) a single major, (2) a joint major, (3) a single major and a minor, (4) a single major and a double minor, (5) a double major. In addition to the options above, a student may complete the requirements of a foreign area studies program.

Double Majors and Joint Majors

A student may major in two departments in the College with the written permission of the chair of each of the departments and on condition that the student meet all requirements for the major in both departments. A student may not use the same course to meet requirements in both of the majors. For administrative purposes, the student must designate one of the two fields as the primary major, which appears first on the student's record. For purposes of the double major, the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science is considered as two departments.

A joint major consisting of fifty-six credits in two fields of study is available in classical studies and in mathematical economics.

Minors

A minor is not required. Those students, however, who select a single major—not those working toward a double or joint major—may choose a minor field from among the following: anthropology, art, astrophysics, biology, chemistry, computer science, dance, economics, educational studies, professional education, English, French language and culture, French literature, German, Greek, history, Italian, journalism, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, physics, politics, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish language and culture, Hispanic literature, speech communication, and theater.

For details of the various minors, see the appropriate departmental headings in the section of this bulletin that lists course offerings.

Interdisciplinary Minors

Interdisciplinary minors are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in the bulletin. The following programs are offered (bulletin page number in parentheses):

- Asian Studies* (page 72)
- Cultural Resource Preservation* (page 87)
- Early Christian Studies* (page 88)
- International Studies* (page 132)
- Linguistics* (page 135)
- Medieval Studies* (page 143)
- Urban Studies* (page 202)
- Women's Studies* (page 203)

Foreign Area Studies

The foreign area studies programs enable students to choose an interdisciplinary concentration in the language and culture of a foreign area. An area studies concentration may include courses in the major and also in the minor field, if a minor is chosen. Foreign area studies programs do not replace majors or minors; they may supplement either or both. A faculty adviser coordinates each foreign area studies program and advises students, and students who wish to participate in one of these programs must consult with the program coordinator, preferably in their sophomore year. Questions also may be directed to the Office of International Studies.

Foreign area studies are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in the bulletin. The following programs are offered (bulletin page numbers in parentheses):

- East Asian Studies* (page 90)
- East European Studies* (page 91)
- German Studies* (page 113)
- Italian Studies* (page 132)
- Latin American Studies* (page 134)
- Spanish Studies* (page 193)

Senior Testing

All seniors are required to participate in a testing program designed to provide objective evidence of educational development and employing measures of academic achievement such as selected portions of the Graduate Record Examination and other tests deemed appropriate by the Committee on Academic Affairs. The tests are administered during the spring semester, and relevant results are made available to the student for his or her information. The primary purpose of the program is to provide the University with information for assessing the total educational process. The program does not supplant the regular administration of the Graduate Record Examination for students applying for admission to graduate school.

Combined Degrees in Medical Technology

Students may qualify for the bachelor of science degree in medical technology by completion of the academic requirements outlined in the following paragraph and by satisfactory completion of the full program in medical technology offered by the Division of Allied Health Programs of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. A grade of at least C is required in all courses taken in the program in medical technology. At least one year (thirty-six credits) of the required academic work must be completed in the College. (Under current scheduling, successful candidates receive the baccalaureate degree in August rather than in May.)

Students seeking admission to the program must file application in the fall of the junior year with the Division of Allied Health Programs of the medical school. Selection is based upon recommendations of teachers, college academic record, Allied Health Professions Admissions Test score, impressions made in personal interviews, and work experience (not essential, but important). Students must complete the basic course requirements; the divisional course requirements in Divisions I, III, and IV; the health and sport science requirement; Biology 111, 112, 113, 114 (three courses or equivalents); Biology 326; Chemistry 111, 112, 221, and 222; mathematics (one course); and electives for a total of 108 credits. Desirable electives outside the area of chemistry and biology include physics, data processing, and personnel and management courses. (Interested students should consult a biology department faculty member during the first year for further information.)

Degrees in the Physician Assistant Program

Students may qualify for the bachelor of science degree in the Physician Assistant Program by completion of three years (108 credits) in the College with a minimum average grade of C, and by satisfactory completion of the full twenty-four-month course in the physician assistant program offered by the Division of Allied Health Programs of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. At least one year (thirty-six credits) of the required academic work must be completed in the College. Candidates for the degree must complete the basic course requirements, the divisional course requirements, the health and sport science requirement, and at least four courses in biology (including one course in microbiology). At least four courses in the social sciences (including sociology, psychology, and economics), a course in statistics, and three or four courses in chemistry are recommended. Applicants to the program must have a minimum of six months of clinical experience in patient care services. (Interested students should consult a biology department faculty member during the first year for further information.)

Wake Forest students may apply for entry into the Physician Assistant Program either of two ways:

A. The degree in the Physician Assistant Program, a combined 3+2 program, open to no more than two students a year

No more than two students a year may qualify for the bachelor of science degree in the Physician Assistant Program by completing three years (108 credits) in the College with a minimum average grade level of C, and by satisfactory completion of the full twenty-four-month course in the Physician Assistant Program offered by the Division of Allied Health Programs of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. This 3+2 contract program requires that at least one year (thirty-six credits) of the required academic work must be completed in the College. Candidates for the degree must complete the basic course requirements, the divisional course requirements, the health and sport science requirement, and at least four courses in biology (including one year in anatomy-physiology or one semester each of anatomy and physiology, and in microbiology). At least four courses in the social sciences (including sociology, psychology, and economics), a course in statistics, and three or four courses in chemistry are recommended. Applicants to the program must have a minimum of six months of clinical experience in patient care services. Interested students should consult the health professions adviser during the first year for further information.

B. Certificate of Completion, for regularly-graduating four-year students

Students intending to graduate regularly need apply no later than January 1 of the senior year. They must have completed two courses in general biology, two courses in general chemistry, and one full year of anatomy and physiology (or one semester each of anatomy and physiology). One course in microbiology is strongly recommended. Applicants must have one thousand hours of clinical experience in patient care services. Interested students should consult the health professions adviser for further information.

Degrees in Microbiology

Students may qualify for the bachelor of science degree in microbiology by completion of three years (112 credits) in the College with a minimum average grade of C, and by satisfactory completion of a thirty-two hour major in microbiology in the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. At least one year (thirty-six credits) of the required academic work must be completed in the College. Candidates for the degree must complete the basic course requirements, the divisional course requirements, and the health and sport science requirement; Microbiology 302, 304 (or Biology 462), and Biology 371. Additional courses to complete the major will be selected from Microbiology 402, 403, 404, 405, 408, 410, 411, 413, 414, 432, 433, 434, Biology 321, 360, 372, 373, 380, and 391, 392. Required related courses are two courses in physics and at least two courses in organic chemistry. Additional chemistry and mathematics courses may be suggested by the major adviser for students progressing toward advanced work in microbiology. The student should consult the microbiology adviser during the sophomore year to establish a program of study. Work on the major must begin no later than the fall semester of the junior year.

Degrees in Dentistry

A student may fulfill the requirements for the bachelor of science degree with a major in dentistry by completing three years of work in the College with a minimum average grade of C, and by satisfactorily completing the first two years of work in one of certain approved dental schools designated by the University, with a record entitling advancement to the third-year class.

For this degree, the requirements in the College are the same as those for the degree with a major in medical sciences.

Degrees in Engineering

The College cooperates with North Carolina State University and other engineering schools in offering a broad course of study in the arts and sciences combined with specialized training in engineering. A program for outstanding students covers five years of study, including three years in the College and approximately two years in one of the schools of engineering. (Depending upon the field chosen, it may be advisable for a student to attend the summer session in the engineering school after transfer.) Admission to Wake Forest does not guarantee admission to the engineering school. Those decisions are based on the student's transcript, performance, and status at the time of application. Upon successful completion of the five years of study, the student receives the bachelor of science degree in engineering from the University and the bachelor of science degree in one of the specialized engineering fields from the engineering school.

The curriculum for the first three years must include the basic and divisional requirements. Suggested courses for the first year are English 110 and 160 (or a foreign literature); appropriate foreign language courses; Mathematics 111, 112; Physics 113, 114; and Health and Sport Science 100, 101. Suggested courses for the sophomore year are English 170 (or a foreign literature); Philosophy 111; Mathematics 251, 301; Physics 141, 162, 165, 166; and Chemistry 111, 116. Suggested courses for the junior year are a history course, a religion course, Mathematics 302, 304, and Economics 150.

This rigorous curriculum demands special aptitude in science and mathematics. Electives are chosen in consultation with the chair of the Department of Physics.

Degrees in Forestry and Environmental Studies

The College cooperates with the Duke University School of Forestry and Environmental Studies to offer students interested in these areas the possibility of earning both bachelor's and master's degrees within five years. For details about the program, students should consult a faculty member in the biology department.

Courses of Instruction

Plans of study, course descriptions, and the identification of instructors apply to the academic year 1993-94 unless otherwise noted, and reflect official faculty action through March 16, 1993.

The University reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, assignment of lecturers, or the announced calendar.

Odd-numbered courses are normally taught in the fall, even-numbered in the spring. Exceptions are noted after course descriptions. Number of credits is shown by numerals immediately after the course title—for example, (3) or (3,3). The symbols P— and C— followed by course numbers or titles are used to show prerequisites and corequisites for a course.

Courses 101-199 are primarily for first-year students and sophomores; courses 200-299 are primarily for juniors and seniors; courses 301-399 are for advanced undergraduates and graduate students. (Other graduate courses are described in the bulletin of the Graduate School; a complete listing of summer courses is in the bulletin of the Summer Session.)

Anthropology

David S. Weaver, Chair

Professors David K. Evans, Stanton K. Tefft, David S. Weaver, J. Ned Woodall
Director/Curator, Museum of Anthropology/Assistant Professor Mary Jane Berman
Adjunct Professor Jay R. Kaplan

Visiting Assistant Professors Dorothy J. Cattle, Nancy L. Nelson

Adjunct Assistant Professor Steven Folmar

A major in anthropology requires a minimum of thirty-six credits and must include Anthropology 151, 152, 390, and either 370 or 374.

Students are encouraged but not required to enroll in a course offering intensive field research training. However, only four credits from Anthropology 381, 382 and four credits from Anthropology 383, 384 may be used to meet major requirements. Additional courses are counted within the limits specified for a single field of study.

A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in anthropology courses is required at the time the major is declared. A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in all anthropology courses is required for graduation.

A minor in anthropology requires twenty-four credits and must include Anthropology 151 and 152. Only one course (excluding Anthropology 151 or 152) can be taken under the pass/fail grading option and used to meet minor requirements. Minors may receive only four credits toward the minor for Anthropology 398, 399. Only four credits from Anthropology 381, 382, 383, and 384 may be used to meet minor requirements and departmental permission must be obtained for minor credit in these courses.

To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Anthropology," highly qualified majors should apply to the department for admission to the honors program. They must complete a senior research project, document their research, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

151. General Anthropology I: Archeology and Human Evolution. (4) Origin and evolution of man with a focus on human biological and sociocultural change during the Plio-Pleistocene.

152. General Anthropology II: Cultural Anthropology. (4) A cross-cultural analysis of human institutions with a survey of major theories explaining cultural variety and human nature.

300. Museum Practicum. (4) Designed to give the student practical experience while working at the Museum of Anthropology in six basic areas of museum operation: administration, research, curatorial duties, conservation, exhibition design, and education. P—Permission of instructor.

310. Museum Design and Operation. (4) The principles of museum design and operation through lectures, readings, workshops with visiting experts in the field, and field trips to neighboring museums (possibly to Washington, DC). Students have an opportunity to put some of the principles in practice by planning and designing exhibits in the Museum of Anthropology. P—Permission of instructor.

315. Material Culture Studies. (4) Explores the social and cultural roles of objects through the study of materials, technology, economy, context, and meaning. P—Anthropology 151 or 152 or permission of instructor.

320. The Anthropology of Art. (4) The arts (primarily visual) in folk and tribal cultures from comparative, structural, and functional points of view. P—Permission of instructor.

330. The Ethnographic Documentary. (4) Through the use of ethnographic documentary films and videos from different historical periods and by filmmakers from different cultural backgrounds, this course will present a historical and cross-cultural perspective on cultural systems. The course will analyze the technological and aesthetic aspects of film and video production and assess the effectiveness of visual communication in conveying ideas about culture and society. P—Anthropology 151 or Anthropology 152 or permission of instructor.

335. Mountain Folklore in North Carolina. (4) The role folklore plays in all human cultures in general and in the culture of the mountain people of Western North Carolina in particular. Field trips to mountain counties conducted. P—Permission of instructor.

340. Anthropological Theory. (4) A study and evaluation of the major anthropological theories of humans and society, including cultural evolutionism, historical particularism, functionalism, structuralism, cultural ecology, and cultural materialism. The relevance and significance of these theories to modern anthropology are discussed. P—Anthropology 151 and 152, junior standing, and permission of instructor.

342. Applied Anthropology. (4) Seminar exploring the ways anthropological concepts and data contribute to understanding and solving contemporary problems facing human populations everywhere. Emphasis will be on change and conflict situations in developing areas, but problems encountered by urban and industrialized cultures also are considered. P—Anthropology 152.

349. Introduction to Political Anthropology. (4) Comprehensive overview of political anthropology, including cross-cultural perspectives on law, political organization, the early state, political succession, and power. P—Anthropology 152 or permission of instructor.

352. Peoples and Cultures of Africa. (4) The ethnology and prehistory of Africa south of the Sahara. P—Anthropology 151 or Anthropology 152.

358. The American Indian. (4) Ethnology and prehistory of the American Indian. P—Anthropology 151 or Anthropology 152.

360. Human Ecology. (4) The relations between the human being and the inorganic and organic environments as mediated by culture; laboratory experience with aerial photography and other remote sensing techniques. P—Anthropology 151 or Anthropology 152 or permission of instructor.

362. Medical Anthropology. (4) The impact of Western medical practices and theory on non-Western cultures and anthropological contributions to the solving of world health problems. P—Anthropology 151 or permission of instructor.

364. Physical Anthropology. (4) Introduction to biological anthropology, human biology, evolution, and variability. P—Anthropology 151.

366. Human and Non-Human Evolution. (4) Investigation of primate and human evolution, both in anatomy and in behavior. P—Anthropology 151 and permission of instructor.

368. Human Osteology. (4) A survey of human skeletal anatomy and analysis, emphasizing archeological and anthropological applications. P—Anthropology 151 and permission of instructor.

370. Old World Prehistory. (4) Survey of Old World prehistory, with particular attention to geological and climatological events affecting culture change. P—Anthropology 151 or permission of instructor.

372. Archeology of Early Complex Societies. (4) Comparison of the archeology of early complex societies, with special attention to the Maya, Aztec, and Teotihuacan cultures in Mesoamerica; the Huari and Inca in South America; the Anasazi of North America; and Egyptian and Mesopotamian groups of the Old World. An emphasis will be given to theories of origins and change in complex societies. P—Anthropology 151 or permission of instructor.

374. Prehistory of North America. (4) The development of culture in North America as outlined by archeological research, with an emphasis on paleoecology and sociocultural processes. P—Anthropology 151 or permission of instructor.

376. Archeology of the Southeastern United States. (4) A study of human adaptation in the Southeast from Pleistocene to the present, emphasizing the role of ecological factors in determining the formal aspects of culture. P—Anthropology 151.

378. Conservation Archeology. (4) A study of the laws, regulations, policies, programs, and political processes used to conserve prehistoric and historic cultural resources. P—Anthropology 151 or permission of instructor.

380. Anthropological Statistics. (4) Basic statistics, emphasizing application in anthropological research. (A student who receives credit for this course may not also receive credit for Biology 380, Business 201, Mathematics 109, or Sociology 380.)

381, 382. Archeological Research. (4,4) The recovery of anthropological data through the use of archeology, taught in the excavation and interpretation of a prehistoric site. P—Anthropology 151.

383, 384. Field Research in Cultural Anthropology. (4,4) Training in techniques for the study of foreign cultures, carried out in the field. P—Anthropology 151 or Anthropology 152.

385, 386. Special Problems Seminar. (4) Intensive investigation of current scientific research within the discipline. The course concentrates on problems of contemporary interest. P—Permission of instructor.

390. Student-Faculty Seminar. (4) A review of contemporary problems in the fields of archeology and physical and cultural anthropology. P—Junior standing or permission of instructor.

Salem Hall houses the chemistry department.

398,399. Individual Study. (1,2,3, or 4) A reading, research, or internship course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a departmental faculty member.

Art

Harry B. Titus Jr., Chair
 Reynolds Professor Terisio Pignatti (Venice)
 Professors Robert Knott, Margaret S. Smith
 Assistant Professor Bernadine Barnes
 Visiting Assistant Professor David Helm
 Visiting Instructor Alix Hitchcock
 Lecturer Brian Allen (London)
 Assistant Lecturer Katie Scott (London)
 Gallery Director Victor Faccinto

The department offers courses in the history of art and in the practice of drawing, painting, printmaking, and sculpture. A visiting artist program and varied exhibitions in the gallery of the Scales Fine Arts Center as well as internships in local cultural organizations supplement the regular academic program of the department.

The department offers two fields of study, art history and studio art. A major in art history requires forty credits in the department. Thirty-two credits are to be in art history, and eight credits are to be in studio art. A major in studio art requires forty credits in the department. Thirty-two credits are to be in studio art, and eight credits are to be in art history.

A minor in art history requires twenty credits in the department, sixteen in art history and four in studio art. A minor in studio art requires twenty credits in the department, sixteen in studio art and four in art history. Students may major in one field and minor in the other within a limit of fifty-six credits.

Any student interested in majoring or minoring in art should consult the chair of the art department.

Qualified students in both the art history and studio areas may ask to participate in the department's honors program. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Art," students must execute a written project or create a body of work; the results of their efforts must be presented and defended before a committee of the departmental faculty. Interested students should consult any member of the department for additional information concerning the requirements for this program.

Art History

103. Introduction to the Visual Arts. (4) A historical introduction to the arts of various cultures and times with discussions of technique, style, methodology, and terms. Satisfies the Division I requirement.

- 231. American Art. (4) A survey of American painting and sculpture from the Colonial period through the Armory Show held in 1913 in New York.
- 233. American Architecture. (4) A survey of American architecture from 1650 to the present.
- 235. Art and Architecture of the South. (4) A survey of architecture, painting, and sculpture in the South from 1600 to the present.
- 241. Ancient Art. (4) A survey of architecture, painting, and sculpture from the prehistoric through the late Roman periods.
- 244. Greek Art. (4) A survey of architecture, painting, and sculpture from the prehistoric through the Hellenistic periods.
- 245. Roman Art. (4) A survey of Etruscan and Roman architecture, painting, and sculpture.
- 251. Women and Art. (4) A historical examination of the changing image of women in art and the role of women artists.
- 252. Romanesque Art. (4) Art and architecture from the Carolingian Renaissance through the twelfth century.
- 253. The Gothic Cathedral. (4) The character and evolution of Gothic cathedrals and the sculpture, stained glass, metalworks, and paintings designed for them.
- 254. Luxury Arts in the Middle Ages. (4) Medieval illuminated manuscripts and precious objects made of gold, silver, ivory, enamel, and other luxury materials are the subjects of this course.
- 258. The History of Prints. (4) A survey of the technical and stylistic developments in printmaking from the fifteenth century to the present. Special attention will be given to the function of prints in society. Student research will focus on prints in the University Print Collection.
- 267. Early Italian Renaissance Art. (4) An introduction to the painting, sculpture, and architecture of Italy from 1250 to 1500, with a concentration on the arts in fifteenth century Florence.
- 268. Italian High Renaissance and Mannerist Art. (4) A study of the arts in sixteenth century Italy, with emphasis on the achievement of Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, Michelangelo, Giorgione, and Titian, and the dissolution of Renaissance idealism in the art of the early Mannerists.
- 270. Northern Renaissance Art. (4) A survey of painting, sculpture, graphic art, and patronage in Northern European art from 1300 to the death of Dürer in 1528.
- 271. Studies in French Art. (2) Lectures and field trips in French painting, sculpture, and architecture, concentrating on the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Offered in Dijon.

- 272. Baroque Art. (4) A survey of European painting and sculpture from 1600 to 1700.
- 275. History of Landscape Architecture. (4) Study of garden design, beginning with Roman gardens and continuing through the creation of public parks in the nineteenth century.
- 281. Modern Art to 1900. (4) A survey of European painting and sculpture from 1700 to 1900, emphasizing the nineteenth century.
- 282. Modern Art after 1900. (4) A survey of European and American painting and sculpture from 1900 to the present.
- 283. Impressionism. (4) A detailed study of the French Impressionist painters, with some consideration of Impressionism in other forms.
- 284. Contemporary American Art. (4) An intensive study of American painting and sculpture from 1950 to the present.
- 288. Modern Architecture. (4) A survey of European and American architecture from 1900 to the present.
- 291. Individual Study. (4) A course of independent study with faculty guidance.
- 292. Individual Study. (4) A course of independent study with faculty guidance.
- 293. Practicum. (4) Internships in local cultural organizations, to be arranged by the art department. Pass/fail.
- 296. Art History Seminar. (2,4) Offered by members of the faculty or visiting faculty on topics of their choice. A paper is required. P—Permission of instructor.

- 299. International Studies in Art. (4) Offered by art department faculty in locations outside of the United States, on specific topics in art history or studio art. Offered in the summer.
- 2320. English Art, Hogarth to the Present. (4) A survey of English painting, sculpture, and architecture in the Georgian, Victorian, and modern periods. Slide lectures, student reports, museum visits, and lectures. Taught by special lecturer. Offered in London.
- 2693. Venetian Renaissance Art. (4) A survey of the art of the Venetian Renaissance, with slide lectures and museum visits. Offered in Venice.
- Anthropology 320. The Anthropology of Art. (4) The arts (primarily visual) in folk and tribal cultures from comparative, structural, and functional points of view. P—Permission of instructor.

Studio Art*

111. Introduction to Drawing and Design. (4) An introduction to the basic elements of two-dimensional and three-dimensional design, to include drawing, painting, and sculpture. Six class hours per week. Satisfies the Division I requirement.

112. Introduction to Painting. (4) An introduction to painting fundamentals in a variety of contemporary styles in the oil or acrylic medium. P—Art 111.

115. Introduction to Sculpture. (4) An introduction to basic sculptural styles and multi-media, with emphasis on contemporary concepts. P—Art 111.

117. Introduction to Printmaking. (4) An introduction to one or more of the following areas of printmaking: lithography, intaglio, and silkscreen. P—Art 111.

211. Intermediate Drawing. (4) Continuation of Art 111, with concentrated emphasis on drawing fundamentals and idea development in realistic and abstract styles, emphasizing composition, value, line, and form. Six class hours per week. P—Art 111.

212. Intermediate Painting. (4) Continuation of Art 112, with concentrated emphasis on idea development. P—Art 112. May be repeated.

215. Intermediate Sculpture. (4) Continuation of Art 115, with emphasis on idea development. P—Art 115. May be repeated.

217. Intermediate Printmaking. (4) Continuation of Art 117, with emphasis on idea development. P—Art 117. May be repeated.

218. Figure Drawing. (4) An introduction to figure drawing. P—Art 111.

221. Advanced Drawing. (4) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—Art 211.

222. Advanced Painting. (4) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—Art 212.

225. Advanced Sculpture. (4) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—Art 215.

227. Advanced Printmaking. (4) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—Art 217.

290. Printmaking Workshop. (4) A workshop course exploring relief, intaglio, lithography, and monotype techniques, open to students at any skill level. Offered in the summer.

295. Studio Seminar. (2,4) Offered by members of the faculty or visiting faculty on topics of their choice and related studio activities. P—Permission of instructor.

*Prerequisites may be waived with permission of instructor.

Asian Studies

Win-chiat Lee (Philosophy), Coordinator

The minor in Asian Studies consists of a total of twenty-four credits which students must select from an approved list of courses on file with the coordinator and listed below. Candidates for the minor are required to take these courses from at least three different departments. While some study of an Asian language is strongly recommended, it is not required. Although students may repeat Asian Studies 381, Independent Research in Asian Studies (2-4) for credit, only four of these credits can apply toward completion of the Asian Studies minor.

Appropriate credit in various fields of Asian Studies also may be obtained by study in China through the SASASAAS/Wake Forest Program or in Japan through the Wake Forest/Tokai University Program, or through other Wake Forest approved courses of study in Asia. Students intending to minor in Asian Studies should consult the coordinator, preferably in their sophomore year. Courses may be chosen from among the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

381. Independent Research in Asian Studies. (2-4) Supervised independent research project on a topic related to Asia. Requires the approval of both the instructor and the coordinator of Asian Studies. May be repeated for credit.

At the end of the sophomore year a student electing to major in biology meets with a major adviser to plan the course of study for the junior and senior years. The requirements for completion of the major are those in effect at the time of the conference, since the curriculum and departmental requirements may change slightly during the student's period of residence. All majors are required to take Biology 112, 113, and 214, and at least three 300-level 5-credit biology courses. Co-major requirements are Chemistry 111 and 116 and two additional courses in the physical sciences.

For students declaring majors in the spring, the requirements for a major are a minimum of forty-one credits in biology. A minimum grade average of C on all courses attempted in biology at Wake Forest University is required for graduation with a major in biology. (Students declaring a major later than the spring should consult with a biology major adviser for the specific major requirement at that time.)

A minor in biology requires twenty credits. Courses taken pass/fail cannot count toward a minor. A minimum overall grade average of C must be earned on all Wake Forest University biology courses taken to complete a minor.

Prospective majors are strongly urged to select either Biology 112 or 113 as their first course in biology. Most prospective majors also should take Chemistry 111 and 116 in their first year; the majority continue with two additional physical sciences as sophomores.

Advanced work in many areas of biology may require additional courses in mathematics, the physical sciences, and other areas of biology. The adviser calls these to the attention of the student, depending on individual needs.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in biology. To be graduated with the distinction "Honors in Biology," a graduating student must have a minimum GPA of 3.0 in all courses and a 3.3 in his/her biology courses. In addition, the student must submit an honors paper (written in the form of a scientific paper) describing the research which must be defended before his/her advisory committee. Specific details regarding the honors program, including selecting an adviser and an advisory committee, deadlines, and writing of the honors thesis, may be obtained from the chair of the departmental undergraduate studies committee.

Most 300-level courses have the 112, 113, 214 series as prerequisites. Any exceptions to the stated prerequisites must be approved by the chair of the department. Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in biology at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

111. Biological Principles. (5) A study of the general principles of living systems with focus on the cellular, organismal, and populational levels of biological organization, emphasizing the role of heredity and evolution in these systems. Course may count for major credit in biology, but is intended for students with little or no previous experience in biology. Lab—three hours.

112. Comparative Physiology. (5) An introduction to the form and function of organisms, with emphasis on physical principles, structural organization, and critical function of plants and animals. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites.

113. Evolutionary and Ecological Biology. (5) An introduction to the principles of genetics, ecology, and evolution as they apply to organisms, populations and communities, with emphasis on evolutionary processes within an ecological context. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites.

214. Cellular and Molecular Biology. (5) An introduction to the principles and processes of cellular and molecular biology including molecular organization of cellular structures, regulation of cellular functions, energetics and metabolism, molecular nature of the genome and the regulation of gene expression. Lab—three hours. P—Chemistry 111, 116.

301-305. Topics in Biology. (1-5) Seminar and/or lecture courses in selected topics, some involving laboratory instruction.

312. Genetics. (5) A study of the use of genetic analytical methods to establish the principles of inheritance and the mechanisms of gene function. Covered special topics include mechanisms of genetic change, the genetics of development, and population genetics. The lab stresses analytical methods through problem solving and by demonstrations of modern genetic techniques. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

314. Evolution. (4) Analysis of the theories, evidences, and mechanisms of evolution. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

315. Biology of Stress. (4) A lecture course involving a study of the ways in which plants and animals react to and cope with abiotic stresses. Foci include mechanisms at the ecological, organismic, cellular and molecular levels. A term paper is required, reviewing the literature in some area covered by the course. Credit not allowed for both Biology 315 and 316. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

316. Biology of Stress. (5) A lecture and laboratory course involving a study of the ways in which plants and animals react to and cope with abiotic and biotic stresses. Foci include mechanisms at the ecological, organismic, cellular and molecular levels. A laboratory project implementing the scientific method and designed to produce new knowledge is required. Credit not allowed for both Biology 315 and 316. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

318. Gender and Science. (3) Lectures and seminars examining the historical and contemporary interactions of women and science. Topics include contributions of women scientists, a feminist analysis of scientific methodology, and gender issues in science. This course may not be taken for major or minor credit in biology, but may be taken towards the minor in Women's Studies.

319. Paleobiology. (5) Analysis of the fossil record, with emphasis on biological and evolutionary principles. Topics include fossilization, paleoecology, morphological analysis, biogeography, macroevolution, diversification, and extinction, systematics, and the role of chance in evolution. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

320. Comparative Anatomy. (5) A study of the vertebrate body from an evolutionary, functional, and developmental perspective. Laboratories emphasize structure and function, primarily through the dissection of representative vertebrates. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

321. Parasitology. (5) A survey of protozoan, helminth, and arthropod parasites from the standpoint of morphology, taxonomy, life histories, and host/parasite relationships. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, 214.

322. Biomechanics. (5) An analysis of the relationship between organismal form and function using principles from physics and engineering. Solid and fluid mechanics are employed to study design in living systems, especially vertebrates. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

323. Animal Behavior. (4) A survey of laboratory and field research on animal behavior. (May count as biology or psychology but not both; choice to be made at registration.) P—Permission of instructor.

326. Microbiology. (5) The structure, function, and taxonomy of microorganisms with emphasis on bacteria. Covered special topics include microbial ecology, industrial microbiology, and medical microbiology. The lab emphasizes microbial diversity through characterizations of isolates from nature. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

328. Vascular Plants. (5) A comparative survey of the vascular plants, with emphasis on structure, reproduction, classification, and phylogeny. Lab—four hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

331. Invertebrates. (5) Systematic study of invertebrates, with emphasis on functional morphology, behavior, ecology, and phylogeny. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

333. Vertebrates. (5) Systematic study of vertebrates, with emphasis on evolution, physiology, behavior, and ecology. Laboratory devoted to systematic, field, and experimental studies. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

335. Insect Biology. (5) A study of the diversity, structure, development, physiology, behavior, and ecology of insects. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

336. Bioacoustics. (5) A lecture and laboratory course analyzing mechanisms of sound production, transmission, and reception and their relevance to animal orientation and communication. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

338. Plant Systematics. (5) A study of the diversity and evolution of flowering plants. Lectures emphasize the comparative study of selected plant families, their relationships and the use of new information and techniques to enhance our understanding of plant evolution. Labs emphasize more practical aspects of plant systematics such as the use of identification keys, recognition of common local plants, molecular techniques, and basic phylogenetic analysis. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

339. Principles of Biosystematics. (5) An exploration of the current theoretical and practical approaches to the study of macroevolution in plants and animals. Topics include theory and methods of constructing evolutionary trees, sources of data and cladistic biogeography. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

- 340. Ecology. (5) Interrelationships among living systems and their environments; structure and dynamics of major ecosystem types; contemporary problems in ecology. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.
- 341. Marine Biology. (5) An introduction to the physical, chemical, and biological parameters affecting the distribution of marine organisms. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.
- 342. Aquatic Ecology. (5) A course designed to cover the general principles and concepts of limnology and aquatic biology as they apply to lentic and lotic habitats. A major portion of the field study is centered at the Charles M. Allen Biological Station. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.
- 344. Ecological and Evolutionary Genetics. (4) Principles of genetics in the context of ecological and evolutionary studies, including micro- and macro-evolutionary processes. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214. Permission of instructor.
- 345. Neurobiology. (4) Introduction to the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches will be integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.
- 346. Neurobiology. (5) Introduction to the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches will be integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. The laboratory will emphasize electrophysiological techniques with experiments from the cellular to the behavioral level. Lab—three hours. P—Permission of instructor.
- 350. Biological Resources and the Environment. (4) Lectures, readings, and discussions examining biological resources, their limitations and methods for sustainability. Genetic, aquatic, terrestrial, and ecosystem resources will be examined. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214, or permission of instructor.
- 351. Vertebrate Physiology. (5) A lecture and laboratory course examining regulatory principles, integration in the nervous system and the physiology of the cardiovascular, respiratory, and renal systems of vertebrates. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.
- 352. Plant Physiology. (5) A study of the mechanisms by which various plant systems function, thematically structured around the plant life cycle. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.
- 354. Vertebrate Endocrinology. (4) A lecture course which considers the evolution of the endocrine glands and hormones and the physiology of the main hormonal pathways of vertebrates. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.
- 355. Avian Biology. (5) A lecture and laboratory course emphasizing ecological and evolutionary influences on the physiology, behavior, and population biology of birds. Includes taxonomy of the world's major bird groups. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

360. Development. (5) A description of the major events and processes of animal development, with an analysis of the causal factors underlying them. Special attention is given to the embryonic development of vertebrates, but consideration is also given to other types of development and other organisms. Topics include fertilization, early development, growth and cell division, cell differentiation, the role of genes in development, cell interaction, morphogenesis, regeneration, birth defects, and cancer. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

362. Immunology. (4) A study of the components and protective mechanisms of the immune system. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

363. Sensory Biology. (4) A lecture course involving a study of the nature of energy in the environment and how it is absorbed and transduced in sensory systems. Anatomical, physiological, biochemical and biophysical approaches will be integrated in the study of sensory mechanisms in plants and animals. A term paper is required reviewing the literature in some area covered by the course. Credit not allowed for both Biology 363 and 364. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

364. Sensory Biology. (5) A lecture and laboratory course involving a study of energy in the environment and how it is absorbed and transduced in sensory systems. Anatomical, physiological, biochemical and biophysical approaches will be integrated in the study of sensory mechanisms in plants and animals. A laboratory project implementing the scientific method and designed to produce new knowledge is required. Credit not allowed for both Biology 363 and 364. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

365. Cell Motility. (5) A lecture and laboratory course exploring the movements in and of cells (for example: mitosis, cytoplasmic streaming, muscle contraction, nerve transport). Light and electron microscopic methods as well as biochemical and biophysical approaches to the study of cell motility will be discussed. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

366. Human and Non-Human Evolution. (4) Investigation of primate and human evolution, both in anatomy and in behavior. (May count as either biology or anthropology but not both; choice to be made at registration.) P—Permission of instructor.

370. Biochemistry I. Enzymes and Metabolism. (4) A lecture course introducing the principles of biochemistry, with an emphasis on the experimental approaches that elucidated these principles. Major topics will include structure, function, and biosynthesis of biological molecules, analysis of enzyme function and activity, and regulation of metabolic pathways. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

371. Biochemistry I. Enzymes and Metabolism Laboratory. (1) The laboratory will emphasize approaches to isolation and analysis of both proteins and nucleic acids. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214. P— or C—Biology 370. This course, paired with Biology 370, may be used as one of the three 300-level 5-credit courses required for the major.

372. Biochemistry II. Molecular Biology. (5) An analysis of the molecular mechanisms by which stored genetic information directs cellular development. Emphasis will be placed on storage and transmission of genetic information, regulation of gene expression, and the role of these processes in development. The laboratory will focus on modern techniques of recombinant DNA analysis. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, 214, and 370.

373. Techniques in Electron Microscopy. (5) An introduction to the electron microscope as an experimental tool in biology. Includes instruction in common techniques used in the field and lecture on recognition and interpretation of cellular ultrastructure. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

375. Optical Methods in Biological Sciences. (5) Methods in light and electron microscopy including specimen preparation, image generation and recording. Students will learn the basic techniques of photography (developing and printing), fixation and sectioning of specimens, and video-enhanced, computer-generated imaging as well as image and motion analysis. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

376. Ichthyology. (5) A comparative study of structure/function, classification, and phylogeny of fish. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

379. Molecular Techniques in Evolution and Systematics. (5) A lecture and laboratory course that explores molecular methods that are basic to many disciplines within biology, especially ecology, evolution, and systematics. Laboratories focus on the acquisition of molecular techniques, including allozyme electrophoresis, mitochondrial plastid, and nuclear DNA restriction fragment length polymorphism analyses, gene amplification, PCR (polymerase chain reaction), direct and/or cycle sequencing, and RAPDs (randomly amplified polymorphic DNAs). Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

380. Biostatistics. (4) An introduction to statistical methods used by biologists, including descriptive statistics, hypothesis-testing, analysis of variance, and regression and correlation. May count as biology or anthropology but not both; choice to be made at registration. A student who receives credit for this course may not also receive credit for Anthropology 380, Business 201, Mathematics 109, or Sociology 380.

381. Biostatistics Laboratory. (1) Application of computer-based statistical software. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214. P— or C—Biology 380. This course, paired with Biology 380, may not be used to satisfy one of the three 300-level 5-credit courses required for the major.

382. Behavioral Ecology. (5) A lecture and laboratory course analyzing behavioral solutions to challenges faced by animals in nature, emphasizing the role of natural selection in shaping behavior. Topics include mating systems, optimal foraging, sociobiology, parental care, and evolution of sexual reproduction. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214 or permission of instructor.

385. Cellular Physiology. (5) In-depth examination of current topics in cell biology such as cellular signalling, the extracellular matrix, biogenesis of mitochondria and chloroplasts, control of cell division, protein sorting in the Golgi, protein translocation across membranes, and molecular motors. Lab—three hours. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

391, 392. Research in Biology. (2,2) Independent library and laboratory investigation carried out under the supervision of a member of the staff. Pass/fail or for grade at discretion of the instructor. P—Permission of instructor.

393, 394. Research in Biology. (2,2) Courses designed for students who wish to continue research projects beyond Biology 391 and 392. Pass/fail optional. Not to be counted toward major. P—Permission of instructor.

396. Biomedical Ethics. (4) Lectures and seminars examining contemporary issues in biomedical ethics including the proper role of biomedical research, and current controversies in health care and medical practice. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

397. Seminar in Biology. (2-4) Consideration of major biological topics through intensive reading and discussions. P—Biology 112, 113, and 214.

The department offers programs leading to the BA and BS degrees in chemistry and is on the list of departments certified by the American Chemical Society.

The bachelor of arts degree in chemistry includes Chemistry 111, 116, 221, 222, 341, 342 or 344 and 361; Mathematics 111, 112; and Physics 113, 114.

The bachelor of science degree in chemistry includes Chemistry 111, 116, 221, 222, 334, 341, 344, either 351 or 356/357, 361, 381, 382, 383, 391 or 392; Mathematics 111 and 112 and either 113 or 301; and Physics 113 and 114.

Additional mathematics and science courses are strongly recommended for BS degree candidates. The number and selection of these courses depends on the professional goals of the individual student. Examples of these courses are Mathematics 302 and 304; Physics 161 and 164; and Biology 370 and 371.

The department also offers a five-year BA/MS degree program. Students qualifying for the program may receive a tuition scholarship in the senior year. For information consult the department chair.

A minor in chemistry requires twenty-three credits in chemistry and must include at least one of the following courses: 334, 341, 342 or 344, 351, 356/357, 361. The department will not accept courses taken pass/fail to count toward the minor.

Unless otherwise stated, all chemistry courses are open to chemistry majors on a letter-grade basis only. Majors are also required to complete on a letter-grade basis the required physics and mathematics courses.

A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in the first two years of chemistry is required of students who elect to major in the department. Admission to any class is contingent upon satisfactory grades in prerequisite courses, and registration for advanced courses must be approved by the department. Candidates for either the BA or BS degree with a major in chemistry must have a minimum GPA of 2.0 in their chemistry courses numbered 200 or above.

Qualified majors are considered for honors in chemistry. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Chemistry," a student must have a minimum GPA in chemistry courses of 3.3 and a minimum overall GPA of 3.0. In addition, the honors candidate must satisfactorily complete an approved research project, prepare a paper describing the project, and present results at a seminar for departmental approval. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

For the BS major, the following schedule of chemistry and related courses is typical:

First Year	Sophomore	Junior	Senior
Chemistry 111, 116	Chemistry 221, 222	Chemistry 341, 344	Chemistry 334
Mathematics 111, 112	Physics 113, 114	Chemistry 383	Chemistry 361
		Chemistry 391 or 392	Chemistry
		Mathematics 113 (or 301)	300-Level
		Science	Elective

For the BA major the following schedule of chemistry and related courses is typical:

First Year	Sophomore	Junior	Senior
Chemistry 111, 116	Chemistry 221, 222	Chemistry 341, 342	Chemistry 361
Mathematics 111, 112	Physics 113, 114

For variations in either of the schedules above, the student should consult a member of the faculty in chemistry.

Students electing laboratory courses in chemistry are required to pay for breakage and for certain consumable materials as determined by the department.

108. Chemical Concepts. (5) Introduction to chemistry for non-science majors. Laboratory covers experimental aspects of topics discussed in lecture. Satisfies Division II requirement. A student may not receive credit for both Chemistry 108 and Chemistry 111. Lab—three hours.

111. College Chemistry. (5) Fundamental chemical principles. Laboratory covers experimental aspects of basic concepts. Lab—three hours.

116. Equilibrium and Analysis. (5) Fundamental principles of equilibrium as applied to inorganic and generalized acid-base systems. Laboratory covers aspects of quantitative and inorganic qualitative analysis. Lab—three hours. P—Chemistry 111.

334. Chemical Analysis. (5) Theoretical and practical applications of modern methods of chemical analysis. Lab—four hours. C—Chemistry 341.

341. Physical Chemistry I. (5) Fundamentals of equilibrium thermodynamics and electrochemistry, phenomenological kinetics, and introductory computational methods. Lab—four hours. P—Chemistry 116, Math 111, Physics 113-114. C—Math 112.

342. Physical Chemistry IIA. (5) Fundamentals of quantum mechanics, statistical thermodynamics, and introductory computational methods. Lab—four hours. P—Chemistry 341, Math 111-112, Physics 113-114.

344. Physical Chemistry IIB. (5) Fundamentals of quantum mechanics, statistical thermodynamics, and introductory computational methods. Lab—four hours. P—Chemistry 341, Math 111-112 and 301 (or 113), Physics 113-114.

351. Special Topics in Biochemistry. (4) Fundamentals of biochemistry, with particular emphasis on mechanistic analysis of metabolic pathways, enzymatic activity, and drug action. P—Chemistry 222.

356, 357. Chemical Spectroscopy. (2,2) Fundamental aspects of the theory and application of chemical spectroscopy, as found in the areas of analytical, inorganic, organic, and physical chemistry. Emphasis will vary. Seven-week courses. P—Chemistry 342 or 344, 361, or permission of instructor.

361. Inorganic Chemistry. (5) Principles and reactions of inorganic chemistry. Lab—four hours. P—Chemistry 342 or 344.

381, 382. Chemistry Seminar. (0,0) Discussions of contemporary research. Attendance required of BS chemistry majors in the junior and senior years.

383. Chemical Literature. (1) Introduction to the chemical literature and searching techniques for the acquisition of chemical information. P—Chemistry 222.

391, 392. Undergraduate Research. (2,2) Undergraduate research. Lab—eight hours.

John L. Andronica, Chair

Professors John L. Andronica, Robert W. Ulery Jr.

Associate Professor Mary L. B. Pendergraft

Assistant Professor James T. Powell

The Department of Classical Languages offers three majors: Greek, Latin, and classical studies. Minors are offered in Greek, Latin, and classical studies.

A major in Greek requires thirty-five credits in the department beyond Greek 112. Twenty-eight of these credits must be in Greek courses. Greek 225 and Classics 270 are required.

A minor in Greek requires Greek 153, 211, one other 200-level course in the Greek language; Classics 270; and one additional course (three or four credits) in Greek (200-level) or Latin or Classics.

A major in Latin requires thirty-two credits in the department beyond Latin 153. Twenty-four of these credits must be in Latin courses. Classics 271 also is a requirement, and Classics 270 is recommended.

A minor in Latin requires three 200-level courses in Latin; Classics 271; and one additional course (three or four credits) in Greek or Latin or classics.

A major in classical studies requires fifty-six credits. A minimum of thirty-six credits of course work must be taken in the department. A maximum of forty-eight credits in the department may be exceeded only if a student undertakes course work in both Latin and Greek. The student must take a minimum of two courses at the 200-level in either Greek or Latin and the following: Art 241 (Ancient Art), Classics 265 (Greek Literature), Classics 272 (Latin Literature), Classics 270 (Greek Civilization), and Classics 271 (Roman Civilization).

A maximum of sixteen credits may be taken in the following: Art 244 (Greek Art), 245 (Roman Art), 246 (Greek and Roman Architecture), 252 (Romanesque Art); History 215, 216 (The Ancient World); Philosophy 201 (Ancient and Medieval Philosophy), 230 (Plato), 231 (Aristotle); Politics 271 (Plato, Aristotle, and Classical Political Philosophy), 274 (Noble Greeks and Romans); Religion 311 (Poetic Literature of the Hebrew Bible), 314 (Ancient Israel and Her Neighbors), 363 (Hellenistic Religions); Hebrew 111, 112, 153, 211. Other courses may be allowed with the permission of the department.

A minor in classical studies requires five courses in addition to Latin or Greek 153: Classics 265, 272, and either 270 or 271; and two additional courses (8 credits) in Greek, Latin, classics, or other courses allowed by the department.

The requirements for certification to teach Latin in high school are the same as the requirements for a major in Latin. A major in classical studies serves as an appropriate part of the program of studies required for certification to teach Latin in high school. A student wishing to secure this certification should confer with the chair of the department.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in Latin, Greek, or classical studies. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Latin," "Honors in Greek," or "Honors in Classical Studies," a student must complete an honors research project and pass a comprehensive oral examination. For honors in Latin or Greek, at least two of the courses counted toward the major must be seminar courses; for honors in classical studies, at least one seminar course in Latin, Greek, or classics is required. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Greek

111, 112. Elementary Greek. (5,5) Greek grammar; selections from Greek prose writers and poets.

153. Intermediate Greek. (4) Grammar and selected readings.

211. Plato. (4) Selections from the dialogues of Plato.

212. Homer. (4) Selections from the Iliad and the Odyssey.

221. Greek Readings. (2,3, or 4) A course designed to meet individual needs and interests.

225. Advanced Grammar and Composition. (4) Intensive work in morphology and syntax, with practice in composition and stylistic analysis of selected readings.

231. The Greek New Testament. (4) Selections from the Greek New Testament.

241. Greek Tragedy. (4) Close study of a selected tragedy or tragedies. This course includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek tragedy, with collateral reading of other tragedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 211, 212, or equivalent.

242. Greek Comedy. (4) Close study of a selected comedy or comedies of Aristophanes. This course includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek comedy, with collateral reading of other comedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 211, 212, or equivalent.

Latin

111, 112. Elementary Latin. (4,4) Introduction to Latin grammar.

113. Intensive Elementary Latin. (5) Introduction to Latin grammar. Covers material of Latin 111 and 112 in one semester. Not open to students who have had Latin 111 or 112.

153. Intermediate Latin. (5) Grammar review and selected readings.

211. Introduction to Latin Poetry. (4) Readings primarily from Virgil's Aeneid, with an introduction to literary criticism.

212. Introduction to Latin Prose. (4) Readings primarily from the orations of Cicero, with attention to the elements of rhetoric in Roman public discourse.

216. Roman Lyric Poetry. (4) An interpretation and evaluation of lyric poetry through readings from the poems of Catullus and Horace.

221. Roman Historians. (4) Readings in the works of Sallust, Livy, or Tacitus, with attention to the historical background and the norms of ancient historiography.

- 225. Roman Epistolography. (4) Selected readings from the correspondence of Cicero and Pliny the Younger and the verse epistles of Horace and Ovid.
- 226. Roman Comedy. (4) Readings of selected comedies of Plautus and Terence, with a study of the traditions of comedy and dramatic techniques.
- 231. Roman Elegy. (4) Readings from the poems of Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid, with study of the elegiac tradition.
- 241. Roman Satire. (4) Selected readings from Horace and Juvenal, with attention to the origin and development of hexameter satire.
- 243. Latin Readings. (2,3, or 4) A course designed to meet individual needs and interests.
- 250. Prose Composition. (2) Exercises in writing of Latin prose, with an introduction to prose stylistics.
- 398, 399. The Teaching of Latin. (4,4) A reading course and workshop in problems of Latin pedagogy and the secondary Latin curriculum, designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students.

Seminars

The following seminars are offered by members of the faculty on topics and authors of their choice. A paper is required.

- 261. Seminar in Poetry of the Republican Period. (3)
- 262. Seminar in Prose of the Republican Period. (3)
- 281. Seminar in Augustan and Later Poetry. (3)
- 282. Seminar in Augustan and Later Prose. (3)
- 291, 292. Honors in Latin. (2, 2) Directed research for honors paper.

Classics

- 151. Ethics in Greece and Rome. (2) Reading and discussion of Aristotle's Ethics and Cicero's On Moral Duties, with attention to our own ethical dilemmas. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.
- 220. Greek and Latin in Current Use. (2) A systematic study of Greek and Latin loan words, roots, prefixes, and suffixes as elements of English and specialized vocabularies (e.g., scientific and legal). A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.
- 252. Women in Antiquity. (3,4) The course explores the place of women in Greek and Roman society, men's views of them, their views of themselves, and their contribution to society, through primary source readings from the ancient authors. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

255. Classical Epic: Iliad, Odyssey, Aeneid. (4) A study of the three principal epic poems from ancient Greece and Rome. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

261. Greek Myth. (4) A consideration, principally through close study of selected literary works, of Greek myth in its various forms, primary (archaic and classical periods) and secondary (Hellenistic and Roman); the course also will consider Greek myth's afterlife in the modern period. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.

263. Tragic Drama. (4) A study of the origins and development of Greek tragedy and its influence on Roman writers, with readings from Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

264. Greek and Roman Comedy. (4) Representative works of Aristophanes, Menander, Plautus, and Terence, with attention to the origins and development of comedy. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

265. A Survey of Greek Literature. (4) A study of selections from Greek literature in English translation. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.

270. Greek Civilization. (3) Lectures and collateral reading on those phases of Greek civilization which have particular significance for the modern world. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.

271. Roman Civilization. (3) Lectures and collateral reading on the general subject of Rome's contribution to the modern world. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required.

272. A Survey of Latin Literature. (4) A study of selections from Latin literature in English translation. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required.

279. Studies in Roman Biography. (2,3, or 4) A study in depth of a key figure of Roman history using the evidence of history, literature, numismatics, and epigraphy as well as art and archeology when appropriate. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required.

280. Topics in Greek History. (4) The course will examine three central events in Greek history: the Persian War (490-479 B.C.), the Peloponnesian War (431-404 B.C.), and the career of Alexander the Great (356-323 B.C.), through close study of the works of Herodotus and Thucydides and of the Alexander tradition. Particular attention will be devoted to literary form and historiographical method. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.

285. Interdisciplinary Seminar in the Greco-Roman World. (4) This seminar is designed specially to meet the needs of students earning the interdisciplinary minor in early Christian studies, but is not limited to them. It will explore from various points of view the culture of the Mediterranean world from which Christianity was born and grew: literature and art, history and economics, religions and philosophies. Also offered by the Department of Religion as Religion 285. Course may be repeated for credit.

288. Individual Study. (2,3, or 4)

291, 292. Honors in Classical Studies. (2,2) Directed research for honors paper.

Cultural Resource Preservation

Ned Woodall (Anthropology), Coordinator

The Departments of Anthropology, Art, History, and Sociology offer an interdisciplinary minor in Cultural Resource Preservation (CRP) which will give students preliminary training in the field of historic preservation and cultural resource management aimed at the protection and enhancement of archeological, historical, and architectural resources.

The minor requires History 366, Studies in Historic Preservation (4) and four other courses for a total of twenty credits. These twenty credits must be distributed among at least three departments. The following courses may be included in the minor. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Anthropology

- 152. General Anthropology II: Cultural Anthropology. (4) (May count as a Division IV requirement.)
- 300. Museum Practicum. (4)
- 310. Museum Design and Operation. (4)
- 370. Old World Prehistory. (4)
- 374. Prehistory of North America. (4)
- 378. Conservation Archeology. (4)
- 381, 382. Archeological Research. (4,4)

Art

- 233. American Architecture. (4)
- 275. History of Landscape Architecture. (4)
- 288. Modern Architecture. (4)
- 293. Practicum. (4)

History

- 381, 382. Preservation Practicum I, II. (4,4)
- 398. Individual Study. (1-4)

Sociology

- 151. Principles of Sociology. (4) (May count as a Division IV requirement.)
- 205. Photography in the Social Sciences. (4)

Students intending to minor in Cultural Resource Preservation should consult the adviser appointed from one of the participating departments and listed with the registrar. Students are strongly urged to consult the adviser during the first semester of their junior year. Equivalent courses must be approved by the adviser.

Early Christian Studies

Mary Pendergraft (Classics) and Kenneth G. Hoglund (Religion), Coordinators

The interdisciplinary minor in Early Christian Studies requires twenty-two to twenty-three credits. The student must take the following core courses:

- Greek 231. The Greek New Testament (4);
- Religion 112. Introduction to the New Testament (4) or
- 164. The Formation of the Christian Tradition (4);
- Classics 270. Greek Civilization (3) or
- 271. Roman Civilization (3); and
- Classics/Religion 285. Interdisciplinary Seminar in the Greco-Roman World (4).

The student must take two additional courses, with no more than one from any one department, from the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Art

- 241. Ancient Art. (4)
- 244. Greek Art. (4)
- 245. Roman Art. (4)
- 296. Art History Seminar. (2,4)
 - a. Ancient Art
 - b. Medieval Art

Classics

- 270. Greek Civilization. (3)
- 271. Roman Civilization. (3)
 - (whichever is not used to satisfy the requirement for the Early Christian Studies minor)

History

- 215, 216. The Ancient World. (4,4)

Philosophy

- 232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (4)

Religion

- 319. Visions of the End: Jewish and Christian Apocalyptic. (4)
- 320. Jesus and the Synoptic Gospels. (4)
- 322. The General Epistles. (4)
- 326. Early Christian Theologians: Paul. (4)
- 327. Early Christian Theologians: the Fourth Evangelist. (4)

Assistant Professor Patrick Moran, Coordinator
Instructor David P. Phillips

Courses are offered in the Chinese and Japanese languages to meet the basic requirements in language. In addition, students may study abroad with Wake Forest programs in China and Japan.

Chinese

Chinese 111, 112. Elementary Chinese. (5,5) Emphasis on the development of listening and speaking skills in Mandarin. Introduction to the writing system and to basic sentence patterns. Lab required.

Chinese 151, 152. Intermediate Chinese. (5,5) Further study in grammar, reading, conversation, and composition. Lab required. P—Chinese 112 or equivalent.

Chinese 199. Individual Study. (1-4) P—Permission of instructor.

Chinese 211. Wen-xue: Introduction to Literature Written in Chinese. (4) Readings in Chinese in prose and poetry. P—Chinese 152 or permission of instructor. Satisfies a Division I requirement.

Humanities 221. Introduction to Chinese Literature. (4)

Humanities 349. Chinese Liberation Literature since 1948. (2)

Humanities 350. Modern Chinese Literature. (4)

Japanese

Japanese 111, 112. Elementary Japanese. (5,5) Emphasis on the development of listening and speaking skills. Introduction to the writing systems. Basic sentence patterns covered. Lab required.

Japanese 151, 152. Intermediate Japanese. (5,5) Further study in grammar, reading, conversation, and composition. Lab required. P—Japanese 112 or equivalent.

Japanese 199. Individual Study. (2-4) P—Permission of instructor.

Japanese 211. Bungaku: Introduction to Literature Written in Modern Japanese. (4) Readings in Japanese in prose and poetry. P—Japanese 152 or permission of instructor. Satisfies a Division I requirement.

*Humanities 219. Introduction to Japanese Literature. (4)

*Humanities 347. Women Writers in Japanese Culture. (4)

East Asian Studies

(Foreign Area Study)

Win-chiat Lee (Philosophy), Coordinator

East Asian Studies requires twenty-four credits, which must be taken from at least three different departments. One of these must be either Chinese 211 or Japanese 211. Although Asian Studies 381, Independent Research in Asian Studies, may be repeated for credit, only four of these credits can apply toward East Asian Studies. Appropriate credit in East Asian Studies also may be obtained by study in China through the SASASAAS/Wake Forest program or in Japan through the Wake Forest/Tokai University program, or through other Wake Forest approved courses of study in Asia. Study abroad is strongly encouraged but not required. Courses may be chosen from among the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Asian Studies

381. Independent Research in Asian Studies. (2-4)

Chinese Language and Literature

111, 112. Elementary Chinese. (5,5)

151, 152. Intermediate Chinese. (5,5)

199. Individual Study. (1-4)

211. Wen-xue: Introduction to Literature Written in Chinese. (4)

History

310. Seminar. (4)

341. History of Women in Modern Asia. (4)

343. Imperial China. (4)

344. Modern China. (4)

347. Japan Since World War II. (4)

348. Modern Japan. (4)

Humanities

219. Introduction to Japanese Literature. (4)

221. Introduction to Chinese Literature. (4)

347. Women Writers in Japanese Culture. (4)

348. Chinese Revolutionary Literature to 1948. (2)

349. Chinese Liberation Literature since 1948. (2)

350. Modern Chinese Literature. (4)

Japanese Language and Literature

111, 112. Elementary Japanese. (5,5)

151, 152. Intermediate Japanese. (5,5)

199. Individual Study. (2-4)

211. Bungaku: Introduction to Literature Written in Modern Japanese. (4)

*See the appropriate listings for descriptions and prerequisites of courses given in English.

Philosophy

253. The Main Streams of Chinese Philosophy and Religion. (4) (Also listed as Religion 380.)

Politics

248. Government and Politics of China. (4)
 249. Government and Politics of Japan. (4)
 260. East Asian International Relations. (4)
 292. Seminar in Comparative Politics. (4)

Religion

161. World Religions. (4)
 a. Buddhism
 b. Primal Religion (Taoism and Native American)
 380. The Main Streams of Chinese Philosophy and Religion. (4) (Also listed as Philosophy 253.)

Speech Communication

351. Comparative Communication. (2,4)
 a. Japan

East European Studies

(Foreign Area Study)

Perry Patterson (Economics), Coordinator

Russian 215 or 216 is required, plus twenty-four credits from the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Economics

253. Economies in Transition. (4)

History

331. Russia: Origins to 1865. (4)
 332. Russia and the Soviet Union: 1865 to the Present. (4)

Humanities

215. Germanic and Slavic Literature. (4) (Satisfies a Division I requirement.)
 218. Eastern European Literature. (4) (Satisfies a Division I requirement.)

Politics

232. Politics in Russia and Eastern Europe. (4)

Russian

Four additional credits at the 200-level.

With the approval of the coordinator, students also may take relevant seminars, colloquia, or independent studies in any of the above departments.

Economics

Claire Holton Hammond, Chair
Reynolds Professor John H. Wood
Professors David G. Brown, Donald E. Frey, J. Daniel Hammond,
John C. Moorhouse
Associate Professors Allin F. Cottrell, Claire Holton Hammond,
Michael S. Lawlor, Perry L. Patterson
Adjunct Associate Professor Gary R. Albrecht
Assistant Professors Paul F. Huck, Robert M. Whaples, Andrew J. Yates
Visiting Assistant Professors Hakan Berument, Jac C. Heckelman

The objectives of the economics program are to help prepare students for effective participation in the decision-making processes of society, to develop analytical skills in solving economic problems, to promote a better understanding of alternative economic systems, and to provide a balanced curriculum to prepare students for graduate study or positions in industry and government.

The major in economics consists of thirty-six credits in economics, including Economics 150, 205, 206, 207, and 208. The remaining economics courses are selected by the student and his or her adviser. A minimum grade of C is required in Economics 150, 205, and 207, and an overall C average in economics courses. The student also must pass either Mathematics 108 or 111 and Mathematics 109 (or similar course with permission of department chair).

The minor in economics consists of twenty-four credits, including Economics 150, 205, and 207. The mathematics and minimum grade requirements for the minor are the same as for the major.

Economics majors are encouraged to take complementary courses in mathematics, the humanities, or other social sciences to sharpen their analytical skills and to acquire a broader understanding of important issues. The faculty adviser will assist each student in determining the particular combination of courses that satisfies his or her needs.

Economics majors with a grade average of at least 3.0 and 3.3 in economics may graduate with "Honors in Economics" by satisfying the research requirement of Economics 298. It is recommended but not required that Economics 297 be taken first.

The Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than fifty-six credits, affords the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major consists of the following course requirements: Economics 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; and three additional courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers. Recommended courses are Economics 206, 208, 212, 222, 223, 231, 232, 235, 248, 251, 252, and Mathematics 253, 256, 311, 312, 348, 352, 353, 357, and 358. Students electing the joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science. A minimum grade average of C in all courses attempted for the mathematical economics joint major is required for graduation.

Highly qualified majors are encouraged to apply for admission to the honors program in the joint major. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Mathematical Economics," a student must satisfy the requirements of Economics 298 or Mathematics 381 by successfully completing a senior research project. Consult the program advisers for additional information.

For the BA in economics the following schedule is typical:

First Year	Sophomore	Junior*	Senior
Lower Division requirements	Economics 150 Mathematics 108 or 111 Mathematics 109	Economics 205, 206 Economics 207, 208	Four electives in economics

For the BS in mathematical economics the following schedule is typical:

First Year	Sophomore	Junior	Senior
Mathematics 111,112 Lower Division requirements	Economics 150 Mathematics 113, 121	Economics 205, 207 Economics 210, 211 Economics 215 Mathematics 254, 255	Economics 218 Three electives in economics and/or mathematics

150. Introduction to Economics. (4) A survey of micro and macroeconomic principles. Introduction to basic concepts, characteristic data and trends, and some analytic techniques. Preference in enrollment will be given to students with sophomore or upperclass standing.

205. Intermediate Microeconomics I. (4) Development of demand and supply analysis, neoclassical theory of household and firm behavior, and alternative market structures. P—Economics 150.

206. Intermediate Microeconomics II. (4) More advanced theory of maximizing behavior of economic agents with discussion of risk, uncertainty, and economic dynamics. Theory employed in assessment of policy issues. P—Economics 205.

207. Intermediate Macroeconomics I. (4) Development of macroeconomic concepts of national income, circular flow, income determination, IS-LM analysis, and Phillips curves. Emphasizes contributions of Keynes and the Keynesian tradition, including some attention to primary literature. P—Economics 150.

208. Intermediate Macroeconomics II. (4) Considers extensions of Keynesian theory, such as the post-Keynesians, and alternatives to Keynesian theory, such as monetarism, traditional classical, and new classical theories. More advanced tools of macroeconomic analysis may be introduced, for instance large forecasting models or dynamics. P—Economics 207.

210. Microeconomic Models. (2) Development of formal models of consumer behavior, choice under risk, the firm, and demand and supply. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—Economics 205 and Mathematics 111.

211. Macroeconomic Models. (2) Development of formal Keynesian, post-Keynesian, monetarist, and new classical macro models. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—Economics 207 and Mathematics 111.

212. Economic Forecasting. (4) A computer-oriented application of modern econometric and time series methods for forecasting economic variables. P—Economics 150. C—Economics 207.

215. Introduction to Econometrics. (4) Economic analysis through quantitative methods, with emphasis on model construction and empirical research. P—Economics 205, 207 and Mathematics 109 or 121.

218. Seminar in Mathematical Economics. (4) Calculus and matrix methods used to develop basic tools of economic analysis. P—Economics 205, 207 and Mathematics 111, 112.

221. Public Finance. (4) An examination of the economic behavior of government. Includes principles of taxation, spending, borrowing, and debt-management. P—Economics 150. C—Economics 205.

222. Monetary Theory and Policy. (4) An investigation of the nature of money, the macroeconomic significance of money, financial markets, and monetary policy. P—Economics 207.

223. Financial Markets. (4) A study of the functions, structure, and performance of financial markets. P—Economics 205, 207.

224. Law and Economics. (4) An economic analysis of property, contracts, torts, criminal behavior, due process, and law enforcement. P—Economics 205.

225. Public Choice. (4) Traditional tools of economic analysis are employed to explore such topics in political science as political organization, elections, coalition formation, the optimal provision of public goods, and the scope of government. P—Economics 205.

231. Economics of Industry. (4) Analysis of the link between market structure and market performance in U.S. industries from theoretical and empirical viewpoints. Examines the efficiency of different firm practices including mergers and cartels. Case studies include automobiles, steel, agriculture, computers, sports, and telecommunications. P—Economics 150. C—Economics 205.

232. Business and Government. (2,4) Analysis of the logic and effectiveness of various regulatory instruments used by government to affect the structure and performance of industry. Principal topics include economic regulation of natural monopoly, antitrust policy, and deregulation in transportation and other industries. P—Economics 150. C—Economics 205.

235. Labor Economics. (4) A theoretical and empirical survey of labor markets. Topics include: the demand and supply of labor, compensating wage differentials, education and training, discrimination, unions, public sector employment, earnings inequality, and unemployment. P—Economics 205, 207.

246. Urban Economics. (4) Theoretical and empirical study of the city as an economic entity, with attention to land-use patterns and prices, urban decay and redevelopment, suburbanization, housing, and city finance. P—Economics 150.

248. Resource Economics. (4) The economic theory of natural resource allocation and environmental quality. P—Economics 205.

251. International Trade. (4) Development of the theory of international trade patterns and prices and the effects of trade restrictions such as tariffs and quotas. P—Economics 205.

252. International Finance. (4) A study of foreign exchange and Eurocurrency markets, balance of payments, and macroeconomic policy in open economies. P—Economics 205, 207.

253. Economies in Transition. (4) A theoretical and institutional examination of historically socialist nations and the dilemmas of transition. Special reference to the former Soviet Union. P—Economics 150.

258. Economic Growth and Development. (4) A study of the problems of economic growth, with particular attention to the less developed countries of the world. P—Economics 205, 207.

261. American Economic Development. (4) The application of economic theory to historical problems and issues in the American economy. P—Economics 150.

262. History of Economic Thought. (4) A historical survey of the main developments in economic thought from the Biblical period to the twentieth century. P—Economics 205, 207.

265. Economic Philosophers. (2,4) An in-depth study of the doctrines and influence of up to three major figures in economics, such as Smith, Marx, and Keynes. P—Economics 205, 207.

270. Current Economic Issues. (2,4) Examines current economic issues using economic theory and empirical evidence. Topics may include recent macroeconomics events, government budget deficits, banking insurance, corporate takeovers, international economic rivalries, economic differences by race and gender, health care, welfare, labor unions, legal reform, global warming and others. P—Economics 150.

271, 272. Selected Areas in Economics. (1,2,4; 1,2,4) A survey of an important area in economics not included in the regular course offerings. The economics of housing, education, technology, and health services are examples. Students should consult the instructor to ascertain topic before enrolling. P—Economics 205, 207.

290. Individual Study. (2,4) Directed readings in a specialized area of economics. P—Permission of instructor.

297. Preparing for Economic Research. (2) Designed to assist students in selecting a research topic and beginning the study of the selected topic. P—Permission of instructor.

298. Economic Research. (4) Development and presentation of a senior research project. Required of candidates for departmental honors. P—Permission of department.

Allin F. Cottrell, associate professor of economics.

Wake Forest University believes that the teaching profession is important to society and that its welfare is significantly affected by the quality of educational leadership. One of the important objectives of the University has been and continues to be the preparation of teachers and other professional school personnel. The University's commitment to quality in teacher education is demonstrated by selective admission to the program, a wide range of professional courses, and closely supervised internships appropriate to the professional development of students.

Prospective elementary and social studies teachers earn certification in those broad areas and major in education. Prospective secondary teachers of English, math, science, foreign languages and music major in that discipline and minor in education. In addition to the professional program, the department provides elective courses open to all students.

Teacher Certification. The North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction issues the Professional Class A Teacher's License to graduates who have completed an approved program, including the specified courses in their teaching fields and the prescribed courses in education, who have demonstrated specific competencies, and who receive recommendations from the designated officials in their teaching areas and from the chair of the department or deputy.

Students who have graduated from an institution of higher education but have not completed an approved certification program may seek admission to the department in order to complete the Class A License.

Admission Requirements. Application for admission to the teacher education program normally occurs during the sophomore year. Admission involves filing an official application with the department's licensure officer, being interviewed, and being officially approved by the department. In addition, the North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction requires teacher education program applicants to successfully complete the General Knowledge and Communication Skills Sections of the National Teachers' Examination or Praxis I before being formally admitted.

All students are required to have a 2.50 or better grade-point average before being formally accepted in the Teacher Education Program. Formal acceptance into the program should take place during the first week of the semester prior to student teaching. Elementary education students will need to have a 2.50 GPA at the end of December of their junior year; secondary education students will need to have a 2.50 GPA at the end of August of their junior year.

Program Area Goals. The goals and objectives for each certification area are available in the department's licensure office.

Course Requirements. The approved program of teacher education requires candidates to complete successfully a series of professional education courses. The exact sequence of professional and academic courses varies with a student's particular program and is determined by the adviser in conference with the candidate. For those seeking secondary certification, the majority of the professional work is taken during one semester of the senior year. Candidates for the elementary certificate may begin course work required for licensure as early as the sophomore year.

Student Teaching. Prerequisites for registering for student teaching include (1) senior, graduate, or special student classification; (2) completion of two field experience courses and the foundations of education course; (3) formal admission to the teacher education program.

Students are assigned to student teaching opportunities by public school officials on the basis of available positions and the professional needs of the student and the public school system. One semester of the senior year is reserved for the student teaching experience and the block of courses preparatory to that experience in the schools. Students may not take other courses during this semester without the approval of the department chair.

Exit Requirements. Students must maintain a 2.5 GPA while enrolled in the teacher education program, and complete the program with a minimum GPA of 2.5. The North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction requires candidates for professional certification to successfully complete the Professional Knowledge Section and the Specialty Area Exam of the NTE or the appropriate Praxis II Subject Assessment Exam.

Teaching Area Requirements

Secondary Certificate

English—Thirty-six credits, including 287, 323, and 390 or its equivalent.

French—Certification in K-12 in French: Thirty-six credits above French 213, including French 219, 220, 222, 224, or their equivalents; two of the following courses: 221, 223, 229; students also must complete two of the three survey courses: 215, 216, 217.

Spanish—Certification in K-12 in Spanish: Thirty-six credits above Spanish 213, including Spanish 217, 218, 219, 220, 222, 223, 224, or their equivalents; plus one additional advanced course in Spanish literature and one in Spanish-American literature.

German—Certification in K-12 in German: Thirty-seven credits beyond German 112 or 113, including German 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221; one of the following courses: 249, 281, 285.

Latin—The requirements are the same as those for the major in Latin.

Mathematics—Forty credits, including Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, 331; four credits from 311, 317, or 357; at least two additional 300-level courses. If the student does not elect 357, it is recommended that he/she take 109.

Music—Forty-eight credits, including Music 171, 172, 173, 174, 181, 182, 186, 187, 188; Education 280, 282, 284, 289, and 354.

Science—Certification in the individual fields of science: biology (forty-one credits), chemistry (thirty-five credits), or physics (thirty-seven credits). All credits must be from the same courses required for majors in those fields.

Social Studies—Forty credits, including twenty-four credits in history, with course work in United States, European, and Third World history; sixteen credits with one course in economics, geography, politics, and anthropology or sociology.

Education courses required for a secondary certificate include Education 201, 202, 203, 311, 314, 354, 364, and 383. (Education 201, 202, 203 are replaced by 361, 362, 363 respectively for students with graduate or unclassified standing.) In addition to these requirements, students seeking K-12 certification in foreign languages must take Education 313 and 390. In addition, they will take either Education 250 or 364.

Elementary Certificate

A major in elementary education requires forty-eight credits including Education 201, 202, 203, 221, 222, 250, 293, 294, 295, 296, 298, 301, 311, 382, and Psychology 241. In addition to or as part of lower division requirements, all education majors must have taken at least one course in biology, one course in mathematics, and one course in art or music. Elementary education majors must complete a minor in any department or have a concentration in one of the following areas: language arts, social studies, science, mathematics or foreign language. (Because many courses must be taken in the junior year to prepare for the senior fall student teaching block, education majors who want to take a semester abroad should take that semester during the sophomore year.)

Education Minor

A minor in professional education requires Education 201, 202, 203, 311, 314, 354, 364, 383, and is awarded only to students in the teacher education program.

The major in English requires a minimum of forty credits, at least thirty-two of which must be in advanced language and literature courses numbered 300 to 399. These courses must include Shakespeare, two additional courses in British literature before 1800, one course in American literature, and a major seminar, which must be taken no later than the spring semester of the junior year. Majors and their advisers plan individual programs to meet these requirements and to include work in the major literary genres.

A minor in English requires English 160 or 165 and English 170 or 175, plus twenty credits in advanced language and literature courses. Each minor will be assigned an adviser in the English department who will plan a program of study with the student.

The prerequisite for all 300-level courses in English is any one of the courses in British and American literature numbered 160, 165, 170, and 175, all of which are offered each semester. Additional courses in journalism and writing are offered by the department as related subjects but do not count toward an English major; they may be taken as electives regardless of the field of study in which a student majors.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply in the second semester of their junior year for admission to the honors program in English. To graduate with "Honors in English," students must have a minimum grade-point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all course work and must satisfy the requirements for English 388 during their senior year. Interested students may consult departmental faculty members for further information.

A major in German requires thirty-seven credits beyond German 112 or 113. These must include German 217; at least one course from among the sequence 249, 281, 285; and the seminar for majors. A minor in German requires five courses beyond German 153, including German 217 and at least one course from among the sequence 249, 281, 285.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in German. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in German," they must complete a senior research project and pass a comprehensive examination. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Students of German are invited to apply for the exchange scholarship at the Free University of Berlin, the W. D. Sanders Scholarships and program of study at Freiburg, Berlin, and Vienna, administered by the Institute of European Studies. Majors and minors are strongly encouraged to live at least one semester in the German House.

111, 112. Elementary German. (4, 4) This course covers the principles of grammar and pronunciation and includes the reading of simple texts. Lab—one hour.

113. Intensive Elementary German. (5) A one-semester course covering the material of German 111 and 112. For students whose preparation for German 153 is inadequate or who have demonstrated proficiency in another language. Not open to students who have had German 111 or 112.

153. Intermediate German. (5) The principles of grammar are reviewed; reading of selected prose and poetry. Lab—one hour. P—German 112 or 113.

153x. Intermediate German. (4) The principles of grammar are reviewed; reading of selected prose and poetry. Lab—one hour. P—Three years of high school German.

160. German Language and Customs. Health and Sport Science

Paul M. Ribisl, Chair
 Professors William L. Hottinger, Stephen P. Messier,
 W. Jack Rejeski, Paul M. Ribisl
 Associate Professors Michael J. Berry, Leo Ellison
 Assistant Professors Peter H. Brubaker, Barbee Myers Oakes
 Visiting Adjunct Professor Lawrence R. Brawley
 Instructors Donald Bergey, Bobbi Goodnough, David Stroupe

The purpose of the Department of Health and Sport Science is to organize, administer, and supervise (1) a health and sport science curriculum and (2) a required/elective health and sport science program consisting of conditioning activities and lifetime sport activities.

Health and Sport Science Requirement

All students must complete Health and Sport Science 100 and 101. This requirement must be met before enrollment in additional health and sport science elective courses, and in any case by the end of the second year.

Courses in Basic Instruction and Elective Health and Sport Science

All the courses listed below are offered for one credit each.

100. Lifestyle and Health. A lecture course that deals with the effect of lifestyle behaviors on various health outcomes, including cardiovascular disease, cancer, and sexually-transmitted diseases.
101. Exercise for Health. A laboratory course on physical fitness that covers weight control, cardiovascular endurance, muscular strength, and flexibility.
112. Sports Proficiency (May be taken only one time.)
113. Adaptive Physical Activity (May be repeated one time for credit.)
114. Weight Control
115. Physical Conditioning (May be taken only one time.)
116. Weight Training
119. Aerobic Dancing
140. Beginning Swimming
141. Intermediate/Advanced Swimming
146. Water Safety Instructor's Course (P—Current emergency water safety or lifeguard training certification)
150. Beginning Tennis
151. Intermediate Tennis
152. Advanced Tennis (P—Health and Sport Science 151 or equivalent)
156. Racquetball

- 160. Beginning Golf
- 161. Intermediate Golf
- 163. Bowling
- 170. Volleyball
- 179. Beginning Horseback Riding (P/F grade only)
- 180. Intermediate/Advanced Horseback Riding (P/F grade only. May be repeated once for credit.)
- 181. Snow Skiing (P/F grade only)
- 182. Beginning Ice Figure Skating
- 183. Intermediate/Advanced Ice Figure Skating
- 190. Karate

Courses for the Major

The department offers a program leading to the BS degree in health and sport science. A major requires thirty-eight credits and must include Health and Sport Science 230, 262, 312, 350, 351, 352, 353, 355, and 370. Majors are not allowed to apply any Health and Sport Science 100-level courses toward the thirty-eight hours required for graduation. A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 is required for graduation in courses that comprise a major in the department.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in health and sport science by the second semester of the junior year. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Health and Sport Science," a student must have a minimum grade-point average of 3.3 in the major and 3.0 in all course work and complete an honors research project which includes a written and an oral report. For additional information, students should consult the departmental chair.

Any student interested in majoring in health and sport science should consult the chair of the department as soon as possible after entering the University.

201. Health Issues on College Campuses - I. (2) Introduction to concepts and methods of peer health education; development of teaching and group facilitation skills. (P/F grade only.) P—Permission of instructor.

202. Health Issues on College Campuses - II. (2) Development and delivery of educational programs on a variety of health issues relevant to college students. (P/F grade only.) P—Health and Sport Science 201.

205. Basic Skin and Scuba Diving and Open Water Certification. (2) A course in skin and SCUBA diving that offers international certification by the Professional Association of Diving Instructors (PADI).

206. Lifeguard Training. (2) This course is designed to provide students with skills in first aid, cardiopulmonary resuscitation and lifeguard training that will qualify them to serve as nonsurf lifeguards.

223. Health and Physical Education for the Elementary Grades. (4) The development of physical education skills appropriate for the elementary grade teacher and an understanding of the personal and community health needs appropriate for the grade level. P—Education 201 or permission of instructor.

230. Advanced First Aid. (2) A course in advanced first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Red Cross Advanced First Aid and Community CPR certification offered.

262. Statistics in the Health Sciences. (4) Basic statistics with an emphasis on application to research in the health sciences. Students are introduced to graphics and statistical software for the Macintosh computer. (A student receiving credit for this course may not also receive credit for Anthropology 380, Biology 380, Business 201, or Sociology 380.)

310. Applied Field Study. (2) A course involving application of theory and methods of solving problems in a specialized area according to the student's immediate career goals. (P/F grade only, open only to majors.) P—Permission of instructor.

311. Internship in Rehabilitation. (2) A semester experience in the campus rehabilitation programs. This experience includes written case study analyses of selected patients with a focus upon risk factor assessment and review of multiple intervention strategies, in conjunction with participation in physiologic monitoring of patients during therapeutic sessions. Pass/fail only; open only to majors. P—Permission of instructor.

312. Exercise and Health Psychology. (4) A survey of the psychological antecedents of exercise and selected topics in health psychology with particular attention to wellness, stress, the biobehavioral basis of coronary heart disease, and the psychodynamics of rehabilitative medicine. P—Health and Sport Science 209 and 262 or permission of instructor.

350. Human Physiology. (4) A lecture course which presents the basic principles and concepts of the function of selected systems of the human body, with emphasis on the muscular, cardiovascular, pulmonary, and nervous systems. P—Biology 111, 112, 114, or permission of instructor.

351. Nutrition and Weight Control. (4) A lecture/laboratory course which presents the principles of proper nutrition including an understanding of the basic foodstuffs and nutrients as well as the influence of genetics, eating behavior, and activity patterns on energy balance and weight control. Laboratory experiences examine intervention in obesity and coronary heart disease through diet analysis, methods of diet prescription, and behavior modification. P—Health and Sport Science 353 or permission of instructor.

352. Human Gross Anatomy. (4) A lecture/laboratory course in which the structure and function of the human body are studied. Laboratories are devoted to the dissection and study of the human musculoskeletal, neuromuscular, and vascular systems. P—Health and Sport Science 209 or permission of instructor.

353. Physiology of Exercise. (4) A lecture course which presents the concepts and applications of the physiological response of the human body to physical activity. The acute and chronic responses of the muscular and cardiorespiratory systems to exercise are examined. Other topics include exercise and coronary disease, nutrition and performance, strength and endurance training, body composition, sex-related differences, and environmental influences. P—Health and Sport Science 209, 350, or permission of instructor.

355. Clinical Exercise Programming. (4) A lecture/laboratory course which presents the scientific principles of safe and effective assessment and prescription of fitness programs. This course will prepare the student for the ACSM Health Fitness Instructor Certification. P—Health and Sport Science 353 or permission of instructor.

370. Biomechanics of Human Movement. (4) Study of the mechanical principles which influence human movement, sport technique, and equipment design. P—Health and Sport Science 352 or permission of instructor.

375. Advanced Physiology of Exercise. (4) A lecture course which provides an in-depth examination of the physiological mechanisms responsible for both the acute and chronic changes which occur with exercise. Included are cellular changes in response to exercise, the ventilatory response to exercise and metabolic consequences of exercise. P—Health and Sport Science 353 or permission of instructor.

380. Physical Activity and Aging. (4) A lecture course which examines both normal/abnormal aging from a physiological perspective and explores how aging and chronic disease affect performance of activities of daily living, including vocational and recreational activities. The potential of regular physical activity to delay or reverse the deleterious effects of aging and degenerative disease is investigated. P—Permission of instructor.

382. Individual Study. (1-4) Independent study directed by a faculty adviser. The student must consult the adviser before registering for this course. P—Majors only and permission of instructor.

386. Honors Research. (4) Directed study and research in preparation for a major paper on a subject of mutual interest to the student and faculty honors adviser. Taken only by candidates for departmental honors. P—Permission of instructor and approval of departmental honors committee.

Sports Medicine

201. Basic Athletic Training. (3) A study of the basic knowledge and skills in the prevention, treatment, and care of common athletic injuries.

302. Advanced Athletic Training. (4) An in-depth analysis of preventive measures, therapeutic modalities, and rehabilitative procedures employed in sports medicine. P—Health and Sport Science 352.

The major in history consists of a minimum of thirty-six credits and must include History 288 or 310; seven to eight credits in European history; seven to eight credits chosen from among courses in Latin-American, Asian, or African history; and seven to eight credits in United States history.

Majors may include within the required thirty-six credits up to eight credits of advanced placement or comparable work and up to four credits of any combination of independent study and directed reading other than the credits earned in History 397.

A minor in history requires twenty-four credits. Courses that the student elects to take pass/fail do not meet the requirements for the major or minor.

Highly qualified majors should apply for admission to the honors program in history. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in History," the student must complete History 287, present an honors-quality research paper, successfully defend the paper in an oral examination, and earn an overall grade-point average of 3.0 with an average of 3.3 on work in history. For additional information, students should consult members of the department.

Students contemplating graduate study should acquire a reading knowledge of one modern foreign language for the MA degree and two for the PhD degree.

101. Western Civilization to 1700. (4) A survey of ancient, medieval, and early modern history to 1700. Focus varies with instructor. (Credit cannot be received for both 101 and 103, or 102 and 104.)

Interdisciplinary Honors

James P. Barefield, Coordinator

A series of seminar courses of an interdisciplinary nature is open to qualified undergraduates. Students interested in admission to any one of these seminars, supervised by the Committee on Honors, should consult the coordinator or a member of the committee.

Students who choose to participate in as many as four interdisciplinary seminars and who have a superior record may elect Honors 281, directed study culminating in an honors paper and an oral examination. Those whose work has been superior in this course and who have achieved an overall grade-point average of at least 3.0 in all college work may be graduated with the distinction "Honors in the Arts and Sciences." Students who choose to be candidates for departmental honors may not also be candidates for "Honors in the Arts and Sciences."

Able students are normally encouraged to choose a departmental honors program rather than "Honors in the Arts and Sciences." As a result, most students elect to participate in only one or two interdisciplinary seminars in which they are particularly interested. The faculty participants for these seminars represent diverse academic disciplines.

131, 132. Approaches to Human Experience I. (4,4) An inquiry into the nature and interrelationships of several approaches to man's experience, represented by the work of three such minds as Leonardo da Vinci, Dante, Klee, Lorenz, Confucius, Dostoevsky, Descartes, Goya, Mozart, Jefferson, and Bohr. Seminar discussion based on primary and secondary sources, including musical works and paintings. Written reports and a term paper required. Offered in alternate years.

133, 134. Approaches to Human Experience II. (4,4) A parallel course to Honors 131, 132, concentrating on the work of a different set of figures such as Einstein, Galileo, Keynes, Pascal, Camus, Picasso, Ibsen, Stravinsky, Sophocles, and Bach. Offered in alternate years.

235. The Ideal Society. (4) Man's effort to establish or imagine the ideal community, state, or society; principles of political and social organization; changing goals and values.

236. The Force of Impressionism. (4) Impressionism and its impact on modern painting and literature, with attention to origins and theories of style. Painters to include Manet, Monet, Renoir, Degas, and Cezanne. Writers to include Baudelaire, Flaubert, Mallarmé, James, Pound, Joyce, and Woolf.

237. The Scientific Outlook. (4) An exploration of the origins and development of the scientific method and some of its contemporary applications in the natural and social sciences and the humanities. (Also listed as Natural Sciences 351.)

238. Romanticism. (4) Romanticism as a recurrent characteristic of mind and art and as a specific historical movement in Europe and America in the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Emphasis on primary materials in philosophy, literature, music, and painting.

239. Man and the Irrational. (4) The phenomenon of the irrational, with emphasis on its twentieth century manifestations but with attention also to its presence in other centuries and cultures. Philosophy, religion, literature, psychology, politics, and the arts are explored.

240. Adventures in Self-Understanding. (4) Examination and discussion of significant accounts of the quest for understanding of the self, in differing historical periods, cultural contexts, and genres. Among figures who may be discussed are Augustine, Dante, Gandhi, Montaigne, Descartes, Pascal, and selected modern writers.

241. The Tragic View. (4) The theory of tragedy in ancient and modern times; the expression of the tragic in literature, art, music, theater, and film.

242. The Comic View. (4) The theory of comedy in ancient and modern times; the expression of the comic in literature, art, music, theater, and film.

244. Man and the Structure of the Universe. (4) An investigation of various conceptions of the universe and their implications for man. Study not necessarily limited to the cosmologies of Ptolemy, Copernicus, and their modern successors, but may also include theories such as the Babylonian, Mayan, and Taoist.

246. Man and the Environment. (4) An interdisciplinary examination of man and society in relation to the environment.

247. The Mythic View. (4) The nature of myth through creation and hero myths; the uses to which myths have been put in different historical periods; various modern explanations of myth (literary, religious, anthropological, psychoanalytic, social, and historical).

248. The Ironic View. (4) An investigation of the ironic view of life in literature, art, history, theater, and film.

249. Forms and Expressions of Love. (4) Philosophical, religious, and psychological delineations of the forms of love; literary, dramatic, musical, and visual portrayals of love in selected works of art. (Also listed as Humanities 355.)

250. Ethical Dilemmas in the Arts and Sciences. (4) An exploration of contemporary issues and controversies in the sciences and art, particularly those involved with ethical questions resulting from new concepts and discoveries.

252. The Mechanistic View of Nature. (4) An examination of the philosophical and scientific roots, in Descartes, Newton, and Leibniz, of the belief that the universe and human beings are “machines” subject to deterministic natural laws, and the relevance to this issue of modern scientific ideas. (Also listed as History 302, Natural Sciences 302, and Philosophy 242.)

253. Revolutions in Modern Science. (4) An analysis of the ways in which radically new ideas are introduced and accepted in science. Cases studied are space and time in relativity theory, the nature of reality in quantum mechanics, evolution of species, and continental drift. P—At least one course in one of the relevant areas of science or permission of instructor. (Also listed as History 303 and Natural Sciences 303.)

254. The Promise and Perils of the Nuclear Age. (4) Scientific, moral, religious, and political perspectives on issues associated with nuclear power and nuclear weaponry. (Also listed as Humanities 360.)

256. Modern Science and Human Values. (4) Four revolutionary developments in science and technology are studied with a focus on their potential to affect human values: biotechnology, cognitive science, recent primate research, and the search for extraterrestrial life. (Also listed as History 305 and Natural Sciences 352.)

257. Images of Aging in the Humanities. (4) A multi-disciplinary presentation and discussion of portrayals of aging in selected materials from several of the liberal arts: philosophical and religious perspectives; selections from literature and the visual arts; historical development of perceptions of aging; imaging of aging in contemporary culture. (Also listed as Humanities 357.)

265. Humanity and Nature. (4) A multi-disciplinary exploration of relations of human beings to nature, and of scientific, economic, and political factors in current environmental concerns. Selected religious, classical, and philosophical texts; works of visual art; selected discussions of ecology and human responsibility. (Also listed as Humanities 365.)

281. Directed Study. (4) Readings on an interdisciplinary topic approved by the Committee on Honors; presentation of a major research or interpretive paper based on these readings, under the direction of a faculty member; an oral examination on the topic, administered by the faculty supervisor and the Committee on Honors. Eligible students who wish to take this course must submit a written request to the Committee on Honors by the end of the junior year. Not open to candidates for departmental honors.

330. Introduction to Psycholinguistics and Language Acquisition. (4) A psychological and linguistic study of the mental processes underlying the acquisition and use of language; how children acquire the structure of language and how adults make use of linguistic systems.

340. Topics in Linguistics. (4) An interdisciplinary study of selected topics, such as morphology, phonology/phonetics, syntax, historical linguistics, history of linguistic theory, semiotics, and ethnolinguistics, issues in Asian linguistics, language and gender. P—Linguistics 150 or permission of instructor.

375. Philosophy of Language. (4) A study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantic paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign systems. P—Permission of instructor. (Also listed as Philosophy 375.)

398, 399. Individual Study. (1-4, 1-4) A reading and research course designed to meet the needs of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the linguistics minor program. P—Linguistics 150 and permission of instructor.

A major in mathematics requires a minimum of forty credits. A student must include courses 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, one of the courses 311, 317, 352, 357, and at least two additional 300-level courses of at least four credits each. Lower division students are urged to consult a member of the departmental faculty before enrolling in courses other than those satisfying Division II requirements.

A major in computer science requires forty credits in computer science and four courses in mathematics. The courses in computer science must include 112, 211, 212, 235, 236, and 277. The required courses in mathematics are 111, 112, 117, and 121. Students considering graduate work in computer science should consult a major adviser in the department for assistance in planning an appropriate course of study.

A minor in computer science requires four courses, at least sixteen credits, in computer science numbered higher than 111, Mathematics 117, and an additional four credits in mathematics other than Mathematics 105.

A minor in mathematics requires Mathematics 111, 112, either 113 or 121, and three other courses of at least four credits each numbered higher than Mathematics 108, two of which must be numbered above 200. Neither Mathematics 301, 302, 303, or 304 can count as a course for this minor, but any pair may be so counted. Credit is not allowed for both Mathematics 121 and Mathematics 302 or for both Mathematics 303 and Mathematics 317.

A minimum GPA of 2.0 in courses which comprise a major or minor in the department is required for graduation with any major or minor which the department offers.

A regularly scheduled activity in mathematics is an informal seminar of students and faculty on topics not discussed in regular courses (for example, finite differences, game theory, Monte Carlo method, divergent series).

The Department of Mathematics and Computer Science and the Department of Economics offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than fifty-six credits, offers the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major has the following course requirements: Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; Economics 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; and three additional courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers.

Recommended courses are Mathematics 253, 256, 311, 312, 348, 352, 353, 357, 358 and Economics 206, 208, 212, 222, 223, 231, 232, 235, 248, 251, 252. Students selecting the joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science and the Department of Economics.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in mathematics, computer science, or the joint major. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Mathematics," "Honors in Computer Science," or "Honors in Mathematical Economics," they must complete satisfactorily a senior research paper. To graduate with "Honors in Mathematics" or "Honors in Computer Science," majors must have a minimum grade-point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all college course work. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Students who are enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in mathematics and/or computer science at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

Computer Science

111. Introduction to Computer Science. (4) A rigorous introduction to the process of algorithmic problem-solving; an introduction to the organization of computers on which resulting programs run; and an overview of the societal and ethical context in which computer science exists. A scheduled laboratory experience is used for both the computer programming and computer organization aspects of the course. Lab—two hours.

112. Fundamentals of Computer Science. (4) Lecture and laboratory. Problem-solving and program construction are emphasized using reusable modules, data abstraction and parallel computation. Linear data structures, fundamental software engineering tools, and problem-solving paradigms are introduced for the beginning computer science student. Lab—two hours. P—Computer Science 111 or permission of instructor.

211. Computer Software Organization and Architecture. (4) Lecture and laboratory. Hierarchical software organization, representation and manipulation of data, instruction sets, addressing and structure of memory. The laboratory focuses on the understanding of an assembly language. Lab—two hours. P—Computer Science 112 and Mathematics 117.

212. Computer Hardware Organization. (4) Lecture and laboratory. Basic von Neumann computer architectures. Study and design of combinational logic circuits, arithmetic units, and memory devices. Lab—two hours. P—Computer Science 211.

235. Data Structures and Algorithms I. (4) Lecture and laboratory. Study, analysis and implementation of abstract data structures such as list, stack, queue and tree. Complexity analysis of algorithms which operate upon these data structures. P—Computer Science 112 and Mathematics 117.

236. Data Structures and Algorithms II. (4) Lecture and laboratory. A continuation of the study, analysis and implementation of abstract data structures. The complexity of algorithms is studied more rigorously than in Computer Science 235 and complexity classes are introduced. P—Computer Science 235 and Mathematics 111.

277. Programming Languages. (4) Lecture and laboratory. A study of the properties of programming languages including syntax, semantics, control structures, and run-time representations. P—Computer Science 112 and Mathematics 117.

301. Software Engineering. (4) The principles and methods for the specification, design, and validation of large software systems. Topics may include formal specification techniques, design techniques, programming methodology, program testing, proofs of program correctness, software reliability, and software management. P—Computer Science 235.

302. Operating Systems. (4) Lecture and laboratory. The study of algorithms for sequencing, controlling, scheduling, and allocating computer resources. P—Computer Science 211 and Computer Science 235.

Reynolds Professor of Mathematics and Computer Science Robert J. Plemmons with students.

310. Design of Central Processing Units. (4) Use of register-transfer notation, hardware programming languages, control sequencing, and microprogramming. P—Computer Science 212.

319. Digital Systems Architecture. (4) The unification of hardware, firmware, and software. Architectural descriptions, storage systems, paging and associative memories, I/O systems, stack machines, and parallelism. P—Computer Science 211.

323. Computer Graphics. (4) A study of software and hardware techniques in computer graphics. Topics include line and polygon drawing, hidden line and surface techniques, transformations, and ray tracing. P—Computer Science 235 and Mathematics 121.

330. Computer Communications. (4) A study of the operation, design, and analytic modeling of computer communication and networking systems. P—Computer Science 211.

355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (4) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language (C or FORTRAN). Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations and least squares methods. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 355 and Computer Science 355. P—Mathematics 112, Mathematics 121, and Computer Science 111.

361. Selected Topics. (2,3, or 4) Topics in computer science which are not studied in regular courses or which further examine topics begun in regular courses. P—Permission of instructor.

372. Compilers. (4) Lecture and laboratory. A study of techniques for compiling computer languages including scanning, parsing, translating, and generating code. P—Computer Science 211 and Computer Science 235.

374. Database Management Systems. (4) Lecture and laboratory. An introduction to large-scale database management systems. Topics include data independence, data base models, query languages, security, integrity, and concurrency. P—Computer Science 235.

379. Artificial Intelligence. (4) An introduction to problems in artificial intelligence. Techniques of representation and heuristic search in areas such as problem solving, pattern recognition, theorem proving, and information processing. P—Computer Science 236.

381. Individual Study. (2,3, or 4) A course of independent study directed by a faculty adviser. By prearrangement. Not to be counted toward the minor in computer science.

Mathematics

105. Fundamentals of Algebra and Trigonometry. (2,3, or 4) A review of the essentials of algebra and trigonometry. Admission by permission only (generally, a student must have taken fewer than three years of high school mathematics to be eligible for admission). Not to be counted toward the major or minor in mathematics.

108. Essential Calculus. (5 or 4) A one-semester course in differential and integral calculus with application to business and the social sciences. No student allowed credit for both 108 and 111. A student who might take additional calculus should not take Mathematics 108. Lab—two hours.

109. Elementary Probability and Statistics. (5 or 4) Probability and distribution functions, means and variances, and sampling distributions. Lab—two hours.

111, 112. Calculus with Analytic Geometry I, II. (5 or 4; 5 or 4) Calculus of functions of one variable; infinite series. Computer lab using BASIC. No student allowed credit for both 108 and 111.

113. Multivariable Calculus. (4) Vector and space curves. Differentiable functions; surfaces and max-min problems. Multiple integrals and Green's theorem. P—Mathematics 112.

117. Discrete Mathematics. (4) An introduction to various topics in discrete mathematics applicable to computer science including sets, relations, Boolean algebra, propositional logic, functions, computability, proof techniques, graph theory, and elementary combinatorics.

121. Linear Algebra I. (4) Vectors and vector spaces, linear transformations and matrices, determinants, eigenvalues, and eigenvectors. Credit not allowed for both 121 and 302.

165. Problem Solving Seminar. (1 or 2) A weekly seminar designed for students who wish to participate in mathematical competition such as the annual Putnam examination. Not to be counted toward any major or minor offered by the department. May be repeated for credit.

221. Modern Algebra I. (4) An introduction to modern abstract algebra through the study of groups, rings, integral domains, and fields. P—Mathematics 121.

251. Ordinary Differential Equations. (4) Linear equations with constant coefficients, linear equations with variable coefficients, and existence and uniqueness theorems for first order equations. P—Mathematics 112.

253. Operations Research. (4) Mathematical models and optimization techniques. Studies in allocation, simulation, queuing, scheduling, and network analysis. P—Mathematics 111.

254. Optimization Theory. (2) Unconstrained and constrained optimization problems; Lagrange multiplier methods; sufficient conditions involving bordered Hessians; inequality constraints; Kuhn-Tucker conditions; applications primarily to problems in economics. P—Mathematics 113 and Mathematics 121.

255. Dynamical Systems. (2) Difference and differential equations as dynamical systems; solution methods for linear, constant coefficient equations; matrix methods for linear systems of equations using eigenvalues and diagonalization; stability theory; analysis of nonlinear systems using linearization methods and phase plane; applications primarily to problems in economics. P—Mathematics 113 and Mathematics 121.

256. Statistical Methods. (4) A study of statistical methods that have proved useful in many different disciplines. These methods include tests of model assumptions, regression, general linear models, nonparametric alternatives, and analysis of data collected over time. Knowledge of matrix algebra is desirable but not necessary.

301. Vector Analysis. (2) Vector functions, partial derivatives, line and multiple integrals, Green's theorem, Stokes' theorem, divergence theorem. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. P—Mathematics 112.

302. Matrix Algebra. (2) Matrices, determinants, solutions of linear equations, special matrices, eigenvalues and eigenvectors of matrices. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. Credit not allowed for both 121 and 302.

303. Complex Variables. (2) Topics in analytic function theory, Cauchy's theorem, Taylor and Laurent series, residues. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. Credit not allowed for both 303 and 317. P—Mathematics 112.

304. Applied Partial Differential Equations. (2) The separation of variables technique for the solution of the wave, heat, Laplace, and other partial differential equations with the related study of special functions and Fourier series. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. P—Mathematics 251.

311, 312. Advanced Calculus I, II. (4,4) Limits and continuity in metric spaces, differentiation and Riemann-Stieltjes integration, sequences and series, uniform convergence, power series and Fourier series, partial differentiation and functions of n real variables, implicit and inverse function theorems. P—Mathematics 113.

317. Complex Analysis I. (4) Analytic functions, Cauchy's theorem and its consequences, power series, and residue calculus. Credit not allowed for both 303 and 317. P—Mathematics 113.

322. Modern Algebra II. (4) A continuation of modern abstract algebra through the study of additional properties of groups, rings, and fields. P—Mathematics 221.

324. Linear Algebra II. (4) A thorough treatment of vector spaces and linear transformations over an arbitrary field, canonical forms, inner product spaces, and linear groups. P—Mathematics 121 and Mathematics 221.

326. Numerical Linear Algebra. (4) Numerical methods for solving matrix and related problems in science and engineering. Topics will include systems of linear equations, least squares methods, and eigenvalue computations. Special emphasis given to parallel matrix computations. Beginning knowledge of a programming language, such as Pascal, FORTRAN, or C, is required. P—Mathematics 112 and Mathematics 121.

331. Geometry. (4) An introduction to axiomatic geometry including a comparison of Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometries.

334. Differential Geometry. (4) Introduction to the theory of curves and surfaces in two and three dimensional space, including such topics as curvature, geodesics, and minimal surfaces. P—Mathematics 113.

348, 349. Combinatorial Analysis I, II. (4,4) Enumeration techniques, generating functions, recurrence formulas, the principle of inclusion and exclusion, Polya theory, graph theory, combinatorial algorithms, partially ordered sets, designs, Ramsey theory, symmetric functions, and Schur functions.

352. Partial Differential Equations. (4) A detailed study of partial differential equations, including the heat, wave, and Laplace equations, using methods such as separation of variables, characteristics, Green's functions, and the maximum principle. P—Mathematics 113 and Mathematics 251.

353. Mathematical Models. (4) Development and application of probabilistic and deterministic models. Emphasis given to constructing models which represent systems in the social, behavioral, and management sciences.

355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (4) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language (C or FORTRAN). Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations and least squares methods. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 355 and Computer Science 355. P—Mathematics 112, Mathematics 121, and Computer Science 111.

357, 358. Mathematical Statistics I, II. (4,4) Probability distributions, mathematical expectation, sampling distributions, estimation and testing of hypotheses, regression, correlation, and analysis of variance. C—Mathematics 113, or P—Permission of instructor.

361. Selected Topics. (2,3, or 4) Topics in mathematics which are not considered in regular courses or which continue study begun in regular courses. Content varies.

381. Individual Study. (2,3, or 4) A course of independent study directed by a faculty adviser. By prearrangement.

Medieval Studies

Gillian Overing and Gale Sigal (English), Coordinators

The interdisciplinary minor in medieval studies requires twenty-four credits, chosen from at least three different departments. Courses from the student's major may count in the minor. Students are encouraged, but not required, to attend the six-week Summer Medieval Program at Oxford University in England, for which they receive six credits

(two courses) which count toward the minor. (For details about application to the Oxford program, and possible financial aid, consult Gale Sigal in the English department.) Courses may be chosen from the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Art

- 252. Romanesque Art. (4)
- 253. The Gothic Cathedral. (4)
- 254. Luxury Arts in the Middle Ages. (4)
- 267. Early Italian Renaissance Art. (4)
- 296. Art History Seminar: b. Medieval Art. (2,4)

English

- 305. Old English Language and Literature. (4)
- 310. The Medieval World. (4)
- 311. The Legend of Arthur. (4)
- 312. Medieval Poetry. (4)
- 315. Chaucer. (4)
- 320. British Drama to 1642. (4)

French

- 330. Seminar in Medieval Studies. (4)

German

- 249. German Literature before 1700. (4)

History

- 306. The Early Middle Ages. (4)
- 307. The High Middle Ages Through the Renaissance. (4)
- 335. Italy. Medieval and Renaissance. (4)

Humanities

- 361. Dante I. (2)
- 362. Dante II. (2)

Music

- 220. Seminar in Medieval and Renaissance Music. (3,4)

Philosophy

- 232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (4)

Religion

- 367. The Mystics of the Church. (4)
- 372. History of Christian Thought: b. Medieval and Reformation Thought. (2,4)

Spanish

- 231. Medieval and Pre-Renaissance Spanish Literature. (4)

Theater

- 260. History of Western Theater I (Beginnings to 1642). (4)

Students intending to minor in Medieval Studies should consult one of the coordinators, preferably during the sophomore year.

Military Science

Lieutenant Colonel Kenneth M. Walker, Professor
 Assistant Professors: Major William M. Pedersen, Major Frank M. Williamson, Captain Jeffrey A. Marquez, Captain Kathy A. Underwood
 Instructors: Sergeant Major Gregory A. Duhon, Master Sergeant
 James H. Barrett, Master Sergeant George T. Loebe Jr.
 Adjunct Instructor: Major Stephen J. Huebner

Completion of Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (AROTC) requirements and recommendation for appointment by the professor of military science may result in commissioning as a second lieutenant in the active or reserve forces components of the Army of the United States, as determined by the Secretary of the Army. The AROTC program is composed of the Basic Course and the Advanced Course. The Basic Course is composed of four core courses (121, 122, 123, and 124), sometimes with either 117 or 118 taken each semester as a co-requisite. No military obligation is incurred by enrollment in the Basic Course, except by Army ROTC Scholarship cadets, and then only when beginning their sophomore year. The Basic Course may be completed, partially or fully, by various alternative methods (i.e., through credit for specific types of Junior ROTC or other military training, as determined by the professor of military science, or through completion of a six-week summer Basic Camp). The Advanced Course is composed of four core courses (225, 226, 227, and 228), with either 117 or 118 taken each semester as a co-requisite, and a six-week Advanced Camp, usually attended during the summer between the junior and senior years. Army ROTC scholarships are available to qualified applicants (both those already enrolled in the AROTC program and those not yet enrolled) through annual competition.

112. Operations in Special Environments. (2) Planning and preparation for military operations in mountain, desert, jungle, and arctic environments; fundamentals of survival; mountaineering techniques.

114. Leadership. (2) An examination of the fundamentals contributing to the development of a personal style of leadership with emphasis on the dimensions of junior executive management.

116. Orienteering. (2) A study of navigational aids, linear time/distance relationships, and mapping techniques. Includes navigating in unfamiliar terrain.

117, 118. Leadership Laboratory. (0,0) Basic military skills instruction designed to technically and tactically qualify the student for assumption of an officer leadership position at the small-unit level. Either 117 (fall) or 118 (spring) is required each semester for contracted AROTC cadets (including those conditionally contracted), advance designee scholarship winners, and non-contracted AROTC cadets taking their third and fourth military science core courses. Pass/fail only. C—Any other military science core course. P—Permission of the professor of military science, except when required as explained above.

121. Introduction to Army ROTC and the US Army. (2) An introduction to the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps and to the United States Army, exploring roles, organization, customs and traditions. C—Military Science 117 or 118, as appropriate.

122. Introduction to Military Leadership. (2) Introduction to military leadership, planning, organizing, communication skills and problem analysis. Techniques of motivation and management of subordinates. Examination of moral issues, requirements and dilemma of the military profession. P—Military Science 121 or permission of the professor of military science. C—Military Science 117 or 118, as appropriate.

123. Land Navigation and Terrain Analysis. (2) A study of the methods of land navigation and terrain analysis for military operations. P—Military Science 121 and 122, or permission of the professor of military science. C—Military Science 117 or 118, as appropriate.

124. Tactics and Leadership in the US Army. (2) An introduction to planning, organizing, and conducting military ground operations, with a consideration of the principles of war. Focuses on current leadership doctrine within the Army. P—Military Science 121, 122, and 123, or permission of the professor of military science. C—Military Science 117 or 118, as appropriate.

225. Military Operations. (2) An in-depth study of the principles of combined arms operations. P—Military Science 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science). C—Military Science 117.

226. Advanced Military Operations. (2) A continuation of Military Science 225 with an emphasis on the leadership aspect of combined arms operations. Specific preparation for the AROTC Advanced Camp. P—Military Science 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and Military Science 225. C—Military Science 118.

227. Leadership and Management in the US Army I. (2) The theory and practice of military leadership. Emphasis on the Uniform Code of Military Justice, the Manual for Courts-Martial, the Law of Land Warfare and the Army's personnel, training, and logistical management systems. P—Military Science 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and Military Science 225 and 226. C—Military Science 117.

228. Leadership and Management in the US Army II. (2) A continuation of Military Science 227 with emphasis on the transition from cadet to officer. P—Military Science 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and Military Science 225 through 227. C—Military Science 118.

229. American Military History. (4) The American military experience with emphasis on the ideas and activities contributing to the development of the United States' unique military establishment. Particular emphasis on civilian control of the military. P—Permission of the professor of military science. Credit not allowed for this course if credit has been earned for History 369.

Music

David B. Levy, Chair

Professors Susan Harden Borwick, Louis Goldstein

Associate Professors Stewart Carter, Peter Kairoff, David B. Levy,

Dan Locklair (Composer-in-Residence), Teresa Radomski

Part-time Assistant Professor Pamela Howland

Director of Instrumental Ensembles George W. Trautwein

Assistant Director of Instrumental Ensembles C. Kevin Bowen

Director of Choral Ensembles Brian Gorelick

Part-time Instructors Patricia Dixon, Kathryn Levy

A major in music requires forty-eight credits. This includes a basic curriculum of thirty-six credits (Music Theory 171, 172, 173, and 174, sixteen credits; Music History 181, 182, six credits; ten credits of individual instruction; and four credits of ensemble, taken in four semesters) plus six semesters of Music Recitals 100 and twelve credits of elective courses in music, excluding ensembles and Music 165-169, 175-179. In addition to the course work, music majors are required to present a senior recital, lecture-recital, or project.

Students anticipating a major in music are urged to begin their studies during their first year and are required to audition during the second semester of their sophomore year before officially being admitted to the program.

Highly qualified majors may be invited by the music faculty to apply for admission to the honors program in music. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Music," a candidate must have a 3.0 overall GPA and a 3.5 GPA in courses in the major. In addition, the candidate must be nominated for this honor by a music faculty member and must complete one of the following requirements: (1) an honors-level research paper, (2) an analysis project, (3) an original composition, (4) a lecture-recital, (5) a solo recital, (6) a chamber-music recital, (7) a solo concert with ensemble, or (8) a conducting project. More complete information is available from the Department of Music.

A minor in music requires twenty-four credits: Music 171, 172; 181, 182; two credits of ensemble, taken in two semesters; two semesters of individual instruction (performance level must be equal to the level expected of majors at the time of the sophomore audition); six credits of music electives (excluding ensemble); and four semesters of Music Recitals 100. Each minor will be assigned an adviser in the music department and is encouraged to begin individual lessons, Music 171, and Music 100 as early as possible.

Regarding ensemble requirements for the major or minor in music, students who, upon the advice of their private instructor, take the sophomore audition in voice must fulfill the ensemble requirement by singing in Music 114, 115, and/or 116. Students who, upon the advice of their private instructor, take the sophomore audition on a band or orchestral instrument must fulfill the ensemble requirement by performing on that instrument in Music 113, 117, 119, and/or 121. In the case of majors who concentrate in music education, Music 117 may fulfill up to two, but no more than two, semesters of the four-semester ensemble requirement.

Any student interested in majoring or minoring in music should consult the chair of the department as soon as possible after entering the University.

General Music

100. Recitals. (0) Recitals, concerts, and guest lectures sponsored by the Department of Music and the Secrest Artists Series. (Specific attendance requirements will be established at the beginning of each semester.) Six semesters are required of music majors; four semesters are required of music minors. (P/F only)

101. Introduction to the Language of Music. (3,4) Basic theoretical concepts and musical terminology. Survey of musical styles, composers, and selected works from the Middle Ages through the twentieth century. Satisfies the Division I requirement. For students not majoring in music.

102. Language of Music I. (3,4) Survey of musical styles, composers, and selected works from the Middle Ages through the twentieth century. For students who can read music. Not open to music majors. Satisfies the Division I requirement. P—Permission of instructor.

110. Writing about the Arts. (4) Training in expository writing; frequent essays based on music and other arts experiences on campus and in the community, and on readings in music and the arts. Fulfills the basic requirement in English. P—Permission of instructor and the Department of English.

202. Language of Music II. (2) An in-depth study of selected major works. Not open to music majors. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

Music Theory

104. Basic Music Reading and Skills. (2) A study of the fundamentals of music theory including key signatures, scales, intervals, chords, and basic sight-singing and ear-training skills. Designed for students wishing to participate in University ensembles and those wishing to pursue vocal, instrumental, and compositional instruction. May not count toward the music major or minor.

105. Music Theory for Non-Majors. (4) A study and application of music fundamentals and music theory for the non-music major; analytical and compositional techniques. P—Music 104 or permission of instructor.

171. Music Theory I. (4) Music fundamentals: key signatures, scales, modes, intervals, triads, elements of music. Ear training, sight-singing, and rhythm skills. Fall.

172. Music Theory II. (4) Seventh chords, beginning part-writing, basic counterpoint, ear training, sight-singing, rhythm skills, keyboard harmony. Spring. P—Music 171.

173. Music Theory III. (4) Altered chords, continuation of part-writing, eighteenth and nineteenth century forms, ear training, sight-singing, rhythm skills, keyboard harmony. Fall. P—Music 172.

174. Music Theory IV. (4) Expanded harmonic system of Impressionism and the twentieth century. New concepts of style and form. Ear training, sight-singing, rhythm skills, keyboard harmony. Spring. P—Music 173.

270. Sixteenth Century Counterpoint. (2) Analysis of sixteenth century contrapuntal music, in particular that of Palestrina. Examination of Renaissance writings on counterpoint. Composition of canon and motet. P—Music 174.

271. Eighteenth Century Counterpoint. (2) Analysis of eighteenth century contrapuntal styles, with concentration on the Well-Tempered Clavier and Art of the Fugue of J. S. Bach. Composition of invention, canon, and fugue. P—Music 174.

272. Analysis Seminar. (2) A study of analytical writings of theorists and composers and the development of practical skills as they can be used in research and performance preparation. P—Music 174.

273. Composition. (1 or 2) Individual instruction in the craft of musical composition. May be repeated for credit. P—Permission of instructor.

276. Current Practices. (2) A survey of twentieth century compositional techniques, notation, and performance problems involving the study of music and theoretical writings associated with major trends from 1900 to the present. P—Music 174.

280. Orchestration. (4) A study of the orchestral and wind band instruments, how composers have used them throughout history, and the development of practical scoring and manuscript skills. (Also offered by the Department of Education as Education 280.) Spring. P—Music 174, 182, or permission of instructor.

Music History

181. Music History I. (3) History of music from the Greeks to 1750. Satisfies the Division I requirement. P—Permission of instructor.

182. Music History II. (3) History of music from 1750 to the present. Satisfies the Division I requirement. P—Permission of instructor.

203. History of Jazz. (4) A survey of American jazz from its origin to the present. Open to majors and non-majors. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

204. Survey of Choral Music. (4) A historical overview of important genera (i.e., anthem, cantata, motet, mass, oratorio) with an emphasis on church music and liturgical function. Open to majors and non-majors. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

205. Survey of Orchestral Music. (4) A historical overview of important orchestral repertoire (i.e., symphony, concerto, overture, symphonic poem). Open to majors and non-majors. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

206. Survey of Opera. (4) A study of the development of opera from 1600 to the present. Selected operas by European and American composers will be examined in class via record, score, and film. Class will attend opera performances when possible. Open to majors and non-majors. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

207. Music in America. (4) A study of the music and musical trends in America from 1650 to the present. The course will survey sacred and secular music from the Pilgrims to the current trends of American composers. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

208. Women and Music. (4) A historical overview of women musicians in society. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

212. Music in the Church. (4) Function of church musicians and the relationship of their work to the church program. Offered fall semester of odd years. P—Permission of instructor.

213. Beethoven. (4) Compositional process, analysis, criticism, and performance practices in selected works by Ludwig van Beethoven. P—Music 101 or permission of instructor.

215. Philosophy of Music. (2) A survey of philosophical writings about music. Musical aesthetics; social, religious, and political concerns. P—Music 174, 182, or permission of instructor.

220. Seminar in Medieval and Renaissance Music. (3,4) A study of music before 1600, its theory, notation, and performance practices. P—Music 174, 182, or permission of instructor.

221. Seminar in Baroque Music. (3,4) Musical activity from about 1600 to Bach and Handel. Special emphasis on the development of national styles and their resolutions toward the end of the era. P—Music 174, 182, or permission of instructor.

222. Seminar in Eighteenth Century Music. (3,4) Musical developments from the sons of Bach through the Viennese Classicism of Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven. P—Music 174, 182, or permission of instructor.

223. Seminar in Nineteenth Century Music. (3,4) Music from the latter part of Beethoven's career through Wagner and Brahms. Special emphasis on the post-Beethoven schism and its ramifications. P—Music 174, 182, or permission of instructor.

224. Seminar in Twentieth Century Music. (3,4) A study of the major musical styles, techniques, and media of contemporary music from Debussy to the present. P—Music 174, 182, or permission of instructor.

230. History of Musical Instruments. (4) Historical overview of the form and function of musical instruments from the Middle Ages to the present. Emphasis on instruments in art music of Western Europe and the United States. P—Music 101, 181, 182, or permission of instructor.

284. Music Literature Seminar. (3,4) A survey of repertoire, including an examination of teaching materials in the student's special area of interest. Also offered by the Department of Education as Education 284. P—Permission of instructor.

- a. Instrumental Literature
- b. Choral Literature
- c. Piano Literature

- d. Guitar Literature
- e. Vocal Literature

Music Education

Music 280, 282, 284, 289, and 354 also appear as Education 280, 282, 284, 289, and 354. These courses may be taken as music or education but not both.

186. String Instruments. (2) Fundamentals of playing and teaching all instruments of the string family. Offered spring semester of odd years.

187. Woodwind Instruments. (2) Fundamentals of playing and teaching all principal instruments of the woodwind family. Offered fall semester of even years.

188. Brass and Percussion Instruments. (2) Fundamentals of playing and teaching brass and percussion. Offered spring semester of even years.

280. Orchestration. (4) See page 149 for a course description.

282. Conducting. (4) See page 154 for a course description.

284. Music Literature Seminar. (3,4) See page 150 for a course description.

289. Ensemble Methods. (2) A practical study of choral and instrumental training techniques. Discussion of tonal development, administration, bibliography, and choral and instrumental problems. Also offered by the Department of Education as Education 289. Fall. P—Music 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.

354. Methods and Materials of Teaching Music. (4) Methods, materials, and techniques used in the teaching and supervision of choral and instrumental music in the public schools, all grades. Also offered by the Department of Education as Education 354. Spring. P—Music 174, 182.

Honors and Individual Study

297. Senior Project. (1,2,3, or 4) A major project varying in format according to the student's area of concentration. By pre-arrangement.

298. Individual Study. (1,2,3, or 4) A project in an area of study not otherwise available in the department. By pre-arrangement.

299. Honors in Music. (1,2,3, or 4) Individual study for honors candidates who have fulfilled the specific requirements.

Ensemble

Departmental ensembles are open to all students. Credit is earned on the basis of one credit per semester of participation in each ensemble.

111. Opera Workshop. Study, staging, and performance of standard and contemporary operatic works. P—Permission of instructor.

112. Collegium Musicum. An ensemble stressing the performance practices and the performance of music of the medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque eras.

113. Orchestra. Study and performance of orchestral works from the classical and contemporary repertoire. P—Audition.

114. Madrigal Singers. A vocal chamber ensemble which specializes in the performance of secular repertoire. P—Audition.

115. Concert Choir. A select touring choir of forty-five voices which performs a variety of choral literature from all periods. Regular performances on and off campus, including an annual tour. P—Audition.

116. Choral Union. A large oratorio chorus which concentrates on the performance of major choral works. P—Audition.

117. Marching Deacons Band. Performs for most football games. Meets twice weekly. Regular performances on and off campus. Fall. P—Permission of instructor.

118. Chamber Winds. Study and performance of music for mixed chamber ensembles of winds, brass, and percussion. Fall. P—Permission of instructor.

119. Symphonic Band. Study and performance of music for symphonic band. Regular performances on and off campus. Spring. P—Permission of instructor.

120. Small Chamber Ensemble. Study and performance of music for small ensemble. Performers are strongly urged to participate in a larger ensemble as well. P—Permission of instructor.

a. percussion ensemble

b. flute choir

c. string

d. saxophone

e. brass

f. woodwind

g. guitar

h. mixed

121. Jazz Ensemble. Study and performance of written and improvised jazz for a twenty-member ensemble. P—Audition.

Individual Instruction

Courses in individual instruction are open to all students with the permission of the instructor. Credit is earned on the basis of lesson duration and weekly preparation. One credit per semester implies a half-hour of instruction weekly and a minimum of one hour of daily practice. Two credits per semester imply an hour of instruction weekly and a minimum of two hours daily practice. With the permission of the music faculty and with a proportional increase in practice, a student may earn three or four credits per semester. Students in individual instruction who do not have basic knowledge of notation and rhythm are advised to enroll in Music 101 or 104 either prior to or in conjunction with individual instruction. An applied music fee is charged for all individual instruction. (See page 21 of this bulletin for specific information regarding the fee.)

161. Individual Instruction. (1) May be repeated for credit. Technical studies and repertoire of progressive difficulty selected to meet the needs and abilities of the student.

a. violin	g. clarinet	m. baritone	v. voice
b. viola	h. bassoon	n. tuba	w. recorder
c. cello	i. saxophone	o. organ	x. viola da gamba
d. bass	j. trumpet	p. piano	y. harpsichord
e. flute	k. French horn	q. percussion
f. oboe	l. trombone	r. guitar

261. Individual Instruction. (2,3, or 4) May be repeated for credit. P—Permission of instructor.

165p. Class Piano. (1) Scales, chords, inversions, and appropriate repertoire, with emphasis on sight-reading, harmonization, and simple transposition. Designed for the beginning piano student.

165q. Class Percussion. (1) Introduction to the fundamentals of playing percussion instruments. Includes an introduction to reading music as well as basic techniques on instruments of the percussion family. P—Permission of instructor.

166v. Class Voice II. (1) Continuation of fundamental vocal techniques. P—Music 165v or permission of instructor.

165w. Class Recorder. (1) Introduction to recorder techniques: breath control, articulation, F and C fingering systems. Emphasis on ensemble playing. Designed for beginning and intermediate recorder players. This course is intended to prepare students for Music 112, but is not a prerequisite.

168v. Theatrical Singing II: Class Voice. (1) Continuation of theatrical singing techniques with increased study and performance of musical theater repertoire. P—Music 167v or permission of instructor. (One hour per week.)

169. Musical Theater Practicum. (1) Musical stage experiences for vocalists or instrumentalists who participate in a departmentally sponsored theatrical production. May not be counted toward a major or minor in music. Credit may be earned in a given semester for either Music 169 or Theater 283, but not both. Course may be repeated for no more than 4 credits. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

175v. Advanced Voice Class. (1) Development of advanced vocal technique and repertoire. Limited to eight students. (Two hours per week; may be repeated.) P—Music 166v or permission of instructor.

177v. Advanced Theatrical Singing. (1) Development of advanced theatrical singing technique and performance of musical theater repertoire. Limited to eight students. (Two hours per week; may be repeated.) P—Music 168v or permission of instructor.

190. Diction for Singers. (2) Study of articulation in singing, with emphasis on modification of English; pronunciation of Italian, German, and French. Development of articulatory and aural skills with use of the international phonetic alphabet. Individual performance and coaching in class. (Two hours per week.)

282. Conducting. (4) A study of conducting techniques; practical experience with ensembles. Offered spring semester of odd years. (Also offered by the Department of Education as Education 282.) P—Music 174 or permission of instructor.

Natural Sciences

Dudley Shapere, Reynolds Professor of Philosophy and History of Science

301. The Beginnings of the Modern World-View. (4) A study of the transition from ancient views of the world to the perspective of modern science, with focus on the works of the pre-Socratic philosophers, Plato, and Aristotle. (Also listed as History 301 and Philosophy 231.)

302. The Mechanistic View of Nature. (4) An examination of the philosophical and scientific roots, in Descartes, Newton, and Leibniz, of the belief that the universe and human beings are “machines” subject to deterministic natural laws, and the relevance to this issue of modern scientific ideas. (Also listed as History 302, Interdisciplinary Honors 252, and Philosophy 242.)

303. Revolutions in Modern Science. (4) An analysis of the ways in which radically new ideas are introduced and accepted in science. Cases studied are space and time in relativity theory, the nature of reality in quantum mechanics, evolution of species, and continental drift. P—At least one course in one of the relevant areas of science or permission of instructor. (Also listed as History 303 and Interdisciplinary Honors 253.)

320. The Universe of Modern Science. (4) A survey of the contemporary scientific picture of the universe and its evolution, and of the major evidence for that picture.

351. The Scientific Outlook. (4) An exploration of the origins and development of the scientific method and some of its contemporary applications in the natural and social sciences and the humanities. (Also listed as Interdisciplinary Honors 237.)

352. Modern Science and Human Values. (4) Four revolutionary developments in science and technology are studied with a focus on their potential to affect human values: biotechnology, cognitive science, recent primate research, and the search for extraterrestrial life. (Also listed as History 305 and Interdisciplinary Honors 256.)

396. Individual Study. (1-4) Individual projects in the philosophy and history of science. By invitation only.

Philosophy

Win-chiat Lee, Chair

Worrell Professor Robert M. Helm

Professors Thomas K. Hearn Jr., Marcus B. Hester, Charles M. Lewis

Associate Professors Ralph C. Kennedy III, Win-chiat Lee

Assistant Professor Josefine C. Nauckhoff

Instructor Charles J. Kinlaw

Lecturer Hanna M. Hardgrave

The objective of the program in philosophy is to lead the student to an understanding of philosophical thinking—past and present—about such fundamental questions as what it is to exist, to know, to be good, right, true, beautiful, or sacred. In examining such matters, philosophy may be said to investigate the presuppositions that inform all human action and inquiry and thus to be an essentially interdisciplinary kind of subject. The study of philosophy can, therefore, play a useful role in preparing the student for a career in almost any field, including law, politics, religion, medicine, business, the arts, and the natural and social sciences.

The thirty-six credits in philosophy required for graduation with a major in the subject must include a general introduction to philosophy (Philosophy 111), one course in logic (selected from Group II), three courses in the history of philosophy (one from each of Groups III, IV and V) and two 200-level or higher topics courses (Group VI), the total to include at least three courses at the 300-level.

A minor in philosophy requires 20 credits in philosophy, which must include at least two 200-level or higher courses and one 300-level course. Philosophy being an intrinsically interdisciplinary subject, a minor in philosophy can be designed to complement any major subject. Students interested in minoring in philosophy should consult with the department about choosing an appropriate sequence of courses.

Highly qualified majors are invited to apply in the spring semester of their junior year to the honors program in philosophy. Candidates must have an overall grade-point average of at least 3.0 and a grade-point average in philosophy courses of at least 3.3. Graduation with honors in philosophy requires successful completion of Honors I and II in the fall and spring semesters, respectively, of their senior year. The credits earned in these two courses do not count toward the thirty-six credits required of all majors.

Group I—Introduction to Philosophy

111. Basic Problems of Philosophy. (4) An examination of the basic concepts of several representative philosophers, including their accounts of the nature of knowledge, persons, God, mind, and matter.

Group II—Logic

121. Logic. (4) An elementary study of the laws of valid inference, recognition of fallacies, and logical analysis.

221. Symbolic Logic. (4) Basic concepts and techniques of first-order logic; applications of first-order logic to arguments expressed in English; some discussion of such topics as the unsolvability of the decision problem for first-order logic, the completeness of first-order logic, and Gödel's incompleteness theorem.

Group III—Classical Ancient Philosophy

231. Beginnings of the Modern World-View. (4) A study of the transition from ancient views of the world to the perspective of modern science, with focus on the works of the Presocratic philosophers, Plato, and Aristotle. (Also offered as History 301 and Natural Sciences 301.)

232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (4) A study of philosophical problems such as the nature of faith, reason, universals, and God in the thought of Plato, Aristotle, Augustine, Abelard, Anselm, Aquinas, and Ockham. P—Philosophy 111.

331. Plato. (4) A detailed analysis of selected dialogues, covering Plato's most important contributions to moral and political philosophy, theory of knowledge, metaphysics, and theology. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

332. Aristotle. (4) A study of the major texts, with emphasis on metaphysics, ethics, and theory of knowledge. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

Group IV—Classical Modern Philosophy

241. Modern Philosophy. (4) A survey of major philosophers from Descartes to Nietzsche. P—Philosophy 111.

242. The Mechanistic View of Nature. (4) An examination of the philosophical and scientific roots, in Descartes, Newton, and Leibniz, of the belief that the universe and human beings are "machines" subject to deterministic natural laws, and the relevance to this issue of modern scientific ideas. (Also offered as History 302, Interdisciplinary Honors 252, and Natural Sciences 302.)

341. Kant. (4) A detailed study of selected works covering Kant's most important contributions to theory of knowledge, metaphysics, ethics, religion, and aesthetics. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

Group V—Other History

251. American Philosophy. (4) A study exploring the philosophies of Jonathan Edwards, Ralph Waldo Emerson, C.S. Peirce, William James, John Dewey, and others, examining their views on logic, experience, science, reality, nature, art, education, and God. P—Philosophy 111.

252. Contemporary Philosophy. (4) A study of the principal works of several representative twentieth-century philosophers. P—Philosophy 111.

253. Main Streams of Chinese Philosophy and Religion. (4) An introduction to the most important traditions in Chinese philosophy and religion: Confucianism, Daoism (Taoism), and Chinese Buddhism or Chinese Chan (Zen) Buddhism. (Also offered as Religion 380.)

351. Early German Idealism. (4) An examination of the development of post-Kantian idealism through the works of Fichte, Schelling, and Schleiermacher, with particular emphasis on their efforts to address the challenge of critical philosophy. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

352. Hegel, Kierkegaard, and Nietzsche. (4) An examination of selected sources embodying the basic concepts of Hegel, Kierkegaard, and Nietzsche, especially as they relate to each other in terms of influence, development, and opposition. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

353. Heidegger. (4) An examination of the structure and development of Heidegger's philosophy from the ontological analysis in Being and Time to his later work in the philosophy of language and poetry. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

354. Wittgenstein. (4) The work of Ludwig Wittgenstein on several central philosophical problems studied and compared with that of Frege, James, and Russell. Topics include the picture theory of meaning, truth, skepticism, private languages, thinking, feeling, the mystical, and the ethical. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

Group VI—Topics in Philosophy

161. Medical Ethics. (4) A study of moral problems in the practice of medicine, including informed consent, experimentation on human subjects, truth-telling, confidentiality, abortion, and the allocation of scarce medical resources.

162. Applied Ethics. (4) A critical analysis of contemporary moral issues, including capital punishment, minority rights and their protection, civil disobedience, euthanasia, family relationships, and sexual conduct.

261. Ethics. (4) A critical study of selected problems and representative works in ethical theory. P—Philosophy 111.

262. Philosophy of Law. (4) A philosophical inquiry into the nature of law and its relation to morality. Classroom discussions of readings from the works of classical and modern authors focus on issues of contemporary concern involving questions of legal principle, personal liberty, human rights, responsibility, justice, and punishment. P—Philosophy 111.

361. Topics in Ethics. (4) P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

362. Social and Political Philosophy. (4) A systematic examination of selected social and political philosophers of different traditions, with concentration on Plato, Marx, Rawls, and Nozick. Topics include rights, justice, equality, private property, the state, the common good, and the relation of individuals to society. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

171. Space and Time in Fact and Fiction. (4) Are space and time fundamentally different? Are they properties of the physical world or of minds only? Are they finite or infinite in extension and duration? Other questions cover problems and paradoxes in the concept of space and in the concept of time travel.

371. Philosophy of Art. (4) A critical examination of several philosophies of art, with emphasis upon the application of these theories to particular works of art. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

372. Philosophy of Religion. (4) An analysis of the logic of religious language and belief, including an examination of religious experience, mysticism, revelation, and arguments for the nature and existence of God. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

373. Philosophy of Science. (4) A systematic and critical examination of major views concerning the methods of scientific inquiry, and the bases, goals, and implications of the scientific conclusions which result from such inquiry. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

374. Philosophy of Mind. (4) A selection from the following topics: the mind-body problem; personal identity; the unity of consciousness; minds and machines; the nature of experience; action, intention, and the will. Readings from classical and contemporary sources. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

375. Philosophy of Language. (4) A study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantical paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign-systems. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor. (Also listed as Linguistics 375.)

381. Topics in Epistemology. (4) The sources, scope and structure of human knowledge. Topics include: skepticism; perception, memory, and reason; the definition of knowledge; the nature of justification; theories of truth. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

382. Topics in Metaphysics. (4) P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

Group VII—Honors and Independent Study

385. Seminar. (2-4) Offered by members of the faculty on specialized topics of their choice. P—Permission of instructor.

391. Honors I. (2) Directed study and research in preparation for writing a major paper. Must be taken in the fall semester of the senior year. P—Admission to the honors program in philosophy.

392. Honors II. (2) Completion of the project begun in Philosophy 391. Requires defense of the paper in an oral examination conducted by at least two members of the department. Taken in the spring semester of the senior year. P—Philosophy 391.

395. Independent Study. (2-4)

Physics

Howard W. Shields, Chair

Reynolds Professor Richard T. Williams

Professors Robert W. Brehme, George M. Holzwarth, William C. Kerr,

Assistant Professor Paul R. Anderson

Adjunct Professors Monroe J. Cowan, George B. Cvijanovich

Adjunct Assistant Professor Peter Santiago

The program for each student majoring in physics is developed through consultation with the student's major adviser and may lead to either a bachelor of arts or a bachelor of science degree. The BA degree requires a minimum of basic physics courses and allows a wide selection of electives related to the student's interests in other disciplines, such as medicine, law, and business. The BS degree is designed for students planning careers in physics.

The BA degree in physics requires thirty-two credits in physics and must include the following courses: 113, 114, 141, 162, 165, 166, and 230. The remaining eight credits may be satisfied with any other 300-level courses in the department. Mathematics 251 also is required. Depending on what other physics courses the student takes, additional mathematics courses may be required; e.g., Mathematics 301 is a prerequisite for Physics 339. The bachelor of science degree in physics requires forty-seven credits in physics and must include the following courses: 113, 114, 141, 162, 165-6, 230, 301-2, 343-4, 345, 337, 339, 340, and 351. The remaining credits may be satisfied with any other 300-level course in the department. In addition, Mathematics 251, 301, 302, and 304 are required; Mathematics 303 is strongly recommended.

A typical schedule for the first two years:

First Year	Sophomore
Basic and divisional requirements	Basic and divisional requirements
Physics 113, 114	Physics 141, 162, 165, 166
Mathematics 111, 112	Mathematics 251, 302, 304
Foreign language

If this sequence is followed, the physics major may be completed with considerable flexibility in exercising various options, such as the five year BA/MS program. This saves time, and the outstanding student may qualify for a tuition scholarship in the senior year of the five-year program. A candidate for the 3-2 engineering program would also complete three years of the BS physics major program prior to transfer. (Consult the chair of the department for additional information on these five-year programs.)

A minor in physics requires twenty-two credits, which must include the courses 113, 114, 141, and 162. A minor in astrophysics requires twenty-two credits and consists of the courses 113, 114, 141, 310, and 312. Students interested in either minor should so advise the faculty member responsible for advising physics majors (inquire in Olin Physical Laboratory Room 100).

If physics is not taken in the first year, the degree requirements in physics may still be completed by the end of the senior year if a beginning course is taken in the sophomore year. No student may be a candidate for a degree with a major in physics with a grade less than C in General Physics without special permission of the department.

Physics courses satisfying Division II requirements must be taken at Wake Forest.

Satisfactory completion of the laboratory work is required for a passing grade in all courses with a laboratory.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in physics through the major adviser. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Physics," students must pass Physics 381, write a paper on the results of the research in that course, pass an oral exam on the research and related topics given by a committee of three physics faculty members, and obtain a GPA of 3.5 in physics and 3.0 overall.

105. Descriptive Astronomy. (4) An introductory study of the universe, from the solar system to the galaxies. No lab. Does not satisfy Division II requirements.

109. Astronomy. (5) An introductory study of the universe consisting of descriptive astronomy, the historical development of astronomical theories, and astrophysics. Knowledge of basic algebra and trigonometry is required. Lab—two hours.

110. Introductory Physics. (5) A conceptual, non-calculus one-semester survey of the essentials of physics, including mechanics, wave motion, heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics. Not recommended for premedical, mathematics or science students. Credit not allowed for both 110 and 113. Lab—two hours.

113, 114. General Physics. (5,5) Essentials of mechanics, wave motion, heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics treated with some use of calculus.

Recommended for science, mathematics, and premedical students. C—Mathematics 111 or equivalent. P—113 is prerequisite for 114. Lab—two hours.

141. Elementary Modern Physics. (4) The development of twentieth century physics and an introduction to quantum ideas. P—Physics 114 and Mathematics 111. C—Physics 165.

162. Mechanics. (4) A study of the equations of motion describing several kinds of physical systems: velocity-dependent forces; damped and forced simple harmonic motion; orbital motion; inertial and non-inertial reference frames; and relativistic mechanics. The course includes extensive use of computers. P—Physics 113 and Mathematics 111 or equivalent.

165, 166. Intermediate Laboratory. (1,1) Experiments on mechanics, modern physics, electronics, and computer simulations. C—Physics 141 (for Physics 165); Physics 162 (for Physics 166). P—Physics 165 (for Physics 166).

230. Electronics. (4) Introduction to the theory and application of transistors and electronic circuits. Lab—three hours. P—Physics 165 or equivalent. Non-physics major wishing to take Physics 230 should audit the relevant portions of Physics 165.

301, 302. Physics Seminar. (0,0) Discussion of contemporary research, usually with visiting scientists. Attendance required of junior and senior physics majors.

303, 304. Physics of Medicine and Biology. (4,4) Analysis and application of the physics involved both in physiological function (e.g., diffusion in cells, fluid flow in blood vessels, electrical conduction in nerves) and in modern medical technology (e.g., magnetic resonance imaging, X-ray and positron emission tomography, ultrasound). Both macroscopic and molecular descriptions will be included. P—Physics 141, 162.

310. Extragalactic Astronomy and Cosmology. (4) Topics covered include galactic structure, models for galaxies and galaxy formation, the large scale structure of the universe, the big bang model of the universe, physical processes such as nucleosynthesis in the early universe, and observational cosmology. P—Physics 114, 141.

312. Introduction to Stellar Astronomy. (4) The physics of stellar atmospheres and interiors. Topics covered will include radiation transfer, absorption and emission of radiation, formation of spectra, models for stellar interiors, nuclear fusion reactions, and stellar evolution. Methods of measuring distances to stars and interpretation of stellar spectra also will be included. P—Physics 114, 141, Mathematics 301.

320. The Physics of Macromolecules. (4) The physics of polymers, especially proteins and nucleic acids, including the molecular basis for their secondary and tertiary structure. P—Physics 351 or Chemistry 341 or Biology 371.

330. Data Acquisition and Analysis. (4) Advanced treatment of computer interfacing, signal processing methods, non-ideal integrated circuit behavior, and data reduction and fitting procedures. P—Physics 130, 230.

337. Analytical Mechanics. (2) The Lagrangian and Hamiltonian formulations of mechanics with applications. This course is taught in the first half of the fall semester. P—Physics 162, Mathematics 251.

339, 340, 342. Electricity and Magnetism. (2,2,2) Electrostatics, magnetostatics, dielectric and magnetic materials, Maxwell's equations and applications to radiation, relativistic formulation. The first half course is taught in the second half of the fall semester, following Physics 337. The other two are taught in the first and second halves of the spring semester. These should be taken in sequence. P—Physics 114, Mathematics 251 and 301.

343, 344. Quantum Physics. (4,4) Application of the elementary principles of quantum mechanics to atomic, molecular, solid state, and nuclear physics. P—Physics 141 and Mathematics 251.

346. Advanced Physics Laboratory. (1) Lab—three hours. P—Physics 166 and Physics 343.

351. Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics. (4) Introduction to classical and statistical thermodynamics and distribution functions.

352. Physical Optics and Optical Design. (5) Interaction of light with materials; diffraction and coherent optics; ray trace methods of optical design. Lab—three hours.

354. Introduction to Solid State Physics. (4) A survey of the structure, composition, physical properties, and technological applications of condensed matter. P—Physics 343.

381, 382. Research. (2-4, 2-4) Library, conference, computation and laboratory work performed on an individual basis.

In its broadest conception, the aim of the study of politics is to understand the way in which policy for a society is formulated and executed and to understand the moral standards by which policy is or ought to be set. This center of interest is often described alternatively as the study of power, of government, of the state, or of human relations in their political context. For teaching purposes, the study of politics has been divided by the department into the following fields: (1) American politics, (2) comparative politics, (3) political philosophy, and (4) international politics. Introductory courses in these fields provide broad and flexible approaches to studying political life.

The major in politics consists of thirty-six credits, at least half of which must be completed at Wake Forest University. The courses must include the following: (a) a first course selected from Politics 113, 114, 115, or 116; (b) any non-seminar course in each of the four fields of the discipline except Politics 280, 284, 285, 287, 288, 289; (c) one seminar in politics (usually a student takes no more than one seminar in each field and no more than three seminars overall). No more than four credits for any one or any combination of the following courses may be counted toward the thirty-six credits required for the major: Politics 287, 288, and 289. Politics majors who have taken at least 20 credits in the Department of Politics are not allowed to take 100-level politics courses. A minimum grade average of C on all courses attempted in politics is required for graduation. Majors should consult with their advisers concerning additional regulations.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in politics. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Politics," one must successfully complete Politics 284 and 285. Politics 284 and 285 must be taken as additional courses beyond the thirty-six credits ordinarily required. For additional information members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

The minor in politics consists of twenty credits, including Politics 113 but excluding individual study and seminar courses. No more than eight credits may be from among the following courses: Politics 113, 114, 115, or 116. Sixteen of the credits must be taken at Wake Forest and any transfer courses must be approved by the chair. None of the courses may be taken pass/fail.

A student who selects politics to fulfill the Division IV requirement must take one of the following courses: Politics 113, 114, 115, or 116. Students who are not majors in politics may take upper level courses as electives without having had lower-level courses, unless a prerequisite is specified.

American Politics

113. American Government and Politics. (4) The nature of politics, political principles, and political institutions, with emphasis on their application to the United States.

210. Major Topics in Public Policy. (2,3, or 4) A study of major policies on the current public agenda in the United States, including consideration of alternative policy responses and the politics which surround them. Possible topics include the politics of poverty and welfare, medical care, education, crime, and energy. Credit varies with the number of topics studied.

211. Political Parties and Voting Behavior. (4) An examination of party competition, party organizations, the electorate and electoral activities of parties, and the responsibilities of parties for governing.

213. Public Administration. (4) Introduction to the study of public administration emphasizing policymaking in government agencies.

215. Citizen and Community. (4) An examination of the role and responsibilities of citizens in democratic policymaking. Includes discussion of democratic theory, emphasis on a policy issue of national importance (i.e. poverty, crime, environment), and involvement of students in projects that examine the dimension of the issue in their community. P—Permission of instructor.

217. Politics and the Mass Media. (4) Exploration of the relationship between the political system and the mass media. Two broad concerns will be the regulation of the mass media and the impact of media on political processes and events.

218. Congress and Policymaking. (4) An examination of the composition, authority structures, external influences, and procedures of Congress with emphasis on their implications for policymaking in the United States.

219. Fundamentals of Public Policy Analysis. (4) Fundamentals of public policy analysis with emphasis on techniques of decision-making such as cost benefit analysis and utility analysis. Each student will participate in a major collective research project centered on a local issue.

220. The American Presidency. (4) Emphasis on the office and the role; contributions by contemporary presidents considered in perspective.

222. Urban Politics. (4) Political structures and processes in American cities and suburbs as they relate to the social, economic, and political problems of the metropolis.

223. Blacks in American Politics. (4) A survey of selected topics, including black political participation, political organizations, political leadership, and political issues. It will also show the relationship of these phenomena to American political institutions and processes as a whole.

225. American Constitutional Law: Separation of Powers and the Federal System. (4) An analysis of Supreme Court decisions affecting the three branches of the national government and federal/state relations. Not open to first-year students.

226. American Constitutional Law: Civil Liberties. (4) Judicial interpretations of First Amendment freedoms, racial equality, and the rights of the criminally accused. Not open to first-year students.

227. Politics, Law, and Courts. (4) Analysis of the nature and role of law in American society and the structure and procedure of American courts. Questions of judicial organization, personnel, and decision-making, as well as the impact of law and court decisions on the social order, are explored at local, state, and national levels.

229. Women and Politics. (4) The course will examine classical and contemporary arguments regarding the participation of women in politics as well as current policy issues and changes in women's political participation.

Comparative Politics

114. Comparative Government and Politics. (4) A survey of political processes and principles as applied to traditional, developing, and mature states.

231. Western European Politics. (4) Analysis of the political systems of Great Britain, France, and Italy, focusing primarily on the problems of stable democracy.

232. Politics in Russia and Eastern Europe. (4) Analysis of the political, economic, and social patterns of the region emphasizing the internal dynamics of the political and economic transition processes currently underway.

233. The Politics of Modern Germany. (4) A study of the historical legacy, the political behavior, and governmental institutions of contemporary Germany (newly unified Germany).

236. Government and Politics in Latin America. (4) Comparative analysis of the institutions and processes of politics in the Latin American region.

237. Comparative Public Policy in Selected Industrialized Democracies. (4) An investigation of the public policy choices involving such matters as health, education, and income maintenance plans in selected Western European countries. The origins, development, and trends of the "welfare state" will be examined in Great Britain, Germany, and Sweden.

238. Comparative Economic Development and Political Change. (4) An overview of the relationship between economic development, socio-structural change, and politics since the creation of the international capitalist system in the sixteenth century. The course is organized around case studies of what we now recognize as industrialized democracies, evolving Communist systems and command economies, and "Third World" countries.

242. Topics in Comparative Politics. (4) An intensive study of one or more major problems in contemporary comparative politics.

244. Politics and Literature. (2,3, or 4) An examination of how literature can extend our knowledge of politics and political systems. The course considers the insights of selected novelists, such as Alexander Solzhenitsyn, Heinrich Böll, Robert Penn Warren, George Orwell, and Gabriel Garcia Marquez.

245. Politics of Ethnicity. (4) This course is concerned with the role of ethnicity in world politics. It focuses on both theoretical and substantive issues relating to: (a) the nature of ethnicity and ethnic group identity; (b) the sources of ethnic conflict; (c) the politics of ethnic conflict; (d) the policy management of ethnic conflict; and (e) international intervention in ethnic conflict.

246. Politics and Policies in South Asia. (4) A survey of major issues relevant to politics and policy in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka.

247. Islam and Politics. (4) The course explores the interrelationship of Islam and politics in the contemporary world. The course has two main foci. The first deals with Islam as a political ideology which shapes the structure of political institutions and behavior. The second looks at Islam in practice by examining the interaction between Islam and the political systems of Iran, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and others.

248. Government and Politics of China. (4) A survey of the political institutions and processes in China (People's Republic of China and Republic of China). Emphasis on group conflict, elites, ideology, as well as current policy changes in the process of modernization.

249. Government and Politics of Japan. (4) A survey of the political institutions and processes in Japan. Attention also is given to the relationship between politics and economics.

International Politics

116. International Politics. (4) A survey of the forces which shape relations among states and some of the major problems of contemporary international politics.

250. Global Crises. (4) An introductory survey of the major current issues in international affairs. Students learn how to effectively read and criticize materials and present critiques in oral and written fashion.

251. The Foreign Policy of Decline: Britain since 1945. (4) The course will study the efforts of Great Britain to maintain its status as a world power after 1945 and then, when it recognized that this was not possible, to find, or adjust to, a new role in the international system. Both theories of international politics and historical analysis will be employed in seeking to understand the policies which were adopted and rejected.

252. Topics in International Politics. (4) An intensive study of one or more major problems of contemporary international politics.

253. International Political Economy. (4) An introduction to major current issues of international political economy, such as monetary policy, trade policy, and ideologies in international relations.

254. American Foreign Policy: Contemporary Problems. (4) A critical examination of different methods of studying American foreign policy and of selected policies followed by the United States since the early 1960s.

256. Nuclear Weapons and National Security. (2 or 4) An analysis of the strategic, political, and moral implications of nuclear weapons as instruments of national policy. Both American and Soviet perspectives will be considered and special attention will be given to contemporary debates over the possession and control of nuclear weapons.

258. U.S. National Security Policymaking. (4) A critical analysis of how U.S. national security policy is made with particular emphasis on the period 1960 to present.

259. The Arab-Israeli Conflict. (4) An analysis of factors influencing the relationship between Israel and its neighbors relative to fundamental aspects of United States, Israeli, Palestinian, and Arab states policies.

260. East Asian International Relations. (4) An analytical survey of the bilateral and multilateral political relations of the East Asian states, with particular emphasis on the security relations and economic interactions.

261. International Law and Organizations. (4) Examination of the theoretical and substantive problems relating to the development and functioning of international law and international organizations and their contributions to international politics. Topics such as the United Nations system, human rights, and the law of the sea will be considered.

267. America in Vietnam: Myth and Reality. (4) An analysis of American policy towards Vietnam with special emphasis on the period of 1954-75. The focus will be on the relationship between American policies and the problems posed by Vietnamese and American cultures.

Political Philosophy

115. Political Philosophy. (4) A survey of major systematic statements of the rules and principles of political life. Representative writers are Tocqueville, Dahl, and Aristotle.

270. Topics in Political Theory. (4) An intensive study of one or more major topics in political theory.

271. Plato, Aristotle, and Classical Political Philosophy. (4) An examination of the nature and goals of the classical position, with attention to its origins in ancient Athens and its diffusion through Rome. Representative writers are Plato, Aristotle, and Cicero.

273. Radical Critiques of Political Society. (4) Anarchist, socialist, and communist criticisms of and alternatives to existing political societies, with special attention to such problems as utopianism and alienation. Representative writers are Marx and Nietzsche.

274. Noble Greeks and Romans. (4) The good man and the good citizen as comprehended in classical political philosophy. Representative writers are Aristotle, Plutarch, Aquinas, Shakespeare.

275. American Political Philosophy. (4) Critical examination of the nature of the American polity as expressed by its founders and leading statesmen. Representative writers are the Federalists, Lincoln, modern political scientists, and radical critics.

278. Modern Political Philosophy. (4) Political thought in the period from Machiavelli to the present, including such topics as democracy, equality, liberty, radical theories, and/or the rise of "scientific" political theory. Representative writers include Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, Kant, Marx and Heidegger.

279. Contemporary Political Theory. (4) An examination of representative twentieth century political thinkers such as Arendt, Dewey, Foucault, Rawls, and Weber.

Honors and Additional Courses

280. Political Science Methods. (4) An overview of the methods currently prominent in studying politics. Special attention will be given to the relationships between theory, method, and findings by focusing on the need to make empirical observation systematic.

284. Honors Study. (3) Directed study and research in preparation for a major paper on a subject of special interest to the student. Taken in the fall semester of the senior year by all candidates for departmental honors.

285. Honors Study. (2) Directed study toward completion of the project begun in Politics 284 and to the writing and defense of an honors paper. Taken in the spring semester of the senior year by all candidates for departmental honors. P—Politics 284.

287. Individual Study. (2,3, or 4) Intensive research leading to the completion of an analytical paper conducted under the direction of a faculty member. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—Permission of instructor.

288. Directed Reading. (1-4) Concentrated reading in an area of study not otherwise available. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—Permission of instructor.

289. Internship in Politics. (2,3, or 4) Field work in a public or private setting with related readings and an analytical paper under the direction of a faculty member. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. Normally one course in an appropriate subfield will have been taken prior to the internship. P—Permission of instructor.

Seminars

291. Seminar in American Politics. (4) Readings, research, and independent study on selected topics. P—Permission of instructor.

292. Seminar in Comparative Politics. (4) Readings, research, and independent study on selected topics. P—Permission of instructor.

293. Seminar in International Politics. (4) Readings, research, and independent study on selected topics. P—Permission of instructor.

294. Seminar in Political Philosophy. (4) Readings, research, and independent study on selected topics. P—Permission of instructor.

Psychology

Deborah L. Best, Chair

Wake Forest Professor John E. Williams

Professors Robert C. Beck, Deborah L. Best,

Robert H. Dufort, Mark R. Leary, Charles L. Richman

Associate Professors Terry D. Blumenthal, Dale Dagenbach,

Philippe R. Falkenberg, David Allen Hills, Catherine E. Seta, Cecilia H. Solano

Assistant Professors Christy M. Buchanan, Eric R. Stone

Adjunct Professor W. Jack Rejeski Jr.

Adjunct Associate Professors C. Drew Edwards, Jay R. Kaplan, Frank B. Wood

Adjunct Assistant Professors Phillip G. Batten, Sandra C. Chadwick,

Adjunct Instructor Stephen W. Davis

Psychology 151 is prerequisite to all courses of a higher number. Courses numbered below 151 do not count toward Division IV requirements or toward the major in psychology. Psychology 211, or special permission of the instructor, is prerequisite for all 300-level courses except 313, 335, 344, 357, 358, and 367.

It is recommended that students who are considering psychology as a major take Psychology 151 in their first year and Psychology 211 no later than the fall of their junior year. An average of C or higher in psychology courses is required at the time the major is elected. The major in psychology requires the completion of a minimum of forty credits in psychology, including 151, 211, 212, and 313. In addition, the major student must complete at least one course from each of the following groups: 320, 326, 329, 331, and 333; 341, 351, 355, and 362. No more than forty-eight psychology credits may be counted toward the graduation requirements of 144 credits.

The minor in psychology requires twenty credits in psychology including: 151; 210 or 211; at least two of the following courses, at least one of which must be at the 300-level—241, 245, 255, 260, 268, 320, 323, 326, 329, 331, 333, and 362.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to participate in the honors program in psychology. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Psychology," the student must complete satisfactorily a special sequence of courses (381, 383) and pass an oral or written examination. In addition, the honors student normally has a non-credit research apprenticeship with a faculty member. For more detailed information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

100. Learning to Learn. (2,3, or 4) A workshop designed primarily for first and second-year students who wish to improve their academic skills through the application of basic principles of learning, memory, organization, etc. Third- and fourth-year students by permission of the instructor only. No prerequisites. Pass/fail only.

102. Exploration of Career Planning. (2,3, or 4) Examination of educational/vocational planning as a personal process, based on knowledge of self and the work world. No prerequisite.

151. Introductory Psychology. (4) A systematic survey of psychology as the scientific study of behavior. Prerequisite to all courses of a higher number.

210. Methods in Psychological Research. (4) An introduction to statistics and research design for students minoring in psychology. P—Psychology 151 and permission of instructor. Fall only.

211, 212. Research Methods in Psychology. (5,5) Introduction to the design and statistical analysis of psychological research. Lab—twice weekly. P—Psychology 151 and permission of instructor.

239. Altered States of Consciousness. (4) Examination of altered states of consciousness with special reference to sleep and dreams, meditation, hypnosis, and drugs. P—Psychology 151.

241. Developmental Psychology. (4) Survey of physical, emotional, cognitive, and social development in humans from conception to death. P—Psychology 151.

245. Survey of Abnormal Behavior. (4) Study of problem behaviors such as depression, alcoholism, antisocial personality, the schizophrenias, and pathogenic personality patterns, with emphasis on causes, prevention, and the relationships of these disorders to normal lifestyles. P—Psychology 151.

250. Psychology Abroad. (4) The study of psychology in foreign countries. Content and travel plans vary from year to year depending upon interests of faculty and students. Usually offered in summer. P—Psychology 151.

255. Personality. (4) Survey of theory and research on the structure and function of human personality, with attention to the relationship to cognition, emotion, motivation, and behavior. P—Psychology 151.

260. Social Psychology. (4) A survey of the field, including theories of social behavior, interpersonal attraction, attitudes and attitude change, and group behavior. P—Psychology 151.

262. Prejudice, Discrimination, and Racism. (4) A comparison of cross-cultural similarities and differences in the initiation, maintenance, and treatment of prejudice, discrimination, and racism, with an emphasis on past and current trends in the United States. P—Psychology 151.

265. Human Sexuality. (4) An exploration of the psychological and physiological aspects of human sexuality, with attention to sexual mores, sexual deviances, sexual dysfunction, and sex-related roles. P—Psychology 151.

268. Psychology of Business and Industry. (4) Psychological principles and methods applied to problems commonly encountered in business and industry. P—Psychology 151.

270. Topics in Psychology. (1,2, or 3) The student selects from among a group of short one-credit courses dealing with topics of special interest. The courses meet sequentially, not concurrently, and options are offered in each portion of the semester. P—Psychology 151.

270A Child Development and Social Policy	270R The Human Factor: Designing Your Own World
270B Persuasion and Social Propaganda	270S Primate Cognition
270E Emotion	270U The Self and Social Behavior
270H Intelligence	270W Problem Solving and Decision Making
270J Memory	270X Psychobiology
270N Liking and Loving Relationships	270Y Women, Health, and Culture
270P Animal Flying Behavior	270Z Primate Models of Human Disorder

280. Directed Study. (1-4) Student research performed under faculty supervision. P—Psychology 151 and approval of faculty member prior to registration.

313. History and Systems of Psychology. (4) The development of psychological thought and research from ancient Greece to present trends, with emphasis on intensive examination of original sources. P—Two psychology courses beyond 151 or permission of instructor.

320. Physiological Psychology. (4) Neurophysiological and neuroanatomical explanations of behavior. P—Psychology 210 or 211 or permission of instructor.

322. Psychopharmacology. (4) A survey of the influences of a wide range of psychoactive drugs, both legal and illegal, on human physiology, cognition, and behavior. P—Psychology 151.

323. Animal Behavior. (4) A survey of laboratory and field research on animal behavior. This course may count as biology or psychology but not both; choice to be made at registration. P—Psychology or biology major or permission of instructor.

326. Learning Theory and Research. (4) Survey of concepts and research in learning, with particular emphasis on recent developments. P—Psychology 210 or 211.

329. Perception. (4) Survey of theory and research findings on various sensory systems (vision, hearing, touch, taste). P—Psychology 210 or 211.

331. Cognition. (4) Current theory and research in cognitive processes. Emphasis on memory, attention, visual and auditory information processing, concept identification/formation, and language. P—Psychology 210 or 211.

333. Motivation of Behavior. (4) Survey of basic motivational concepts and related evidence. P—Psychology 210 or 211.

335. Fundamentals of Human Motivation. (4) Description and analysis of some fundamental motivational phenomena, with special reference to human problems; includes reward and punishment, conflict anxiety, affection, needs for achievement and power, aggression, creativity, and curiosity. P—Psychology 151.

341. Research in Child Development. (4) Methodological issues and selected research in child development. Research projects required. P—Psychology 210 or 211.

344. Abnormal Psychology. (4) Descriptive analysis of the major types of abnormal behavior with attention to organic, psychological, and cultural causes and major modes of therapy. Offered in the summer. P—Psychology 151.

346. Psychological Disorders of Childhood. (4) Survey of problems including conduct disorders, attention deficits disorders, depression, and autism. Emphasis on causes, prevention, treatment, and the relationships of disorders to normal child development and family life. P—Psychology 245 or 344 or permission of instructor.

351. Personality Research. (4) The application of a variety of research procedures to the study of human personality. Research projects required. P—Psychology 210 or 211.

355. Research in Social Psychology. (4) Methodological issues and selected research in the study of the human as a social animal. Research projects required. P—Psychology 210 or 211.

357. Cross-Cultural Psychology. (4) An examination of differences in psychological processes (e.g., attitudes, perception, mental health, organizational behavior) associated with cultural variation. P—Psychology 151.

359. Psychology of Gender. (4) An exploration of the psychological similarities and differences between human males and females, including consideration of social, cognitive, motivational, biological, and developmental determinants of behavior. P—Psychology 151.

362. Psychological Tests and Measurements. (4) Theory and application of psychological assessment procedures in the areas of intelligence, aptitude, vocational interest, and personality. P—Psychology 210 or 211.

363. Survey of Clinical Psychology. (4) An overview of the field of clinical psychology. P—Psychology 245 and senior standing or permission of instructor.

367. Effectiveness in Parent/Child Relations. (4) A survey of popular approaches to child-rearing, with examination of the research literature on parent/child interaction and actual training in parental skills. P—Psychology 151.

381. Honors Seminar. (3) Seminar on selected problems in psychology. Intended primarily for students in the departmental honors program. P—Psychology 211 and permission of instructor.

383. Honors Research. (3) Seminar in selected issues in research design, followed by independent empirical research under the supervision of a member of the departmental faculty. P—Psychology 211 and permission of instructor.

392. Contemporary Problems in Psychology. (4) Seminar treatment of current theory and research in several "frontier" areas of psychology. Principally for senior majors planning to attend graduate school. P—Psychology 211 and senior standing.

Religion

Ralph C. Wood Jr., Chair

Albritton Professor of the Bible Fred L. Horton Jr.

John Easley Professor of Religion Ralph C. Wood Jr.

University Professor James A. Martin

Adjunct Associate Professor Mark Jensen

Assistant Professors Simeon Ilesanmi, Ulrike Wiethaus

The department offers courses designed to give every student an opportunity to acquire at least an introduction to the field of religion.

A course in religion is required for all degrees. Any four credits at the 100-level offered by the department is accepted to meet the Division III requirement.

A major in religion requires a minimum of thirty-two credits, at least half of which must be in courses above the 100-level.

A minor in religion requires twenty credits, eight of which must be above the 100-level. The required courses may include one pass/fail course if the course is offered on the pass/fail basis only. The department will provide advisers for students electing the minor in religion.

Pre-seminary students are advised to include in their program of study, in addition to courses in religion, courses in psychology, history, public speaking, and at least two languages (Hebrew, Greek, Latin, German, or French).

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in religion. To graduate with the designation, "Honors in Religion," a student must apply to the department chair for admission to the honors program, normally by February of the junior year. Upon completion of all the requirements, the candidate may graduate with "Honors in Religion." For additional information, consult any member of the departmental faculty.

101. Introduction to Religion. (4) A study of meaning and value as expressed in religious experience, thought, and practice.

111. Introduction to the Old Testament. (4) A survey of the Old Testament designed to introduce the student to the history, literature, and religion of the ancient Hebrews.

112. Introduction to the New Testament. (4) A survey of the literature of the New Testament in the context of early Christian history.

120. Introduction to the Bible. (4) A consideration of prominent themes found in the Old and New Testaments.

Philip J. Perricone, Chair

Wake Forest Professor Charles F. Longino

Professors John R. Earle, Catherine T. Harris,

Willie Pearson Jr., Philip J. Perricone

Associate Professors H. Kenneth Bechtel, Cheryl B. Leggon, Ian M. Taplin

Visiting Assistant Professor Doug Pryor

Visiting Instructors Ralph B. McNeal Jr., Teresa R. Smith

A major in sociology requires thirty-seven credits and must include Sociology 151, 371, and 372. A minimum average of 2.0 in sociology courses is required at the time the major is declared. A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in all sociology courses is required for graduation.

A minor in sociology requires twenty credits and must include Sociology 151 and 371. A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in sociology courses is required at the time the minor is declared. A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in sociology courses is required for certification as a minor. Students who intend to pursue a sociology minor are encouraged to notify the department early in their junior year, and they are invited to participate in all departmental functions.

The program in sociology provides majors with several options. In addition to pursuing a regular major in sociology, students may choose to specialize in any of four concentrations: 1) family studies, 2) crime, law, and social control, 3) health and society, and 4) business and society. These concentrations are described in detail in the Handbook for Sociology Students, a copy of which may be obtained from the sociology office or any member of the departmental faculty.

To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Sociology," highly qualified majors are invited to apply to the department for admission to the honors program. They must complete a senior research project, document their research, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For additional information members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

A student who selects sociology to fulfill the Division IV requirement must take one of the following courses: Sociology 151, 152, 153, or 154. No introductory-level course is required for students taking a sociology course as an elective unless such a prerequisite is specified in the course description.

151. Principles of Sociology. (4) General introduction to the field; social organization and disorganization, socialization, culture, social change, and other aspects. Required for all sociology majors and minors.

152. Social Problems. (4) Survey of contemporary American social problems.

153. Marriage and the Family. (4) The social basis of the family, emphasizing the problems growing out of modern conditions and social change.

154. The Sociology of Deviant Behavior. (4) A sociological analysis of the nature and causes of and societal reaction to deviant behavior patterns such as mental illness, suicide, drug and alcohol addiction, sexual deviation, and criminal behavior.

205. Photography in the Social Sciences. (4) Explores the use of photography as a research technique for the social sciences; camera and darkroom instruction included. Lab to be arranged. Not open to students who have had Art 119. P—Permission of instructor.

Theater

Donald H. Wolfe, Chair

Professors James H. Dodding, Harold C. Tedford, Donald H. Wolfe

Adjunct Professor Darwin R. Payne

Adjunct Assistant Professor R. Craig Hamilton

Instructor and Director of Dance Rebecca Myers

Adjunct Instructor Sharon Andrews

Lecturers Zanna Beswick (London), Jonathan H. Christman,

John E. R. Friedenberg, Patricia W. Toole, Mary R. Wayne

A major in theater consists of a minimum of forty credits, at least eight of which must be at the 300-level. This includes a required core of thirty-six credits: Theater 110 or 112, 140, 150, 250, 251 or 252, 260, 261, 340, 381 and 385. (Students interested in a theater major should elect Theater 112.) Four semesters of Theater 100 (0 credits) also are required. Majors may choose their remaining courses from the offerings listed under the Department of Theater. A minimum grade of 2.0 in all theater courses attempted is required for graduation. Majors should consult with their advisers about additional regulations. Theater majors are required to take two courses in dramatic literature from the Departments of English or Classical Languages or from Humanities.

Those who plan to be theater majors are urged to begin their studies during their first year.

Highly qualified majors (departmental GPA of 3.3, overall GPA of 3.0) are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in theater. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Theater," a student must successfully complete Theater 292 (4). Honors projects may consist of a) a research paper of exceptional quality; b) a creative project in playwriting or design; or c) a directing or acting project. The theater honors project must be presented and defended before the departmental Honors Committee. The department can furnish honors candidates complete information on preparation and completion of projects.

A minor in theater requires twenty-four credits: Theater 110 or 112, 140, 150, 260 or 261, two theater electives and two semesters of Theater 100 participation. Theater minors are required to take one course in dramatic literature from the Departments of English or Classical Languages or from Humanities.

Any person who is interested in a theater major or minor should contact the chair of the department soon after arrival on the campus.

100. Participation. (0) Attendance/participation in Mainstage and Studio performances; and other events as established by the department. (Specific attendance/participation requirements will be established at the beginning of each semester.) Four semesters, or a minimum of eight University Theater productions, are required of theater majors. Students intending to minor in Urban Studies should consult the coordinator as early as possible to discuss scheduling of courses not offered annually, approvals required to take the course offered at Salem College, advice on careers in urban studies, and other issues. No additional cost is involved for the Salem College course, and the grade for the course is evaluated as if earned at Wake Forest. In exceptional cases, the coordinator may approve limited substitutions for the listed courses.

Women's Studies

Mary K. DeShazer (English), Coordinator

The interdisciplinary minor in Women's Studies requires the core course, Women's Studies 221, and a minimum of twenty additional credits, for a total of twenty-four credits. It is recommended that the upper division seminar, Women's Studies 321, be included. If courses not designated Women's Studies are taken, they must be balanced between the humanities and the social sciences/sciences and among departments. This structure gives students an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of Women's Studies within the context of the traditional liberal arts curriculum.

A student minoring in Women's Studies might take Women's Studies 221 as a sophomore, eight to twelve credits as a junior, and the remaining eight to twelve credits, including the Seminar in Women's Studies, as a senior.

121. Introduction to Women's Studies. (4) An interdisciplinary course, taught by faculty representing at least two fields, that integrates materials from the humanities and the social sciences. Topics include methods and goals of women's studies, feminist critical theory, and the place of women in culture and society.

321. Seminar in Women's Studies. (4) Consideration of theoretical and methodological questions and research in one of these areas: women's health issues, feminist theory, war and peace, etc.

350. Biocultural Perspectives on Women and Aging. (4) A course that examines biological, sociopsychological, and cultural issues affecting older women.

358. Mothers and Daughters. (4) A course that examines literature, psychology, and feminist theories on motherhood and the mother-daughter relationship.

359. Fathers and Daughters. (4) The ways in which fathers influence their daughters' emotional, psychological, and intellectual development. Selected materials from psychology, mythology, film, and contemporary literature.

377. Special Topics in Women's Studies. (4,3) Includes such topics as Jewish-American women writers, African-American women writers, and feminist pedagogy.

396. Independent Study. (1-4) Independent projects in women's studies which either continue study begun in regular courses or develop new areas of interest. By prearrangement.

397. Internships in Women's Studies. (2-4) Practicum opportunities for work and for research in conjunction with a local women's or justice organization: Winston-Salem Family Services, NOW, Council on the Status of Women, the North Carolina Center for Laws Affecting Women, the AIDS Task Force, etc. Pass/fail only.

In addition to the Women's Studies courses listed above, the following courses may be included in the minor. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Mission

The mission of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy is to provide students with an excellent business and professional accounting education within the framework of the liberal arts tradition of Wake Forest University. The Calloway School's distinctiveness in the pursuit of this mission derives from the size, reputation, and location of the University; the primary emphasis upon undergraduate and professional education within a separate school; and business and accounting curriculums which stress knowledge and skills in the various functional areas of business blending with the extensive liberal arts curriculum of the University.

In implementing this commitment to quality education, highly effective teaching is of paramount importance. Teaching is complemented by research which provides new perspectives to be shared by students and colleagues.

The ultimate goal of the Calloway School is to graduate young men and women who are technically competent and who have the ability to assume managerial and leadership positions in business, government, and other organizations.

Objectives

The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy has four specific objectives:

1. to offer sound academic programs in business leading to the bachelor of science degree and in professional accountancy leading to the master of science degree;
2. to undertake on a continuous basis the professional development of its faculty;
3. to serve the University community; and
4. to maintain a productive association with the public, especially the business community.

Two four-year programs of study leading to the bachelor of science degree are offered. Students may choose a major in either business or analytical finance and accounting. A five-year program of study leading to a bachelor of science and a master of science degree with a major in professional accountancy also is offered.

The five-year program is an integrated BS/MS program in accountancy. Interested students will declare an accountancy major during their sophomore year and will apply to the master's program during their third year. Students will receive both the BS and the MS degrees upon completion of the program. The program is designed for the student seeking a career in public accounting and wishing to become a CPA.

Students who do not wish to pursue the master's degree and a career in public accounting will have the option of the four-year baccalaureate program in analytical finance and accounting. The four-year program will be designed to prepare students for accounting or finance positions not requiring the CPA designation, in corporate or not-for-profit organizations.

Goals

The primary goal of the business program is to provide a general study of business which will enable graduates to enter the business world with a breadth of understanding of relevant business problems and concepts. The general, as opposed to specialized, orientation of the major in business is appropriate for Wake Forest in light of both its strong liberal arts tradition and its small size.

The primary goal of the analytical finance and accounting program of study is to provide students with a thorough understanding of the accounting and finance functions of business, especially as they relate to one another, preparing the students for careers in such fields as management accounting, financial services, and investment banking.

The major goal of the five-year professional accountancy program is to give students a thorough understanding of the practice of professional accounting and of the theoretical framework which supports the practice of professional accounting. Skills necessary to address ill-defined and/or unstructured practice problems are developed in a series of case-based research and analysis courses. In addition, opportunities exist within the program of study to enhance awareness of practice issues on both a domestic and international level through a professional internship program and an international study tour program.

Both the business and accountancy programs are accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business.

Admission

Admission to the Calloway School is by formal application, and applicants will be screened by the Committee on Admission and Continuation of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Before being considered for admission to the Calloway School, the applicant first must have been admitted to Wake Forest College. Minimum requirements for admission to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy are completion of sixty-five credits with an overall grade-point average of 2.2, completion of Economics 150, Mathematics 108 or 111, Accounting 111 and 112, and a 2.0 average in these four courses. In addition, students should have completed Business 100 and Speech 110. Students who have not met fully the above requirements may request a one-semester provisional acceptance.

The number of students who can be accommodated is limited. Meeting the minimum requirements is not a guarantee of admission. Therefore, the Calloway School reserves the right to grant or deny admission or readmission to any student even though he or she meets the minimum requirements. Readmission to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy first requires readmission to Wake Forest College, requirements for which are discussed on page 30.

Transfer of Credit from Other Schools

It is expected that most work toward degrees offered by the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will be taken in the Calloway School. For students wishing to transfer credit from other schools, the following general guidelines apply:

- (a) Courses at another school passed with the minimum passing grade at that school may not be transferred.
- (b) Courses transferred in business and accountancy may be subject to validating examinations.
- (c) No work in courses numbered 200 and above will be accepted from two-year schools.
- (d) Courses taken elsewhere in subjects not offered at the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will not necessarily count towards the credits required in the Calloway School.
- (e) Only one course so transferred may be an elective unless such course is from an international program approved by Wake Forest University, in which case two such electives may be so transferred.
- (f) Business 271 cannot be transferred from another institution; it must be taken in the Calloway School.

For the BS in business, a minimum of forty credits must be earned in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy at Wake Forest University; for the BS in analytical finance and accounting or professional accountancy, the minimum credits earned in the Calloway School must total fifty-two.

Requirements for Continuation

In addition to the requirements stated on pages 29-30, a student must be academically responsible and must show satisfactory progress towards completing the requirements for the degree. The administration of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will notify the student if satisfactory progress is not being made and, after consultation with the Admission and Continuation Committee, will decide if the student may continue as a major in the Calloway school.

Requirements for Graduation

The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy confers the bachelor of science degree with a major in either business or analytical finance and accounting. The Calloway School also confers the master of science degree (concurrently with the bachelor of science degree) in professional accountancy. The requirements for completion of the degrees are those in effect at the time the student enters the Calloway School. For the major in business, a student must complete the following course work: Accounting 111 and 112; Business 100, 201, 203, 211, 221, 231, 241, 251, 252, 261, and 271; Economics 150; Mathematics 108 or 111; Speech 110; and a minimum of twelve credits from Business 209, 212, 213, 215, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 242, 253, 254, 262, 290, 291, 293 or accounting courses numbered 200 or above. One elective may be taken from economics courses numbered 200 or above.

The analytical finance and accounting major requires the following courses: Accounting 111, 112, 211, 212, and 321; Business 100, 201, 211, 221, 231, 232, 234, 235, 237, 241, 251, 261, and 271; Economics 150; Mathematics 108 or 111; and Speech 110.

For the combined bachelor of science / master of science degree in professional accountancy, the following course work must be completed: Accounting 111, 112, 211, 212, 313, 321, 331, 351, 414, 415, 432, 452, and 453; Business 100, 201, 211, 221, 231, 237, 241, 251, 261, 462, and 271; Economics 150; Mathematics 108 or 111; and Speech 110.

In addition to the courses stipulated above, the student in business and accountancy also must meet the following requirements for graduation:

- (a) a minimum of 144 credits for the four-year programs and 176 credits for the five-year program, including the basic and divisional requirements established by Wake Forest College;
- (b) a minimum grade-point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at Wake Forest;
- (c) a minimum grade-point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at other institutions; and
- (d) an overall 2.0 grade-point average on all business and accountancy courses.

Senior Honors Program

Students with a grade-point average of at least 3.0 on all college work and who are eligible for membership in Beta Gamma Sigma are invited to apply for admission to the honors program in business and accountancy. A project, paper, or readings, and an oral examination are required. Those who successfully complete the requirements specified by the School are graduated with the designation "Honors in Business" or "Honors in Accountancy." For additional information, interested students should consult a member of the faculty of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Beta Gamma Sigma, National Honor Society

Membership in Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest national recognition a student can receive in an undergraduate program in accounting or business. To be eligible for membership, a student must rank in the upper 7 percent of the junior class or the upper 10 percent of the senior class.

Courses of Instruction

Business
